INTRODUCTION

1. This decision is made on behalf of the Auckland Council (“the Council”) by Independent Hearing Commissioners Karyn Kurzeja (Chairperson), Dr Stephanie Mead, Juliane Chetham, Kitt Littlejohn and Richard Knott appointed and acting under delegated authority under sections 34 and 34A of the Resource Management Act 1991 (“the RMA”).
2. The Commissioners have been given delegated authority by the Council to make a decision on Plan Change 81 (“PC 81”) to the Auckland Council Unitary Plan Operative in Part (“AUP-OP”) after considering all the submissions, the section 32 evaluation, the reports prepared by the officers for the hearing and evidence presented during and after the hearing of submissions.
3. PC 81 is a Council-initiated plan change that has been prepared following the standard RMA Schedule 1 process (that is - the plan change is not the result of an alternative, 'streamlined' or 'collaborative' process as enabled under the RMA).
4. The plan change was publicly notified on 18 August 2022 following a feedback process involving Iwi, as required by Clause 4A of Schedule 1. Notification involved a public notice as well as letters to directly affected landowners and occupiers alerting them to the plan change. The latter step was aimed at ensuring that landowners and occupiers of properties affected by potentially significant changes were made aware of the changes.
5. The submission period closed on the 29 September 2022. A summary of submissions was notified for further submissions on 5 December 2022. A total of 53 submissions (one of which was late) and one further submission was made on the plan change.

SUMMARY OF PLAN CHANGE

6. The proposed plan change was described in detail in the section 42A hearing report. Specifically, the purpose of PC 81 is to:

“recognise the values of 11 historic heritage places (seven individual historic heritage places and four historic heritage areas) by adding them to Schedule 14.1 and the plan maps, thereby making them subject to the provisions of the Historic Heritage Overlay.”

7. PC 81 was one of five plan changes and two variations notified¹ on the 18 August 2022. The following was notified:
 - it adds seven places to Table 1 Places of Schedule 14.1;
 - it adds four areas to Table 2 Areas of Schedule 14.1;
 - it amends Schedule 14.2 to add statements of significance and maps for the four proposed historic heritage areas; and
 - it amends the plan maps to show the extent of place for each place and area.
8. PC 81 does not seek to amend any objectives and policies in the Unitary Plan. Nor does it seek to introduce any new objectives, policies, rules or zoning to the Unitary Plan. The Unitary Plan policy approach and its purpose and function are not changed by PC 81, and this report does not evaluate the unchanged purpose and functions.
9. Section 4 - Background to and Development of the Plan Change and section 5 – Summary of Plan Change 81 have clearly addressed those matters – and we have not repeated them further here.

MAIN ISSUES RAISED BY SUBMISSIONS

10. The main issues or topics raised in the submissions included:
 - Support the plan change (general or no specific place)
 - Oppose the plan change (no specific place)
 - Support a place being added to Schedule 14
 - Oppose a place being added to Schedule 14
 - Amendments to the Extent of Place
 - Addition of other places to Schedule 14
 - Other amendments to Schedule 14
 - Issues considered to be out of scope of PC 81

¹ Plan change 79: Amendments to the transport provisions, Plan change 80: RPS Well-Functioning Urban Environment, Resilience to the Effects of Climate Change and Qualifying Matters, Proposed Plan Change 81: Additions to Schedule 14 Historic Heritage Schedule, Proposed Plan Change 82: Amendments to Schedule 14 Historic Heritage Schedule, Proposed Plan Change 83: Additions and amendments to Schedule 10 Notable Trees Schedule, Variation 4 to PC60: Open Space and Other Rezoning Matters and Variation 5 to PC66 (Private): 57 and 57A Schnapper Rock Road.

LOCAL BOARD VIEWS

11. The section 42A Report provided² the feedback from the Local Boards. We do not repeat the Local Board comments, and to the extent we are able, we have taken them into account in making our decision.

SCOPE – ARE SUBMISSIONS “ON” PC 81

12. Prior to addressing the statutory provisions and the submissions, and our decisions on them, we address the issue of scope. The Council’s position on scope was addressed in its opening legal submissions. We do not fully agree with them, and set out our position on scope below.
13. The issue of the scope of submissions (if they are “on” the plan change) has been well canvassed in legal submissions and evidence before the Hearing Panel, from both the Council and various submitters. While the Council (and submitters) can have a view on scope, it is the Hearing Panel that determines if a submission (or part of a submission) is in scope or not.
14. The legal principles relevant to determining whether a submission is “on” a plan change (in scope) are well-settled. They are not repeated here in any detail³. Very briefly, determining the issue of scope involves addressing the following two questions (also referred to as ‘limbs’):
 - a. Whether the submission addresses the change to the status quo advanced by the plan change; and
 - b. Whether there is a real risk that persons potentially affected by such a change have been denied an effective opportunity to participate in the plan change process.
15. Determining the first question requires an understanding of the status quo affected by the plan change. This must be derived from a review of the relevant section 32 report and the changes actually proposed to the plan. Although local authorities promoting discrete changes to their plans invariably focus on the specific changes proposed, with the objective of limiting the scope of the plan change and thus submissions that are permissible under the first limb, the actual status quo that is being addressed must be determined by reference to the nature and context of the notified change. In the case of each of PC 81, 82 and 83, where the proposed changes are to add, delete or amend line items to, from or within specific AUP schedules, it is those actions undertaken to or within that component of the AUP that set the status quo being changed and the nature of the changes. Submissions seeking relief of a similar kind (add, delete or amend), to the same part of the plan, will be “on” the plan change for the purposes of the first test in the Hearing Panel’s view.

³ Refer to our PC 78 Interim Guidance on this matter

16. Whether or not the submission relief passes the second limb, involves other 'natural justice' factors. That is, on a case-by-case basis, the potential for a 'submissional sidewind', i.e., a without notice impact on a third party's rights, may nonetheless render an otherwise fairly and reasonably made submission point unable to be accepted.
17. For the purposes of PC 81, we have considered all but the final submission point listed in Appendix 6⁴ of the section 42A report as 'out-of-scope' as they fail to meet the first limb test set out above. With regards to submission 52.1 by Devonport Heritage we understand the Council's position with regards to the first limb of Motor Machinists, and we consider that despite not addressing one of the 11 historic heritage places (seven individual historic heritage places and four historic heritage areas (HHA)), PC 81 does propose to add heritage places and areas to Schedule 14, and submission 52.1 does seek to add an historic heritage area to schedule 14. We consider that PC 81 is the most appropriate plan change to consider the relief sought in submission 52.1⁵, as PC 81 involves additions to the heritage schedule. However, we do note that Counsel for Devonport Heritage did appear to concede that the East Harbour case cited in the Council Submissions may be directly on point.⁶
18. The Panel is of the opinion that submission 52.1 fails the second limb of Motor Machinists. There are approximately 50 properties that the Historic Heritage Area (HHA) proposed by Devonport Heritage would apply over. Devonport Heritage did not provide details of any consultation undertaken with any of the landowners, occupiers or other potentially directly affected persons of the proposed HHA. In addition, we note that no further submissions were filed in response to submission 52.1.⁷ As a result, we find that there is a real risk that persons directly affected by the additional changes proposed in submission 52.1 have been denied an effective opportunity to respond and as a consequence, the submission point is not "on" PC 81.

THE HEARING PROCESS AND EVIDENCE

19. The hearing was held on 9th - 10th May 2023.
20. Prior to hearing from submitters, the hearing panel asked clarification questions of the Council's legal counsel and reporting officers. This included the scope issues and why these 11 places were selected for PC 81. We address these matters below under the submission topic headings.

⁷ Council's legal submissions on scope issues in relation to Devonport Heritage's submission 52.1, paragraph 15.

21. Four submitters attended the hearing and presented to us. Parly Assets Limited – landowner of the former Auckland Masonic Temple provided evidence seeking their main relief that the building should not be scheduled. Further, in the event it was scheduled, then only the street front elevation to a depth of 6m should be scheduled and the surrounds not be scheduled.
22. Andrew Gibson, Mark Palmer and Mutsuko Yamazaki, Julie Smith and Mace Ward presented a joint case to decline the Jervois Road Streamline Moderne/Art Deco Block HHA, although the focus of their case was to identify their properties as non-contributing within the HHA. Whereas the Herne Bay Residents’ Association and Marian Kohler presented joint evidence which sought to retain these submitters properties within the new historic heritage area.
23. The Catholic Diocese of Auckland provided legal submissions and evidence in relation to two properties; the first involved opposition to the inclusion of St Benedict’s Convent within Schedule 14, and in the event the building was scheduled - a reduced extent of place as well as further exclusions, with the latter involving a reduced extent of their property at 83 Pūhoi Road, as a part of the proposed Pūhoi HHA.
24. Kāinga Ora – Homes and Communities (Kāinga Ora) submitted a Memorandum⁸ stating:
- Kāinga Ora wishes to acknowledge the further work carried out by the Council in considering the matters raised in the primary submission of Kāinga Ora. In particular:*
- (a) Kāinga Ora agrees with the recommendations of the reporting officer in relation to the Proposed Lawry Settlement Workers’ Historic Heritage Area (HHA); and*
- (b) Kāinga Ora acknowledges that the reporting officer has not accepted the submission points in relation to the Proposed Parkfield Terrace HHA and while Kāinga Ora maintains its position it does not intend to submit evidence on this point.*
- In light of the above, we can confirm that Kāinga Ora does not intend to submit expert evidence or attend the hearing for PC81.*
25. No other submitters tabled or presented evidence to us. In the absence of any evidence or further information, we have largely accepted the recommendations of the expert planners as set out in the section 42A report, which included a section 32AA evaluation. Where we have disagreed with the planners’ view, we have set that out below.

RELEVANT STATUTORY PROVISIONS CONSIDERED

26. The RMA sets out an extensive set of requirements for the formulation of plans and changes to them. We do not need to repeat the contents of the Plan Change Request and the section 32 Assessment Report in any detail, as they were set out in the section 42A report, and we address the merits of those below. We accept the appropriate requirements for the formulation of a plan change have been satisfactorily addressed in the material before us.
27. We also note that the section 32 Evaluation Report, and the section 32AA Evaluation Report prepared by the council planners, clarifies that the analysis of efficiency and effectiveness of the plan change is to be at a level of detail that corresponds to the scale and significance of the environmental, economic, social, and cultural effects that are anticipated from the implementation of the proposal. Having considered the application and the evidence, we are satisfied that PC 81 has been developed in accordance with the relevant statutory requirements.
28. Clauses 10 and 29 of Schedule 1 require that this decision must include the reasons for accepting or rejecting submissions. We address these matters below, as well as setting out our reasons for accepting or rejecting the submissions. As stated, these are largely those set out in the section 42A report.
29. Section 32AA of the RMA requires a further evaluation for any changes that are proposed to the notified plan change after the section 32 evaluation was carried out⁹. This further evaluation must be undertaken at a level of detail that corresponds to the scale and significance of the changes¹⁰. In our view this decision, which among other things, addresses the modifications we have made to the provisions of PC 81, satisfies our section 32AA obligations.
30. We also note that we must include a further evaluation of any proposed changes to the Plan Change arising from submissions; with that evaluation to be undertaken in accordance with section 32AA of the RMA. With regard to that section, the evidence presented by the Applicant, Submitters and Council Officers, including the section 32AA included by the council's planner (which we adopt), and this report, including the changes we have made, effectively represents that assessment.

OUR DECISIONS/FINDINGS ON THE SUBMISSIONS

Submission and our decisions

31. We address the submissions below – with any amendments to PC 81 addressed as follows (for ease of understanding) the amendments made:

⁹ RMA, section 32AA(1)(a)

¹⁰ RMA, section 32AA(1)(c)

- Changes in the notified PC 81 are shown in ~~strikethrough~~ and underline; and
 - Pink text changes show amendments to PC 81 that we have made based upon submissions received and are shown as ~~strikethrough~~ and underline.
32. The amendments to PC 81 are collated and shown in Attachment A (Amendments to Schedule 14.1), Attachment B (Amendments proposed to Planning maps) and Attachment C (Amendments to Statements of Significance).
33. With respect to further submissions, they can only support or oppose an initial submission. Our decision on the further submission points reflects our decisions on those initial submissions having regard, of course, to any relevant new material provided in that further submission. For example, if a further submission supports a submission(s) that opposes the Plan Change and we have determined that the initial submission(s) be rejected, then it follows that the further submission is also rejected.

Findings

34. The submissions in the table above support, or support in part the plan change, without referring to a specific historic heritage place or places, or support all the historic heritage places being included in Schedule 14.1 and the plan maps, in recognition of their heritage values.
35. The submissions marked with * in the table above indicate where the submitter has other submission points seeking approval with amendments or submission points relating to a specific place. Submission points relating to a specific place are addressed later in this decision.
36. Submitters generally noted the importance of protecting heritage places as being important to the City, including the addition of more heritage places to Schedule 14.1.
37. Where a place has been evaluated and found to meet the AUP eligibility criteria to be identified in Schedule 14.1, we consider this to be the most appropriate way of managing the heritage place.

Decisions on submissions

38. Submissions 12.1, 22.2, 29.1, 32.1, 33.1, 39.1, 41.2, 42.1, 45.1, 47.4 and 50.1, which generally support PC 81, are accepted in part, subject to other submissions seeking specific amendments to specific historic heritage places in PC 81.

SUBMISSIONS OPPOSING PC 81 (GENERAL OR NO SPECIFIC PLACE)

Sub. No.	Name of Submitter	Summary of the Relief Sought	Further Submissions	Planner's Recommendation
11.1	Kirsty	Historic homes should not be able to be demolished and replaced with units etc.	None	Reject
37.1	Geoffrey John Beresford	Withdraw the plan change / significant adverse effects on the environment in terms of ... (ii) loss of heritage/character.	None	Reject

Findings

39. The submissions in the table above oppose PC 81 as notified. Neither of these submissions seek any further or additional decisions or amendments.
40. Submission 11.1 (Kirsty) opposes the provisions of PC 81 and seeks to have PC 81 declined as the submitter considers we need to preserve and respect Auckland's history.
41. Submission 37.1 (Geoffrey John Beresford) seeks that the plan change be withdrawn (declined), without referring to a specific heritage place. It is a generic submission that has been made to this plan change as well as plan changes 78, 79, 80, 82 and 83. One of the general reasons given is that the changes will generate significant adverse effects on the environment in terms of several matters, including 'loss of heritage/character'. The submission seeks specific changes to PC 80 but not to PC 81.
42. While the submitter's views are acknowledged, it is not considered appropriate that PC 81 is withdrawn. PC 81 (subject to recommended amendments) is appropriate as it seeks to add historic heritage places to Schedule 14.1 and the plan maps, in recognition of their heritage values so that they are appropriately managed.

Decision on submissions

43. That submissions 11.1 and 37.1 are rejected.

SUBMISSIONS FROM HERITAGE NEW ZEALAND POUHERE TAONGA (NOT RELATING TO A SPECIFIC PLACE)

Sub. No.	Name of Submitter	Summary of the Relief Sought	Further Submissions	Planner's Recommendation
45.4	Heritage New Zealand Pouhere Taonga	That the plan change be approved with modifications as necessary to ensure any exclusions proposed will not impede the ability to consider the place as a whole, and/or prevent the potential for reversal of past unsympathetic modifications and the restoration and recovery of identified heritage values associated with these places.	None	Accept in part
45.5	Heritage New Zealand Pouhere Taonga	That where items added to the Schedule of Historic Heritage that are also on the Heritage New Zealand List/Rārangi Kōrero Heritage NZ would seek that the listing number be included as information on the schedule for ease of identification and direction to users of the plan.	None	Reject

Exclusions and approach to interiors

44. The table above summarises submissions received on PC 81 from Heritage New Zealand Pouhere Taonga (Heritage NZ) where the submission does not relate to a specific historic heritage place and/or is not included in another section in this report.
45. Where a Heritage NZ submission point relates to a specific historic heritage place, these are discussed in the following separate sections in this decision.
46. Submission 45.4 seeks the plan change be approved, subject to the modifications necessary to ensure any exclusions proposed will not impede the ability to consider the (historic heritage) place as a whole and/or prevent the potential for reversal of past unsympathetic modifications and the restoration and recovery of identified heritage values associated with these places.
47. Submission 45.4 does not request any specific amendments or relief although paragraph 5.2 of the submission notes that in accordance with good heritage practice, and as acknowledged in the Section 32 Report, it is Heritage NZ's view that potential future changes to these places should be considered in relation to the effects on the whole of the place, including interiors. Heritage NZ accept that modifications have been made to some of the original fabric and features over time, but comprehensive scheduling permits assessment of past and future change on all elements of the place and is inclusive to the possibility of reversing previously changed elements and potential restoration.

48. We note that the AUP directs the identification of features that do not contribute to or may detract from the values for which the historic heritage place has been scheduled.¹¹ We consider this provides for an appropriate management regime, particularly where there is no need to require an application for resource consent to manage effects on the heritage values of the place. Almost all places included in PC 81 have exclusions listed in Schedule 14.1 for the reasons detailed in the evaluations and the Section 32 Report.

49. The Methodology acknowledges several reasons why it may not be appropriate to include the interior of a building in Schedule 14.1, particularly if it has not been viewed, or if the interior has been modified to an extent that its contribution to the identified values of the place has been lost. The Methodology also provides guidance on excluding/including parts of an interior of a building:

“In some circumstances, it may be appropriate to include portions of an interior. Piecemeal inclusion of individual features is generally discouraged (for example, ‘the pressed metal ceilings’ or ‘the main staircase’) but may be appropriate in some circumstances.”

50. PC 81 proposes to exclude the majority of interiors of buildings. Only two historic heritage places have part of the interior of the primary feature not listed as an exclusion:

- i. In the case of Ceramic House (former), the interior is proposed to be scheduled, but recent modifications have been excluded. These exclusions are readily identified and have been assessed as having no historic heritage value.
- ii. In the case of St Benedict’s Convent (former) the interior of the first floor of the convent building is recommended to be scheduled, but the entire laundry building (built in 1962) and the interior of the second floor of the convent building have been excluded.

51. We agree with Ms Richmond that interiors should not be scheduled if it cannot be established that they would meet the AUP eligibility criteria. This requires a recent visual inspection of the interiors of the heritage place, or in exceptional circumstances, recent evidence provided by others may be accepted. This could include photographs, building consent drawings, heritage impact assessments or conservation plans. This evidence must be recent as the interiors of the places proposed to be included in PC 81 can be modified without resource consent. We note that no such evidence has been provided by Heritage NZ.

¹¹ AUP, B5.2.2 (5) and Chapter D17.1 Background

Heritage NZ List/ Rārangī Kōrero

52. Submission 45.5 seeks the plan change be amended to identify in Schedule 14.1 where a historic heritage place is also on the Heritage NZ List/ Rārangī Kōrero (the List).
53. The List identifies New Zealand's significant and valued historical and cultural heritage places. Heritage NZ is required to continue and maintain the list, which is the same as the register established under section 22 of the Historic Places Act 1993.
54. We agree with Ms Richmond that including the Heritage NZ listing number as information in Schedule 14.1 may assist plan users to identify places that are also listed with Heritage NZ. However, the Panel does not consider it is appropriate for the following reasons:
- amendments to include new places in the List would require amendments to the AUP to ensure Schedule 14.1 is up to date;
 - the List is a different tool than Schedule 14.1; it is governed by different legislation (the Heritage New Zealand Pouhere Taonga Act 2014) and places managed under that Act and the AUP are not subject to the same rules;
 - information about places within the List is available online via Heritage NZ's website via a searchable format; and
 - advisory text is included in the AUP Chapter D17 and in the introduction to Schedule 14.1 to inform plan users that scheduled historic heritage places may also be included in the List.
55. We consider it is not necessary to add to this information by including Heritage NZ List numbers in Schedule 14.1.

Decision on submissions

56. That submission 45.4 is accepted in part and 45.5 is rejected.

SUBMISSIONS FROM KĀINGA ORA (SUPPORT IN PART)

Sub. No.	Name of Submitter	Summary of the Relief Sought	Further Submissions	Planner's Recommendation
46.1	Kāinga Ora	Kainga Ora supports PC 81 in part and seeks amendments as set out in subsequent submission points.	None	Accept in part

57. Submission 46.1 from Kāinga Ora – Homes & Communities (Kāinga Ora) supports in part PC 81, subject to the amendments as set out in subsequent submission points 46.2 and 46.3. Submission points 46.2 (Lawry Settlement Workers' Housing HHA) and 46.3 (Parkfield Terrace HHA) are addressed under each of the relevant subheadings later in this decision.

58. Submission 46.1 from Kāinga Ora supports the plan change, notably the process of identification and scheduling of historic heritage places where a thorough evidence-based assessment has been undertaken and concludes that identified heritage values hold considerable or outstanding historical significance, such that protection is warranted in accordance with Section 6(f) of the RMA.
59. Ms Richmond confirmed¹² that the historic heritage places proposed to be included in Schedule 14.1 were assessed using the Methodology, which provided a basis for a thorough evidence-based assessment.
60. We note that the Council has made amendments in response to submissions to ensure that identified heritage values of the places included in PC 81 are of considerable or outstanding historical significance, such that protection is warranted in accordance with the RPS and Section 6(f) of the RMA. This includes one of the two places that Kāinga Ora seeks be deleted from the plan change. Submission 46.1 is therefore accepted in part.

SUBMISSIONS ON ID 02842 HARTSHOLME

Sub. No.	Name of Submitter	Summary of the Relief Sought by the Submitter	Further Submissions	Planner's Recommendation
9.1	Cameron Betts	The history and upkeep of this building means it is greatly appropriate and important to give it historic protected status.	None	Accept
17.1	Donna Scofield	I would like this house to be heritage protected, to lose it in the future would be detrimental to the area and a huge loss.	None	Accept
31.1	Mount Albert Historical Society	8 Allendale Road, Mt Albert makes a significant contribution to Mt Albert.	None	Accept

61. PC 81 seeks to include Hartsholme at 8 Allendale Road, Mount Albert in Schedule 14.1. The plan change, as notified, proposed to add the following information to Schedule 14.1 for the place:

- Hartsholme is identified as a Category B place,

¹² Section 32 report, section 14.3, page 20

- the primary feature is identified as 'Residence',
- the heritage values are (a) historical, (f) physical attributes and (g) aesthetic, and
- the following exclusions are identified: 'Interior of building(s); swimming pool'.

62. The extent of place is proposed as shown below.

Historic Heritage Overlay Extent of Place for Hartsholme, shown by purple cross-hatching

Findings

63. Notably, this property was nominated for evaluation by the landowner.
64. Three submissions set out in the table above supported the addition of Hartsholme to the Unitary Plan historic heritage schedule. The reasons given in the submissions included:
- The history and upkeep of this building means it is greatly appropriate and important to give it protected historic status.
 - Any loss of this house in the future would be detrimental to the area and a huge loss.

- 8 Allendale Road makes a significant contribution to Mount Albert.

Decision on submissions

65. That submissions 9.1, 17.1 and 31.1 are accepted.

SUBMISSIONS ON ID 02843 ST BENEDICTS CONVENT (FORMER)

Sub. No.	Name of Submitter	Summary of the Relief Sought by the Submitter	Further Submissions	Planner's Recommendation
23.1	Simon Nicolaas Peter Onneweer	These places and areas have high heritage values. Their importance to the local and wider community makes their addition to Schedule 14 essential.	None	Accept
38.1	Catholic Diocese of Auckland	Delete proposed inclusion of 2 St Benedicts Street as a historic heritage place.	None	Reject

66. PC 81 seeks to include St Benedict's Convent (former) at 2 St Benedicts Street, Newton in Schedule 14.1. The plan change, as notified, proposes to add the following information to Schedule 14.1 for the place:

- the former convent is identified as a Category B place,
- the primary feature is identified as 'Convent building',
- the heritage values are (a) historical, (b) social, (f) physical attributes and (g) aesthetic, and
- the following exclusions are identified: 'Laundry building (1962); interior of the second floor of the convent building'.

67. The extent of place is proposed as shown below:

Historic Heritage Overlay Extent of Place for St Benedict's Convent (former), shown by purple cross-hatching

Findings

68. Mr Onneweer has made a submission on five places (submission 23). Each historic heritage place has been coded as a separate submission point. The reason for supporting the inclusion of the places and areas in Schedule 14.1 is the same. Mr Onneweer considers these places and areas have high heritage value, as set out in the Plan Change documents. He also considers their importance to the local and wider community makes their addition to Schedule 14.1 Historic Heritage essential.
69. The evaluation prepared of St Benedict's Convent (former) by Carolyn O'Neil, heritage expert for the Council established that it meets the thresholds in the AUP for scheduling as a historic heritage place and that the place should be included in Schedule 14.1 as a Category B place. The submission by Heritage NZ also notes this is one of three places¹³ proposed to be included in Schedule 14.1 that are identified on the New Zealand Heritage List/Rārangī Kōrero as part of the listed Upper Symonds Street Historic Area # 7367.

¹³ The three places are 2, 24 and 29 St Benedict's Street, Newton.

70. Submission 38.1 is from the landowner, the Catholic Diocese of Auckland. In opening legal submissions, Ms Bianca Tree stated that insufficient comparative analysis had been undertaken in accordance with the Council's Methodology, which guides the process of evaluating the significance of historic heritage places against the AUP criteria¹⁴. It was on that basis that Mr John Brown, Heritage Consultant for the Diocese could not support the listing for Historical, Context and Physical attributes without this assessment.¹⁵
71. Further, that in the event the Panel determines the property should be scheduled, that certain changes to the listing are made¹⁶:
- (i) that the Extent of Place (EOP) be reduced to exclude the rear yard;
 - (ii) the 2009 balcony, the 1927 rear covered balcony, and additions and fire escape on the southern elevation, be excluded; and
 - (iii) the interior be excluded in its entirety.
72. Ms Tree submitted that controls on Category B places impose significant restrictions and obligations on owners of historic heritage places. She noted that although 2 St Benedicts Street has already been subject to controls under the SCAB Upper Symonds Street overlay, the proposed scheduling under PC 81 will place significantly more onerous controls and restrictions on the Diocese¹⁷. On that basis, it is important that the EOP is appropriately defined, and that exclusions are listed, as these can materially impact on the use of a site.¹⁸ She advocated that in the event the Panel considers the place be included in the heritage schedule, that it is only listed for its Aesthetic value (as supported by Mr Brown) and that the interior be listed as an exclusion.
73. We note that Mr Brown supports that the EOP be reduced to exclude the rear of the site as well as the other exterior additions, such as the first floor enclosed (c.1927) verandah at the rear, the northern (2009) verandah, and the fire escape on the western elevation. He was also of the opinion that only specific features of the ground floor interior should be scheduled.
74. We agree with Mr Michael Campbell, planner for the Diocese that one of the best outcomes for a historic heritage building that is no longer used for its original purpose is facilitating an adaptive re-use. We note that this is supported in RPS Objective B5.2.1 and Policy B5.2.2.
75. We find that the EOP and listed exclusions in PC 81 will have a material impact on the ability for the Diocese to find a viable adaptive re-use for the building.

¹⁴ Ms Tree's legal submissions, paragraph 29

¹⁵ Ibid, paragraph 58

¹⁶ Ibid, paragraph 4

¹⁷ Ibid, paragraph 47

¹⁸ Ibid, paragraph 44

76. We prefer the evidence of Mr Brown which considers that the EOP proposed is not necessary to reflect the values for which the building has been recognised, and he supports reducing the EOP at the rear of the building.¹⁹ Mr Brown is of the opinion that the immediate surrounds and the street frontage, provides a sufficient extent of place to reflect the identified values associated with 2 St Benedicts Street²⁰. These include the entire subject building (primary feature) and its garden setting, including entrance steps, metal gate and rendered brick boundary wall (other features)²¹. The area to the east could be reduced so that it is closer to the rear of the building without then generating an adverse effect on identified heritage values. In oral evidence he confirmed that the EOP should be in line with the end of the laundry building shown²² as that is the area that is “relevant to an understanding of the function, meaning and relationships of the historic heritage values” in accordance with Policy B5.2.2(2)(b) of the RPS.²³
77. In respect of the exterior exclusions, both heritage experts agreed that the single-storey building, built as a laundry and storeroom (c.1962) and located at the south-eastern corner of the primary feature, should be identified as an exclusion. Although designed by a well-known architect of the period, the modest structure replaced an earlier laundry building on the site and was not considered to contribute to the identified historic heritage values of the place.²⁴
78. In addition to the above, Mr Brown has identified three exterior additions which he considers detract from or are not strongly reflective of, the historic heritage values for which the place has been identified and should also be excluded. These are the upper-level enclosed verandah on the east elevation, the fire escape / balcony on the southern elevation, and the 2009 verandah on the northern elevation.²⁵
79. In terms of these additional exterior features, Ms O’Neil maintained her earlier view and referred us back to her original evaluation²⁶ which concluded that only a small number of recorded physical changes were made to the convent over subsequent years. We prefer the evidence of Ms O’Neil with respect to these exterior exclusions.
80. Mr Brown has also stated that it may be appropriate to identify specific interior features only to provide for some opportunity for adaptation to maintain viable use of a place over time. Specifically, he considered it appropriate to add the interior as an exclusion provided the following interior features are scheduled:

¹⁹ Mr Brown expert evidence,

²⁵ Mr Brown’s expert evidence, paragraph 3.12

²⁶ Ms O’Neil’s Rebuttal evidence, paragraph 20

 - b. Primary stairwell 1906 building.
 - c. 1918 extension - Chapel Window with stained glass 'Cross and lily motif'.
 - d. Volume of Chapel apse, arch pilasters, and plaster ceiling.
 - e. Priest's door to robing room, with confession grill.'
81. Mr Butler of the Diocese considers that the specific interior features identified by Mr Brown will be restrictive for maintenance or potential future uses of the building.³⁴ He also advised us that significant maintenance and seismic works are required to the interior of the building, and that the interior may not be publicly accessible in a future use.³⁵
82. We observed that Ms O'Neil has not had access to the first floor of the building and was therefore not able to consider whether the interior of the first floor should also be scheduled.
83. We note that upon the Panel seeking further clarification from the Council officers on this matter, Ms Richmond was of the opinion that in the case of interiors, it should either be "all or nothing". During our site visit to this proposed heritage place, we were able to gain access to the first floor and view the entire interior of this building. Throughout our viewing it was apparent that there was little difference to the quality of the interiors between the ground and the first floor levels.
84. We find ourselves in agreement with Ms Richmond, Mr Butler, Mr Campbell and Ms Tree. It seemed illogical to the Panel to schedule only the ground floor interior when Mr Butler has advised us that the entire interior will require significant maintenance and upgrading to find a viable adaptive re-use. We find that excluding the interior would give effect to Objective B5.2.1(2) and Policies B5.2.2(6) and (9) of the RPS. As addressed in Mr Campbell's s32AA analysis, the exclusion of the interior will assist in enabling an adaptive reuse to protect the building itself.

Decisions on submissions

85. That submission 23.1 be accepted and submission 38.1 be accepted in part.
86. That ID 02843 St Benedict's Convent (former) is scheduled for heritage criteria A (historical), F (physical attributes), G (aesthetic) and H (context).
87. That an amendment is required to the historic heritage schedule listed 'Exclusions' to include the entire interior of the convent building as an exclusion, alongside the 1962 laundry building.

88. That a reduction be made to the Extent of Place shown on the planning maps, to be in line with the end of the laundry building, as shown on Amended Appendix C Map.

SUBMISSIONS ON ID 02844 AUCKLAND MASONIC TEMPLE (FORMER)

Sub. No.	Name of Submitter	Summary of the Relief Sought by the Submitter	Further Submissions	Planner's Recommendation
23.2	Simon Nicolaas Peter Onneweer	These places and areas have high heritage values. Their importance to the local and wider community makes their addition to Schedule 14 essential.	None	Accept
49.1	Parly Assets Limited	The building at 24 St Benedicts Street should not be scheduled.	None	Reject
49.2	Parly Assets Limited	If the building at 24 St Benedicts Street is included [in the historic heritage schedule] then only the street front elevation to a depth of 6m is scheduled and the surrounds are not scheduled.	None	Reject
49.3	Parly Assets Limited	If the building at 24 St Benedicts Street is included [in the historic heritage schedule] then the interior is not scheduled.	None	Accept
49.4	Parly Assets Limited	If the building at 24 St Benedicts Street is included [in the historic heritage schedule] then the remainder of the site (outside the 6m frontage) is subject to a height limit of 32.5m, consistent with other sites in the vicinity and with the NPS UD as the site is within a walkable catchment of the City Centre and rail stations.	None	This is outside the scope of PC 81. ²⁷

89. PC 81 seeks to include the former Auckland Masonic Temple at 24 St Benedicts Street, Newton in Schedule 14.1. The plan change, as notified, proposes to add the following information to Schedule 14.1 for the place:
- the former temple is identified as a Category B place,
 - the primary feature is identified as 'Building',
 - the heritage values are (a) historical, (b) social, (f) physical attributes and (g) aesthetic, and ²⁷ Submission point 49.4 is referenced in the table only to confirm that point is recorded. This submission point is included in Appendix 8 of the Council Hearing Report as an out of scope submission. Under PC78, this matter is recorded as submission point 1551.3.

- the following exclusions are identified: 'Interior of building(s)'.

90. The extent of place is proposed as shown below:

Historic Heritage Overlay Extent of Place for Auckland Masonic Temple (former), shown by purple cross-hatching

Findings

91. Submission 23.2 by Simon Nicolaas Peter Onneweer is a general submission relating to five places including two areas located within the inner city (submission 23). This has been discussed earlier in this decision at paragraph 68. We also note that the submission from Heritage NZ notes the Auckland Masonic Temple (former) is on the New Zealand Heritage List/Rārangi Kōrero as part of the listed Upper Symonds Street Historic Area # 7367.
92. Submission 49 is from the landowner, Parly Assets Limited. Submission 49.1 opposes the scheduling of the building at 24 St Benedicts Street in its entirety. Mr James Brown who is the owner of the building and Director of Parly Assets Limited advised the Panel that while he accepted parts of the existing building may meet the (f) physical attributes and (g) aesthetic heritage criteria set out in Policy B5.2.2(1), he did not consider that the building suitably meets the threshold test for scheduling for (a) historical and (b) social, and consequently he concluded the building does not satisfy B5.2.2(3)(b). In his opinion, Freemasonry does not reflect values that should be supported, recognised or protected in today's society.²⁸

93. Mr Brown further noted the significant renovations made to the ground floor and combined with the Freemasons selling the building without any protective covenant, suggests to him that the building held very little value or association with them.²⁹
94. Mr Brown observed that the building is on a fringe city property and that by adding the property to Schedule 14.1, the future development potential of the property is greatly reduced and will result in a significant economic cost to Parly Assets Limited.
95. Mr Blair Hastings, who was the author of the evaluation recommending the Auckland Masonic Temple (former) be included in Schedule 14.1 has reviewed the two evaluations attached to the submission, one being from Mr James Brown the owner of the building, the other from Mr David Pearson, Heritage Architect. The evaluations attached to the submission dispute in whole or in part that the Auckland Masonic Temple (former) meets the threshold tests for scheduling under B5.2.2.2.
96. In response to Mr Brown's view that the place's historical and social heritage values do not meet the threshold of 'considerable', Mr Hastings maintains his opinion that the place has considerable historical and social value, noting that freemasonry represented an important and not insignificant movement in New Zealand during and after the interwar years. Mr Hastings also notes that whether the Freemasons were used by a particular group or represent the values of a particular group (i.e. men) is not an exclusion indicator in the Methodology. Further, matters relating to the building no longer being in use by the Freemasons do not alter the values of the place.
97. Mr Pearson has undertaken a heritage review of the building's physical attributes and its aesthetic values. It was his opinion that the building has considerable value under the criteria of physical attributes and aesthetic values and is therefore worthy of being scheduled as a Category B building, although not necessarily the entire building.³⁰
98. In his evaluation, Mr Pearson considered that the front façade had considerable significance that made a fundamental contribution to the overall significance of the place. He assessed the two side elevations as having moderate significance (making a notable contribution to the overall significance), while the rear elevation in his view has only some significance and makes only a modest contribution.

³⁰ David Pearson's Summary of Evidence, paragraph 12.

99. It was Mr Pearson's opinion that the front six metres of the building could be retained, with the remainder being demolished without resulting in a significant loss of heritage values. He noted that there would then be the opportunity for the site to be redeveloped to realise its potential while incorporating the remainder of the building into a new development as has happened with other heritage buildings in the Auckland CBD.
100. We note that Mr Vijay Lala, Planner agrees with Mr Pearson that the front 6m of the western façade could meet the considerable significance threshold with respect to criteria (f) physical attributes and (g) aesthetic. However, he considers that the second arm of this Policy (B5.2.2(3)(b)) is not met as that protection of the front 6m of the street facing facade of this building will not in his view result in a place that can be assessed as having considerable significance to the locality or greater geographic area as there is nothing intrinsically linking Freemasonry with this locality other than the fact that they chose to build a temple here and occupy it. He noted they have since relocated elsewhere.³¹
101. It was also Mr Lala's view that the costs of scheduling this place outweigh the benefits. He opined that scheduling the building will effectively prevent further development of the site, regardless of the Council's view that the non-scheduled part of the site can be developed.
102. With respect to this alternative relief being sought, including only the street front elevation to a depth of 6m being scheduled, (along with the surrounds not being scheduled), Mr Hastings identified that the entire building is collectively important to the physical and aesthetic values of the place. He considers the approach proposed is not consistent with the current Methodology. Further, Ms Richmond notes in the Hearing Report that the examples referenced to by Mr Pearson of where only the facades, or the front section of buildings are scheduled, pre-date the place-based approach to assessing historic heritage in the RPS.³²
103. We agree with the evidence of Mr Hastings and find the entire building is important to the physical attributes and aesthetic values of the place. We agree with Mr Pearson, Mr Lala and Mr Hastings that the building meets the considerable significance threshold with respect to Policy B5.2.2(3)(a), in relation to criteria (f) physical attributes and (g) aesthetic. We also agree with Mr Hastings that the building meets the considerable significance threshold of (a) historical and (b) social for the reasons set out in paragraph 96 above.
104. With respect to Policy B5.2.2(3)(b) which requires "the place has considerable or outstanding overall significance to the locality or greater geographic area", we prefer the evidence of Mr Hastings for the reasons he set out in the Statement of Significance in his evaluation report, which concludes that this building:

³² Hearing Report, paragraph 17.11

“has considerable historical significance locally and regionally, through its long-standing association with the New Zealand Freemasons. For 78 years it hosted regular local, provincial (or regional), and national gatherings, meetings, and ceremonies for the members of the organisation. Its membership in New Zealand expanded rapidly through and after the difficult Depression and inter-war years, and the members, and the organisation alike, likely had influence in the post-war rebuilding of the nation. Although in decline today, the Masonic organisation is still highly active across the country, as a generally well-known, and far-reaching, charitable fraternity....

The building has considerable significance for its aesthetic value, as it remains a conspicuous, intact, and generally legible, landmark feature along St Benedicts Street. It is an undeniably impressive structure with considerable streetscape value. The symmetrical, ordered, and geometric design of the façade, with its robust columns and fine plasterwork provides an attractive composition sought and admired by the pedestrian and motorist alike.”³³

105. We also note that the s32 report stated:

“The historic heritage places and areas proposed to be included in PC81 have been recommended for scheduling as they have been evaluated as having considerable or outstanding value in relation to one or more the RPS evaluation factors. In addition, they also have considerable or outstanding overall significance to their locality or a greater geographic area (Policy B5.2.2.(3)).”³⁴

106. Notably, the extent of place (referred to as ‘surrounds’ in the submission) is tightly limited to the building and the footpath rather than the entire site. Further, the interior is listed as an exclusion, and this is not proposed to be amended (in response to the Heritage NZ submission point 45.4.) The Panel has determined that no amendments are required to the proposed schedule for either of these matters.

107. Lastly, with respect to Submission 49.4 and the request that the height limit for the site is 32.5m outside the 6m frontage, this is considered outside the scope of PC 81.

Decisions on submissions

108. That submission 23.2 be accepted, submissions 49.1 and 49.2 be rejected and submission 49.3 be accepted.

³⁴ PC 81 – Section 32 Report, page 26

109. That ID 02844 Auckland Masonic Temple (former) is scheduled for heritage criteria A (historical), B (social), F (physical attributes), G (aesthetic).
110. That following exclusions are identified in the schedule: 'Interior of building'.

SUBMISSIONS ON ID 02845 D ARKELL BOTTLING STORE (FORMER)

Sub. No.	Name of Submitter	Summary of the Relief Sought by the Submitter	Further Submissions	Planner's Recommendation
23.3	Simon Nicolaas Peter Onneweer	These places and areas have high heritage values. Their importance to the local and wider community makes their addition to Schedule 14.1 essential.	None	Accept
45.3	Heritage New Zealand Pouhere Taonga	Heritage New Zealand considers the rarity of the D Arkell Bottling Store as a place type in a regional (and possibly wider context), merits its consideration for a higher status than Category B.	None	Reject in part

111. PC 81 seeks to include the D Arkell Bottling Store (former) at 29 St Benedicts Street, Newton in Schedule 14.1. The plan change, as notified, proposed to add the following information to Schedule 14.1 for the place:
- the former bottling store is identified as a Category B place,
 - the primary feature is identified as 'Building',
 - the heritage values are (a) historical and (f) physical attributes, and
 - the following exclusions are identified: 'Interior of building(s)'.
112. The extent of place is proposed as shown below.

Historic Heritage Overlay Extent of Place for D Arkell Bottling Store (former), shown by purple cross-hatching

Findings

113. Submission 23.2 by Simon Nicolaas Peter Onneweer is a general submission relating to five places including two areas located within the inner city (Submission 23). This has been discussed earlier in this decision at paragraph 68.
114. Submission 45.3 by Heritage NZ seeks consideration of whether the D Arkell Bottling Store (former) be included in Schedule 14.1 as a Category A place. Category A places are defined in the RPS as historic heritage places of outstanding significance well beyond their immediate environs.³⁵
115. Heritage NZ consider the historical value of the D Arkell Bottling Store (former) is outstanding due to it reflecting significant developments in the 1870's and 1880's, as well as being part of a relatively well-preserved and rare surviving precinct of this era on the city's urban fringe. In this regard, reference is made to its inclusion in the Upper Symonds Street Historic Area, List No.7367. The submission also questions why the physical value is only ‘considerable’ when it is an intact and rare surviving example of a brewery associated building in Auckland.

116. Ms Megan Walker, Heritage expert for the Council considered the points raised in the Heritage NZ submission and maintained her view that the place has considerable local and regional historical value and should be identified as a Category B place, but is not of sufficient significance to be identified as a Category A place. It was Ms Walker’s assessment that Daniel Arkell was an important participant in the development of the brewing industry in Auckland, but she does not consider that Mr Arkell was a ‘major figure’ that would elevate his association with this building to ‘outstanding’. Further, Ms Walker’s opinion is that rarity does not automatically impart significance, noting there are other places on the heritage schedule that are rare building types, but are not identified as Category A places.
117. We note that Ms Walker did agree that greater significance should be afforded to the historical urban environment, and subsequently recommended that this criterion be elevated from ‘moderate’ to ‘considerable’, thereby requiring an amendment to Schedule 14.1 as notified.
118. We further note that Ms Walker maintains that the physical value of the building is considerable, but as a good and rare surviving example of notable architects R Keals and Sons it warrants being elevated to local and regional significance under the criterion (rather than just local as identified in her original report). This does not require an amendment to Schedule 14.1, nor do Ms Walker’s views elevate the significance of this place to a Category A.
119. We had no competing evidence on the matter and we agree with Ms Walker.

Decision on submissions

120. We find that submission 23.3 be accepted and submission 45.3 be rejected in part. Submission 45.3 is rejected to the extent that the category status remains unchanged but accepted to the extent that criterion (h) context is elevated to considerable and thereby recognised in Schedule 14.1. This amendment to PC 81 is shown in Attachment B.

SUBMISSIONS ON ID 02846 MACKENZIE’S BUILDINGS

Sub. No.	Name of Submitter	Summary of the Relief Sought by the Submitter	Further Submissions	Planner’s Recommendation
7.1	Yariv Ederly	The historic area proposal for 114-118 Main Highway makes sense as these are original Ellerslie village buildings that should be preserved.	None	Accept

121. PC 81 seeks to include the Mackenzie's Buildings at 114-118 Main Highway, Ellerslie in Schedule 14.1. The plan change, as notified, proposed to add the following information to Schedule 14.1 for the place:

- Mackenzie's Buildings is identified as a Category B place,
- the primary feature is identified as 'Mackenzie's Buildings',
- the heritage values are (a) historical, (f) physical attributes and (g) aesthetic, and
- the following exclusions are identified: 'Interior of building(s)'.

122. The extent of place is proposed as shown below:

Historic Heritage Overlay Extent of Place for Mackenzie's Buildings, shown by purple cross-hatching

Findings

123. The content of this submission accords with the evaluation that the Mackenzie's Buildings at 114-118 Main Highway meets the threshold for scheduling as a Category B place. We note that the submitter seeks PC 81 be declined but the submission refers to opposing only specific provisions. The opposition to the plan change is understood to be in relation to submission point 7.2 regarding the Lawry Settlement Workers' Housing HHA. This is discussed in paragraph 158 of this decision.

124. As a consequence, the inclusion of ID 02846 Mackenzie's Buildings in Schedule 14.1 is not a specific matter in dispute.

Decision on Submissions

125. That submission 7.1 is accepted.

SUBMISSIONS ON ID 02847 CERAMIC HOUSE (FORMER)

126. PC 81 seeks to include Ceramic House (former) at 3 Totara Avenue, New Lynn in Schedule 14.1. The plan change, as notified, proposed to add the following information to Schedule 14.1 for the place:

- Ceramic House (former) is identified as a Category A place,
- the primary feature is identified as 'Ceramic House',
- the heritage values are (a) historical, (b) social, (d) knowledge, (e) technology, (f) physical attributes, (g) aesthetic and (h) context, and
- the following exclusions are identified: 'External ground floor deck and steps to the building; ground floor toilet and kitchen'.

127. The extent of place is proposed as shown below:

Historic Heritage Overlay Extent of Place for Ceramic House (former), shown by purple cross-hatching

Findings

128. The Panel notes that no submissions were received that relate specifically to Ceramic House (former).
129. The inclusion of ID 02847 Ceramic House (in Schedule 14.1) is therefore not a specific matter in dispute and we find that Ceramic House (former) should be included in the heritage schedule.

SUBMISSIONS ON ID 02848 WILSONS PORTLAND CEMENT COMPANY DAM

130. PC 81 seeks to include Wilsons Portland Cement Company Dam at Sandspit Road, Warkworth in Schedule 14.1. The plan change, as notified, proposed to add the following information to Schedule 14.1 for the place:
 - the dam is identified as a Category B place,
 - the primary feature is identified as 'Dam structure, including outlet valve',
 - the heritage values are (f) physical attributes and (h) context, and
 - the place is identified as being subject to additional rules for archaeological sites or features.

131. The extent of place is proposed as shown below:

Historic Heritage Overlay Extent of Place for Wilsons Portland Cement Company Dam, shown by purple cross-hatching

Findings

132. The Panel notes that no submissions were received that relate specifically to Wilsons Portland Cement Company Dam.
133. The inclusion of ID 02848 Wilsons Portland Cement Company Dam in Schedule 14.1 is therefore not a specific matter in dispute and we find that the Wilsons Portland Cement Company Dam should be included in the heritage schedule.

SUBMISSIONS ON ID 02849 PŪHOI TOWNSHIP HISTORIC HERITAGE AREA

Sub. No.	Name of Submitter	Summary of the Relief Sought by the Submitter	Further Submissions	Planner's Recommendation
20.1	Puhoi Heritage Museum	Support historic heritage area being added to Schedule 14.1.	None	Accept
38.2	Catholic Diocese of Auckland	Delete the proposed inclusion of 83 Puhoi Ahuroa Road, Puhoi as a Historic Heritage Area.	None	Reject
53.1	The Puhoi Pub 2020 Limited	The removal of the Special Character Areas Overlay from the maps as they relate to Puhoi (and specifically 5 Saleyards Road and Lot 5 DP 23398) are supported due to the inclusion of the Puhoi Township Historic Heritage Area in Schedule 14.1 (via Plan Change 81), which is a more appropriate planning approach for historic Puhoi and avoids two cumbersome overlays of similar controls.	None	Accept

134. PC 81 seeks to include Pūhoi Township Historic Heritage Area in Pūhoi in Schedule 14.1 (Pūhoi HHA). The plan change, as notified, proposes to add the following information to Schedule 14.1 for the area:

- the heritage values are (a) historical, (b) social, (d) knowledge, (e) technology, (f) physical attributes, (g) aesthetic and (h) context;
- the following features are identified as exclusions 'Interiors of all buildings contained within the extent of place unless otherwise identified in another scheduled historic heritage place; all stand-alone structures and buildings built after 1939; modern rear and side additions to the general store at 109 Pūhoi Road; the modern southeast corner addition to the convent school at 83 Pūhoi Road'; and
- apply additional archaeological rules to two defined locations within the HHA.

135. We note there are no non-contributing sites and features identified for the Pūhoi HHA.

136. The plan change also seeks to add information to Schedule 14.2 Historic Heritage Areas – Maps and statements of significance. The extent of place proposed is shown on the planning maps and in Schedule 14.2, as shown below (not to scale).

Historic Heritage Overlay Extent of Place Pūhoi Township Historic Heritage Area

Findings

137. Submissions 20.1 and 53.1 seek that PC 81 be accepted without modification as it relates to the Pūhoi HHA. Submission 53.1 is from the landowner of 5 Saleyards Road, Pūhoi, being the Pūhoi Pub Hotel and Stables.
138. Dr David Bade has evaluated the Pūhoi HHA and has found it to meet the AUP eligibility criteria to be identified in Schedule 14.1, and this is considered the most appropriate way of managing the heritage place. We note that Council has confirmed that as notified under PC 78, the Special Character Areas Overlay Residential and Business - General Pūhoi is proposed to be removed in its entirety.
139. Submission 38.2 is from the landowner of 83 Pūhoi Road, Pūhoi, the Catholic Diocese of Auckland. The Diocese opposes the inclusion of 83 Pūhoi Road in the HHA for the same reasons as for 2 St Benedict's Street, Newton, with the addition of also opposing the additional archaeological rules that apply to specific parts of the Pūhoi HHA. We note that the decision sought also includes reference to 'Ahuroa' Road. We note that this is outside the Pūhoi HHA, so we have assumed this additional reference is an error.

140. Dr Bade identifies in the evaluation report that the entire spatial extent of the property at 83 Pūhoi Road is already subject to the Historic Heritage Overlay as a Category B place (ID 00593 Church of St Peter and St Paul complex, including church, convent, and presbytery). Notably, the historic heritage area boundary aligns with the extent of place for this historic heritage place.
141. Dr Bade notes the church complex is a highly important part of the area. He therefore does not support the submission point to remove the property from the historic heritage area.
142. Mr John Brown, agrees in general with the identification of the Pūhoi Township as an HHA based on the evaluation documentation.³⁶ However he considers that the application of the existing Extent of Place is arbitrarily based on the current land title and that there was no apparent consideration of whether structures or areas within the spatial extent of the legal title have particular relevance to the identified heritage values of the place.³⁷
143. Mr Brown has proposed a more discrete, non-contiguous application of the Extent of Place for the Historic Place listing ID 593, which identifies the area around each of the scheduled buildings that is in his opinion integral to the function, meaning and relationships of the place. While he acknowledged the areas to be excluded provide a contribution to the setting and context, he advised they are not so essential in his view to the understanding of the place that they need to be statutorily managed through application of the historic heritage overlay.³⁸
144. Further changes are proposed by Mr Brown to the non-contiguous Extent of Place for Historic Heritage Place ID 593, and he has identified several items onsite that are modern in origin and in his opinion do not have any specific heritage value and therefore may be defined either as exclusions or non-contributing features to enable more flexible management of the site in the future.³⁹
145. The corporate evidence of Mr Michael Butler advised that the Diocese is supportive of the amendments proposed by Mr Brown because the reduction in the extent of heritage controls across the site will provide more certainty and flexibility to the Diocese in its ongoing management and maintenance of the heritage buildings, while being able to use the site for the work of the Diocese.⁴⁰
146. It was Mr Campbell's opinion that the changes proposed by Mr Brown would amount to an appropriate balance between providing regulatory certainty as well as development flexibility while ensuring that the key components that contribute the identified heritage values are identified and protected.⁴¹

147. In rebuttal, Dr Bade advised the Panel of some proposed amendments to Schedule 14.2. The first amendment was to correct an omission to attribute the design of the convent school (1922) and convent (1923) to Thomas Mahoney in the statement of significance for the proposed Pūhoi HHA. The second proposed amendment involved Revising Map 14.2.18.1 Historic Heritage Area: Pūhoi Township to specifically label the two areas subject to the additional rules for archaeological sites or features, in response to Mr Campbell's evidence. The Panel agrees with Dr Bade that these amendments are administrative matters that are appropriate to be made for completeness and clarity.
148. A third amendment was proposed in response to Mr Brown's evidence which recommends specific features (shown in yellow lines and boxes) be identified as non-contributing features or exclusions. The subject plan included two features not currently identified as non-contributing features. Dr Bade agreed with Mr Brown and now seeks additional text for the modern rear carports of the former Presbytery and former Convent (83 Pūhoi Road) to also be included as exclusions.⁴²
149. Turning to the main matter in contention, Ms Wach for the Council submitted that any request by the Diocese to reduce the extent of the existing scheduled property was a jurisdictional issue and was beyond the scope of PC 81. It was Council's position that as the entire property at 83 Pūhoi Road is already subject to the Historic Heritage Overlay as a Category B place (ID 00593 Church of St Peter and St Paul complex, including church, convent, and presbytery), the historic heritage area boundary should align with the extent of place for this historic heritage place. Ms Wach submitted that any reduction in the extent of place should instead be dealt with through PC 82 – Amendments to the Heritage Schedule. Ms Wach confirmed Ms Richmond's earlier advice to us that if the Diocese's relief was to be accepted it would set up two different management regimes for the land which could cause confusion for plan users.
150. It was confirmed by Ms Tree in her submissions to the Panel that the Diocese now accepts that the property can form a part of the Pūhoi HHA. Further, during questioning from the Panel she advised that no submissions were made by the Diocese on PC 82 with regards to reducing the extent of place on this property. She further submitted that given no changes were proposed to this site within PC 82 that this matter was better addressed in PC 81 where the Pūhoi HHA is proposed to be introduced. It was Ms Tree's proposition that a reduction in the extent of place of both the scheduled heritage place, as well as a reduction in the extent of place of the Pūhoi HHA should be combined together.
151. We find that a reduction of the extent of place of the heritage place itself cannot be achieved through PC 81 given its purpose, and we note this outcome was not within the scope of the relief sought in the submission made by the Diocese. Consequently, we agree with Ms Wach that a reduction in the extent of place of this proposed Pūhoi HHA would be inconsistent with the existing extent of place for this individually scheduled property and we find that it would not be the most appropriate outcome to have these two sets of planning provisions at odds with each other. Further, based on the evidence of Dr Bade we agree that the entire title area of the church property contributes to the heritage values of the Pūhoi HHA and that no reduction in the extent of place is warranted.

Decision on Submissions

152. That submissions 20.1 and 53.1 be accepted and submission 38.2 be rejected.
153. We find that the administrative amendments to Schedule 14.2 map and text proposed for clarity (Attachment 3 to the Hearings Report) are acceptable.
154. That additional text for the modern rear carports of the former Presbytery and former Convent (83 Pūhoi Road) are also to be included as exclusions.

155. PC 81 sought to include the Lawry Settlement Workers' Housing Historic Heritage Area in Ellerslie in Schedule 14.1 (Lawry HHA). The plan change, as notified, proposed to add the following information to Schedule 14.1 for the area:

- the heritage values are (a) historical, (f) physical attributes and (h) context;
- the following features are identified as exclusions 'Interiors of all buildings contained within the extent of place unless otherwise identified in another scheduled historic heritage place; stand-alone accessory buildings, structures or garages built after 1923; a carpark at 7 Ramsgate Street; stand-alone dwellings to the rear or side of a building constructed prior to 1923 on a cross-leased contributing site';
- apply additional archaeological rules to two defined locations within the HHA; and
- the contributing and non-contributing sites and features.

156. The plan change also seeks to add information to Schedule 14.2 Historic Heritage Areas – Maps and statements of significance. The extent of place proposed is shown on the planning maps and in Schedule 14.2, as shown below (not to scale).

Historic Heritage Overlay Extent of Place for the Lawry Settlement Workers' Housing Historic Heritage Area

Findings

157. A number of the submissions that supported the area being added to Schedule 14 (Submissions 2.1, 13.1, 15.1, 16.1, 19.1, 25.1, 26.1, 28.1, 29.1, 30.1, 33.2, 34.1, 35.1, 39.1, 44.2) are from landowners/occupiers within the proposed Lawry HHA and the Ellerslie Residents' Association. The number of submissions in support from landowners reflect a strong level of community recognition of the heritage value of their area. Submissions in support also express a desire to protect and maintain historic heritage within Ellerslie. Other submissions also support scheduling the Lawry HHA as the remaining dwellings represent important political and social ideas in New Zealand and have considerable value as part of a wider cultural and thematic context of state housing across Auckland and New Zealand. Some submissions are concerned that the proposed Lawry HHA is needed given the quickly growing and developing area.
158. There was also some opposition to the inclusion of the Lawry HHA within Schedule 14. Submission 7.2 is from Yariv Edery, the owner of 29A Findlay Street. Mr Edery expresses the need to provide high-density areas that will help many families to reside in areas that are close to important amenities and community centres. The submitter identifies that most of the land in the Lawry HHA is zoned for a 'Two Storey Single Dwelling' option (Residential - Low Density Zone). The submitter opposes the proposed change to a "Historic Heritage Extent of Place" zone because the NPS UD proposed change to "Two Storey Single Dwelling Residential Area" makes sense for a reasonable increase in density and is reflective of the historic and current status quo in Findlay, Ramsgate and Hewson Streets.

159. Submission 18.1 is from Hyun Jin Hong. This submission is specific to his property at 1A Cawley Street. Mr Hong considers his property should be excluded from the HHA as it was built in the 1960's.
160. Submission 46.2 is from Kāinga Ora. This submission noted that the Lawry HHA incorporates a high proportion of buildings and/or places which are 'non-contributing'. Kāinga Ora therefore considered that further evaluation of the Lawry HHA is needed to confirm whether particular individual buildings and/or places meet the threshold for historic heritage protection and seeks that these be individually scheduled where supported by robust evidence. Kāinga Ora also note that the Lawry HHA as proposed would inappropriately constrain development within a walkable catchment of the Eilerslie Train Station (identified as a rapid transport stop).
161. In response to a request from Ms Richmond for comment on the submissions received on the proposed Lawry HHA, Mr Blair Hastings prepared a memo in March 2023, subsequent to the original evaluation for this area which was undertaken by Ms Elise Caddigan. In his analysis, Mr Hastings agrees with the initial evaluation that the Lawry HHA has historical, physical attributes and context heritage values. However, Mr Hastings' advised that the level of significance identified in the original evaluation did not reflect the quantum of subdivision and development within the area that has been so negatively impactful on these (otherwise proven) values⁴³. The analysis of Mr Hastings is that 38 out of 60 (or 63%) of all sites within the area do not contribute to the heritage value of the Lawry HHA.⁴⁴
162. As a result, Mr Hastings formed the opinion that the Lawry Settlement Workers' Housing Area does not meet the criteria and thresholds for scheduling as a Historic Heritage Area. The reasons he gave for his opinion relate to the cumulative 'quantum of change' that has occurred, which is reflected in the quantum of non-contributing sites within the area which he considers is too degrading of the heritage values for the area to meet the threshold for scheduling as a historic heritage area.⁴⁵
163. Ms Richmond relied on the advice of Mr Hastings and recommended that the Lawry HHA not be included in Schedules 14.1 and 14.2 as it would undermine the integrity of the AUP. To be eligible for inclusion in Schedule 14.1 historic heritage, places must meet the thresholds and criteria outlined in the RPS⁴⁶.

⁴⁵ Ibid, paragraph 14

164. Counsel for Kāinga Ora – Ms Jennifer Caldwell tabled a memorandum dated 21 April 2023 which stated that Kāinga Ora wishes to acknowledge the further work carried out by the Council in considering the matters raised in the primary submission of Kāinga Ora. She noted in particular that Kāinga Ora agrees with the recommendations of the reporting officer in relation to the proposed Lawry Settlement Workers' Historic Heritage Area; and in light of the above, Kāinga Ora would not be submitting expert evidence or attending the hearing for PC 81.⁴⁷
165. We agree with Ms Richmond and Mr Hastings for the reasons set out in Mr Hastings' memo, including those reasons highlighted above and further discussed in the Hearings Report. We note that this addresses submission 18.1, as well as in part, the concerns raised in submissions 7.2 and 46.2. We have also taken into account the memorandum from Counsel for Kāinga Ora.
166. The Panel acknowledges that there were a number of submitters that supported the Lawry HHA be included in Schedules 14.1 and 14.2 however we note that none of those submitters provided evidence in support of their submissions, despite the Council's change of position in the Hearings Report recommendations. We agree with Mr Hastings that the extent of subdivision, new dwellings and changes to original dwellings has irreversibly reduced the heritage values of the area to a point where justifying scheduling is no longer possible.

Decision on Submissions

167. That submissions 7.2 and 18.1 are accepted and submission 46.2 is accepted in part to the extent that the Lawry HHA is not included in Schedule 14.1 and Schedule 14.2.
168. Accepting the above submissions requires striking through the inclusion of the Lawry HHA in all parts of PC 81. This is shown in Attachment A, Attachment B and Attachment C.
169. That the following submissions are rejected as the proposed Lawry HHA does not meet the criteria and thresholds for scheduling as a Historic Heritage Area due to extent of subdivision and development within the area: 2.1, 13.1, 15.1, 16.1, 19.1, 25.1, 26.1, 28.1, 29.1, 30.1, 33.2, 34.1, 35.1, 39.1 and 44.2.

170. PC 81 seeks to include Parkfield Terrace Historic Heritage Area in Grafton in Schedule 14.1 (Parkfield HHA). The plan change, as notified, proposes to add the following information to Schedule 14.1 for the area:

- the heritage values are (a) historical, (f) physical attributes and (h) context;
- the following features are identified as exclusions 'Interiors of all buildings contained within the extent of place unless otherwise identified in another scheduled historic heritage place; stand-alone accessory buildings built after 1940'; and
- the contributing and non-contributing sites and features.

171. The plan change, as notified, also seeks to add information to Schedule 14.2 Historic Heritage Areas – Maps and statements of significance. The extent of place proposed is shown on the planning maps and in Schedule 14.2, as shown below (not to scale).

Historic Heritage Overlay Extent of Place for Parkfield Terrace Historic Heritage Area

Findings

172. Submission 8.1 is from Wan Chien Company Ltd, the owner of 12 Parkfield Terrace. The submitter seeks deletion of the Parkfield HHA because the submitter considers the houses on this street to be of no historical significance. The submitter believes the area lacks value because the houses are workmen's cottages, are of poor quality and require upgrading, and are similar to other cottages elsewhere in the city.
173. Submission 40.1 is from Sandra-Li Shorley Donaldson, one of the owners of 17 Parkfield Terrace. Ms Donaldson does not support the inclusion of Parkfield HHA in PC 81. Ms Donaldson considers that due to the location within a walkable catchment, high density development should be enabled. The submitter considers that higher density housing should be allowed as Parkfield Terrace is within a "double grammar zone". Ms Donaldson also considers this is not a destination street that the public visit. Having lived in Parkfield Terrace for over 20 years, Ms Donaldson loves the location and considers that lots of people should have the opportunity to live here. Ms Donaldson does not wish to be forced to own a "historic heritage" zoned home and would not have purchased in this location if the HHA applied at the time of purchase.

174. Submission 46.3 is from Kāinga Ora, and opposes the inclusion of Parkfield HHA in Schedule 14.1. Like the Lawry HHA above, Kāinga Ora considers that the Parkfield HHA which is also located within a walkable catchment represents wide-reaching, blanket heritage overlays which is not proportionate to the actual heritage values within the area. Kāinga Ora are also of the view that deletion of Parkfield HHA is necessary to ensure that Kāinga Ora can carry out its statutory obligations and to fulfil its urban development functions as required under the Kāinga Ora–Homes and Communities Act 2019, despite Council's records indicating Kāinga Ora do not own land within the proposed Parkfield HHA.
175. Other reasons provided in the Kāinga Ora submission given for opposing Parkfield HHA include:
- Insufficient evidence has been supplied by the Council to warrant historic heritage protection.
 - The proposed scheduling unnecessarily conflates section 6 and section 7 matters of the RMA (inappropriately conflates the concepts of historic heritage and special character/amenity).
176. Ms Rebecca Freeman, the author of the evaluation recommending the Parkfield HHA be included in Schedule 14.1 reviewed the above submissions received. With regards to Submission 8.1, Ms Freeman agrees that the buildings in the street were constructed as workmen's cottages, but this does not preclude them from having heritage significance. She notes that heritage values are not limited to grand buildings associated with important people. The way average workers lived plays a significant role in our understanding of the development of Auckland as both a place and as a society⁴⁸.
177. Ms Freeman also agrees that while the cottages may be similar to others in Auckland, consistent intact groupings of these types of cottages in such close proximity to the city, are not common. Part of the significance of Parkfield Terrace is its location in Grafton, much of which was demolished to make way for the motorway. She notes that the values associated with these houses in this area cannot be transferred elsewhere.⁴⁹
178. It is Ms Freeman's view that there is no evidence the houses were constructed poorly or of substandard materials. The timber houses may require upgrading, as most/all houses will over time, but inclusion in Schedule 14 does not prevent this. Ms Freeman also notes the interiors of individual houses are not included in the scheduling and can be modified without resource consent.⁵⁰

⁵⁰ Ibid, paragraph 13

179. Turing to submission 40.1, the Panel acknowledges that the Parkfield HHA is within the walkable catchments of City Centre, Newmarket Metropolitan Centre and Grafton Train Station, however, the Section 32 Report sets out the land subject to the Historic Heritage Overlay represents an extremely small proportion of Auckland's total land area; less than 2.4% of land area and less than 1% of parcels⁵¹. We further note that with the proposed removal of the Lawry HHA, the land included in PC 81 represents an insignificant increase to the area of land subject to the Historic Heritage Overlay.
180. Further, we note that Ms Richmond has acknowledged that because of the size of each site, the location of the buildings on the site and their typology, it would not be possible to achieve the level of intensity envisaged for residential development within the walkable catchment under the NPS UD without demolition and amalgamation of multiple sites. Ms Richmond went on to note that this is not unique to many inner city suburbs, even those not subject to qualifying matters⁵².
181. It was also Ms Richmond's opinion that while the special character area overlay is not historic heritage under Part 2 of the RMA, the existing AUP provisions and those proposed under PC 78, do not enable the higher density of development that Ms Donaldson considers should apply to Parkfield Terrace.⁵³ We agree with Ms Richmond.
182. In her memorandum, Ms Freeman responded to the comment from this submitter regarding Parkfield Terrace not being a destination street that is visited by the public. Ms Freeman referred to the AUP criteria for evaluating historic heritage places and areas, and noted that none of these directly relate to how well-visited or well-known a place is. Ms Freeman highlighted that most of the places and areas in Schedule 14.1 are privately owned and may not even be visible from the public realm, let alone considered a destination. She considers this does not preclude or reduce their historic heritage value, because historic heritage values are intrinsic to a place or area irrespective of how many people know about them or seek them out.⁵⁴
183. With regards to submission 46.3, Counsel for Kāinga Ora – Ms Jennifer Caldwell tabled a memorandum dated 21 April 2023 which stated that Kāinga Ora wishes to acknowledge the further work carried out by the Council in considering the matters raised in the primary submission of Kāinga Ora. In particular, Kāinga Ora acknowledged that the reporting officer has not accepted the submission points in relation to the Proposed Parkfield Terrace HHA and while Kāinga Ora maintained its position, Counsel advised Kāinga Ora did not intend to submit evidence on this point, nor would it be attending the PC 81 hearing.⁵⁵

⁵⁴ Hearings Report, Freeman's Memo dated 27 February 2023, Attachment 8, paragraphs 16 - 17

⁵⁵ Memorandum of Counsel for Kāinga Ora, dated 21 April 2023

184. We are satisfied with Ms Freeman’s evaluation that Parkfield Terrace has sufficient value to meet the criteria and thresholds for a historic heritage area, as demonstrated in the evaluation dated May 2022, which identifies considerable historical, physical attributes and context values⁵⁶. We further note that no information has been provided by Kāinga Ora to dispute that Parkfield HHA meets the threshold for inclusion in Schedule 14.1 as a historic heritage area.
185. Ms Richmond has provided a comprehensive planning response to the submission points raised by Kāinga Ora in relation to the Parkfield Terrace HHA, setting out why in her opinion the Parkfield Terrace HHA should be included in Schedule 14.1 and 14.2⁵⁷. We agree with her.
186. Of particular note, Ms Richmond identified that the Section 32 Report acknowledges that Parkfield HHA is within a walkable catchment, where Policy 3 of the NPD UD directs intensification. The NPS UD provides that to achieve well-functioning urban environments that enable all people and communities to provide for their social, economic, and cultural wellbeing, and for their health and safety, now and into the future⁵⁸ may require modification of intensification within walkable catchments for a matter of national importance that decision-makers are required to recognise and provide for under section 6 of the RMA⁵⁹.
187. Further, with the removal of the Lawry HHA, Parkfield HHA is the only remaining HHA within a walkable catchment proposed in PC 81. With only 22 individual sites within Parkfield HHA, we are satisfied that this represents an insignificant increase in the entire land or number of parcels within walkable catchments.

Decision on Submissions

188. That submissions 8.1, 40.1 and 46.3 are rejected.

189. PC 81 seeks to include the Jervois Road Streamline Moderne/Art Deco Block Historic Heritage Area in Herne Bay in Schedule 14.1 (Jervois HHA). The plan change, as notified, proposes to add the following information to Schedule 14.1 for the area:

- the heritage values are (a) historical, (f) physical attributes, (g) aesthetic and (h) context;
- the following features are identified as exclusions 'Interior of building(s); stand-alone accessory buildings or garages built after 1945'; and
- the contributing and non-contributing sites and features.

190. The plan change, as notified, also seeks to add information to Schedule 14.2 Historic Heritage Areas – Maps and statements of significance. The extent of place proposed is shown on the planning maps and in Schedule 14.2, as shown below (not to scale).

Historic Heritage Overlay Extent of Place for Jervois Road Streamline Moderne/Art Deco Block Historic Heritage Area

Findings

191. The Herne Bay Residents' Association Incorporated (HBRAI) commissioned Burgess, Treep and Knight Architects to evaluate the group of historic interwar buildings located at 175 – 189 Jervois Road and 2 Salisbury Street, Herne Bay, against the criteria for historic heritage in the AUP. The evaluation formed the basis for HBRAI nominating a historic heritage area for protection.
192. The evaluation was prepared generally following the Council Methodology and by persons recognised as experts in this field. The Council therefore elected to undertake a peer review rather than duplicate an evaluation. The peer review was undertaken by Dr David Bade who had minor differences in opinion with Burgess, Treep and Knight Architects however, overall he agreed that the Jervois Road Streamline Moderne/Art Deco Block place meets the criteria and thresholds for scheduling as a historic heritage area and should be included in PC 81.

193. Submissions 22.2, 22.3 and 22.4 from HBRAI support their nomination. HBRAI refer to the Council concluding the threshold has been met in all cases and Council determined that scheduling is the best result. HBRAI point out the evaluations and assessments collectively show the Jervois HHA has unique, significant, and inherent values of historic heritage, physical attributes, architectural coherence and cohesion, and aesthetic, character defining, contextual and landmark values and qualities. HBRAI consider that individually, the subject buildings also exhibit most of these values.
194. Mr Hastings carried out a review of the submissions on behalf of Council and agreed with the conclusions of both the evaluation and the peer review, insofar as they relate to the collective value of the contributing buildings within the area. Mr Hastings considered the historical, physical attributes, aesthetic and context heritage values have each been determined to be ‘considerable’, with each value proven to have at least local geographic contextual importance⁶⁰.
195. Where Mr Hastings disagrees with the evaluation, peer review and some of the submitters is the inclusion of the negative or detracting impact of the two non-contributing sites on the collective values of the HHA as a whole⁶¹.
196. Mr Hastings is of the opinion that within such a small area, the collective presence of the three buildings at 183 and 185 Jervois Road, currently included as two non-contributing sites, is so physically and visually disruptive of the aforementioned proven values of the HHA, that the contiguous area proposed would not meet the threshold for scheduling. His specific reasons were:
- a. They are a significant a percentage of the overall built grouping;
 - b. They are located so centrally within what is a ‘straight run’ of buildings;
and
 - c. *They are so typologically different to the ‘other’ seven buildings within the area.*⁶²
197. As a result, Mr Hastings proposed an amendment to the HHA to exclude the two sites at 183 and 185 Jervois Road. He concluded the remaining seven sites and buildings should form the modified HHA, as a non-contiguous grouping.⁶³ Notably, it was Mr Hastings’s opinion that these heritage values are so existent and proven, that they will remain, notwithstanding the impact of any change adjacent, on any of the modified HHA’s boundaries.⁶⁴
198. Relying on the views of Mr Hastings, it was Ms Richmond’s opinion that submissions seeking the removal of these properties from the HHA must be accepted as it is necessary to meet the criteria and thresholds for scheduling a Historic Heritage Area.⁶⁵

199. Submissions 22.2 and 22.4 also sought that the extent of the overlay include the footpath, as recommended in the Burgess Treep and Knight Architects evaluation and Council peer review. This view is supported by Submissions 41.1 and 44.4 from Marion Kohler who is a member of HBRAI as well as the submissions from the HBRAI.
200. Mr Hastings agrees with these submission points, and noted the importance of maintaining an uninterrupted view to each building within the modified HHA. He subsequently proposed an amendment to the extent of place so that it includes the area adjacent to each contributing building between its boundary and the road kerb⁶⁶. We note that Ms Richmond also supports this outcome⁶⁷ and we acknowledge that this matter is not in dispute.
201. The Panel acknowledges that submissions 14.1, 21.1, 23.5, 27.1, 36.1 and 41.3 received in support of PC 81 are mostly from residents in the locality, including submission 14.1 from Suzanne Helen Wallace and submission 21.1 from Tony Blizzard who are landowners of flats within 179 Jervois Road. Their reasons for supporting the Jervois HHA are similar to the views expressed by the HBRAI.
202. Submission 4.1 from Jason Kelly, submission 5.1 from Eoin Feshensfeld, submission 10.1 from John Potter and submission 43.1 from Sarah Margaret Murray all oppose the inclusion of 189 Jervois Road within Schedule 14.1. These submitters are all owners of flats within 189 Jervois Road. This property is located on the northern corner of Jervois Road and Salisbury Street. The submitters raise similar concerns regarding the extent of modification to the building, including the rooftop addition. They consider the modifications are not sympathetic to the original design and significantly reduce its heritage value. The submitters are also concerned that the scheduling will impact on their ability to make changes to the building, particularly to provide a healthy place to live through the upgrade of building systems.
203. Mr Hastings agrees that the roof-top addition has had an adverse effect on the aesthetic heritage value of the building. However, he considers the addition is relatively minor and is not wholly unsympathetic with the original form and architectural typology given its styling and set-back. Mr Hastings concluded the building at 189 Jervois Road still presents as a highly representative example of an interwar apartment block in the style of the other six buildings within the HHA (as proposed to be modified).⁶⁸

⁶⁵ Hearings Report, 25.29

⁶⁶ Hearings Report, Hastings Memo dated 31 March 2023, Attachment 8, paragraph 10

⁶⁷ Hearings Report, paragraph 25.13

⁶⁸ Hearings Report, Hastings Memo dated 31 March 2023, Attachment 8, paragraph 23

204. Ms Richmond discussed the impact of scheduling on the ability to make changes to the building. She noted relevant to the matters raised by these submissions that:
- Modifications can be made to the interior of the building without resource consent as interiors of all buildings are listed as an exclusion.
 - The repair and maintenance of buildings within a HHA is a permitted activity (subject to standards).
 - Exterior modifications are subject to a restricted discretionary activity, but policies and assessment criteria in Chapter D17 support the use and development of scheduled historic heritage places, where it does not detract from the heritage values of the place and will not have significant adverse effects.⁶⁹
205. In his memorandum, Mr Hastings confirms works to upgrade the building are not precluded, although they would be subject to a standard resource consent process, through which any 'inappropriate' works, or those which might otherwise degrade the heritage values of the building, and the modified HHA, would be managed.⁷⁰
206. Submission 48.1 from Andrew Gibson, Mark Palmer, Mutsuko Yamazaki, Julie Smith and Mace Ward seek the decline of the Jervois HHA. The submitters are the owners of the buildings located on 183 and 185 Jervois Road and consider the collective value of the buildings and their contribution to the block is overstated.
207. We note that while their primary relief was to decline the Jervois HHA, the focus of their submission was on the two sites (and three buildings) in their ownership located on 183 and 185 Jervois Road and proposed to be identified in Schedule 14.2 as non-contributing within the HHA.
208. Mr Jeremy Whelan, architect for the submitters agreed that the properties do not contribute to the Jervois Road Streamline Moderne/Art Deco block. He opined that the submitters' properties have low level value and limited architectural merit, and their only significance is that they were subdivided from the original tram barn site and purchased in 1938 and 1944 respectively.⁷¹
209. He was of the opinion that the properties at 183 and 185 Jervois Road should be able to be redeveloped under the current underlying Terrace Housing and Apartment Buildings (THAB) zone rules to deliver a competent design for a residential development in a manner that contributes positively to the adjacent grouping of Streamline Moderne buildings while drawing on the design cues from the Jervois Heritage Area.
210. Mr Whelan advised that the operative matters of discretion contained in H6.8.1 also require consideration to be given to the effects of the building intensity, scale, location, form and appearance on neighbourhood character. He further noted that amendments proposed to the Matters of Discretion by PC 78 further strengthen the approach to allow a broader consideration of effects.

⁶⁹ Policies D17.3(3) and D17.3(4)

⁷¹ Mr Whelan's evidence-in-chief, paragraphs 3.7 and 3.8

211. Mr Mark Arbuthnot gave planning evidence on behalf of the submitters and agreed with the recommendations of the Section 42A report. Having regard to the Historic Heritage Area Evaluation and the Council peer review, he considered the submitters' properties do not display any influences or features of the Streamline Moderne style. He was also of the opinion that they are not interwar multi-unit apartment developments; being one of the key interrelationships of the Streamline Moderne/Art Deco Block (beyond style).⁷²
212. Mr Arbuthnot went on to say the fact that the submitters' properties once formed part of the Tram Barn subdivision and redevelopment is not, in his opinion, of such significance to the heritage values of the Jervois Heritage Area to warrant their inclusion. If it were, he would have expected the heritage area to include the four properties located at 3, 5, 7, and 9 Salisbury Street, which similarly formed part of the Tram Barn subdivision and redevelopment⁷³.
213. He was of the opinion that the inclusion of the submitters' properties fails to meet both of the requirements of RPS Policy B5.2.2(4). He stated the submitters' properties do not form part of a "group of interrelated but not necessarily contiguous historic heritage places or features that collectively meet the criteria for inclusion in Schedule 14.1 Schedule of Historic Heritage in Category A or B" and must be removed from the Jervois Heritage Area.⁷⁴
214. Mr Arbuthnot further noted if the concern is that the redevelopment of the submitters' properties would adversely affect the values of the Jervois Heritage Area, this is not the test for scheduling under the RPS.⁷⁵
215. We heard evidence from Graeme Burgess, architect for HBRAI that he considers these buildings do not contribute strongly to the heritage values of the site, however, in his opinion, they do not detract from that overall value⁷⁶. Mr Burgess noted the peer review undertaken for Council by Dr David Bade also concurred that the properties at 183 and 185 Jervois Road do not have the same significance as the Streamline Moderne/Art Deco buildings, but are part of the same tram barn subdivision and built around the same period. Dr Bade added that the building at 185 Jervois Road was also built as a duplex, a similar flat type category to the Streamline Moderne/Art Deco buildings as part of the block. He concluded that they should not be omitted from the group, but be included as "non-contributing" properties'.⁷⁷ We note that Ms Kohler, also representing HBRAI, held these same views.

216. Mr Burgess explained that the reason for scheduling the area as a whole was to ensure that the overall heritage values of the place could be managed through the D17 rules, so that any proposed change on any part of the block was assessed to be compatible with those heritage values⁷⁸. It was his opinion that removing the designation from these two properties introduces a much greater risk of creating 'a negative presence' at the centre of the block due to its underlying THAB zoning.⁷⁹
217. Specifically, he stated, removing these properties from the overall grouping removes the requirement to assess the heritage effects (D17 assessment) of any proposal on these sites, and the requirement to assess any possible effects on the heritage values of the proposed scheduled group. This would also allow THAB development on these properties. He considered that THAB development would have a significant impact on the heritage values of the place as a whole, through dominance of bulk and form and possible incompatibility of materials, design and finishes.⁸⁰
218. After carefully considering the expert evidence as well as the answered questions the Panel has determined that we agree with and prefer the evidence of Mr Burgess on this matter for the reasons set out in the above paragraphs and for the reasons set out in the peer review evaluation of Dr David Bade⁸¹. We note that Mr Burgess' opinion is generally consistent with that outlined by Dr Bade in this peer review evaluation which formed a part of the Hearings material provided to us⁸².
219. The Hearings Panel notes that Mr Arbuthnot filed a Memorandum after the hearing was adjourned to provide a response to some questions that the Panel had posed.⁸³ In that memo he submitted that it was inappropriate for the Panel to have any regard to Dr Bade's response to Commissioner Knott's question as to whether he remained by his original position or whether that had changed. This was because Dr Bade had not assessed the submissions or prepared any evidence in respect of this matter⁸⁴. While this observation is correct, we do not understand how this disqualifies us from being able to consider his review. We note that Mr Arbuthnot did not seek leave to file evidence to contradict the content of Dr Bade's review or comments to us at the hearing (which we would have been disposed to allow), preferring instead to rely on his submission as outlined above. We consider the peer review evaluation of Dr Bade to be evidence in this process. Furthermore, the Panel consider it to be of use and we rely on it.

220. In doing so, we find that the requirements of RPS Policy B5.2.2(4) are met in this regard. This policy states that HHAs are described as “groupings of interrelated but not necessarily contiguous historic heritage places or features that collectively meet the criteria for inclusion”. We note that each property within an HHA does not need to individually meet the criteria for inclusion, instead it is the common interrelated groupings of the heritage values of the HHA that are important. HHAs may therefore include both contributing and non-contributing sites as set out in the RPS.
221. In this case the properties form part of the entire Jervois Road frontage of the block that was formerly a tram barn (depot) site from 175 Jervois Road to 2 Salisbury Street and we consider there is great benefit in having one continuous area scheduled. Relying on the peer review of Dr Bade these properties contribute to the historical context of this group of interrelated places that collectively meet the criteria for inclusion in Schedule 14.1 Schedule of Historic Heritage in Category A or B. While not containing buildings that are streamline moderne in design, the properties do have some significance from being part of the same “tram barn” subdivision and being built around the same period. We therefore conclude that the properties at 183 and 185 Jervois Road should not be omitted from the Jervois HHA group, but instead be included as “non-contributing” properties.

Decision on Submissions

222. That submissions 14.1, 21.1 22.2, 22.3 22.4, 27.1, 41.1, 41.2, 41.3 and 41.4 be accepted, and submissions 4.1, 5.1, 10.1, 43.1, 48.1, 48.2 and 48.3 be rejected.

Schedule 14.2.18 Pūhoi Township Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02849)

Statement of significance

Located in a valley on the banks of Pūhoi River, the Pūhoi township was established in 1863 by German-speaking Bohemian immigrants from the Staab region of the present-day Czech Republic. The town was established as a “special settlement” under the terms of the 1858 Auckland Waste Lands Act, through which the province offered prospective European immigrants free 40-acre blocks, disposing of unsold “waste land” it had acquired from Māori through Crown pre-emption.

The Pūhoi township has outstanding historical value as an intact 19th century “special settlement”, representing a phase in the history of New Zealand when there was considerable effort to change the environment and make-up of the population to be a colony of the British Empire. The township also has significance as one of few settlements established by non-English-speaking settlers from mainland Europe through the Auckland Waste Lands Act (1858) legislation. The great majority were from England, Scotland and Ireland. Indeed, the Pūhoi township was the first Bohemian settlement in New Zealand, and the only one in the Auckland region (one other, smaller, settlement being set up in Ohaupo in Waikato in the 1860s).

The Pūhoi township began to flourish in the 1870s and civic, religious and commercial buildings were built, many of which still exist today. By the early- to mid-20th century the settlement included a church (1881) (including a 1906 presbytery, a 1922 convent school, and a 1923 convent), stables (1883), workers residences (1886 and 1901), a community hall (1900), a hotel (1901), a library (1913), a wharf shed (1924), and a general store (1939). All of these buildings still exist. Other buildings and structures were also built but no longer remain today. However, sites and remnants are still apparent in the township, including the remnants of the 1877 wharf and Pūhoi Road bridge (late 19th century), as well as the (now vacant) sites of the landing spot and first buildings of the settlement (1863), the Schischka boarding house and store (built 1876), the blacksmith premises (1880s), and the first presbytery (1880). The Pūhoi township has considerable context value as a well-preserved example of a colonial New Zealand town dating from the second half of the 19th century, and indeed one of the most distinct and discernible “special settlements” established in the 1860s.

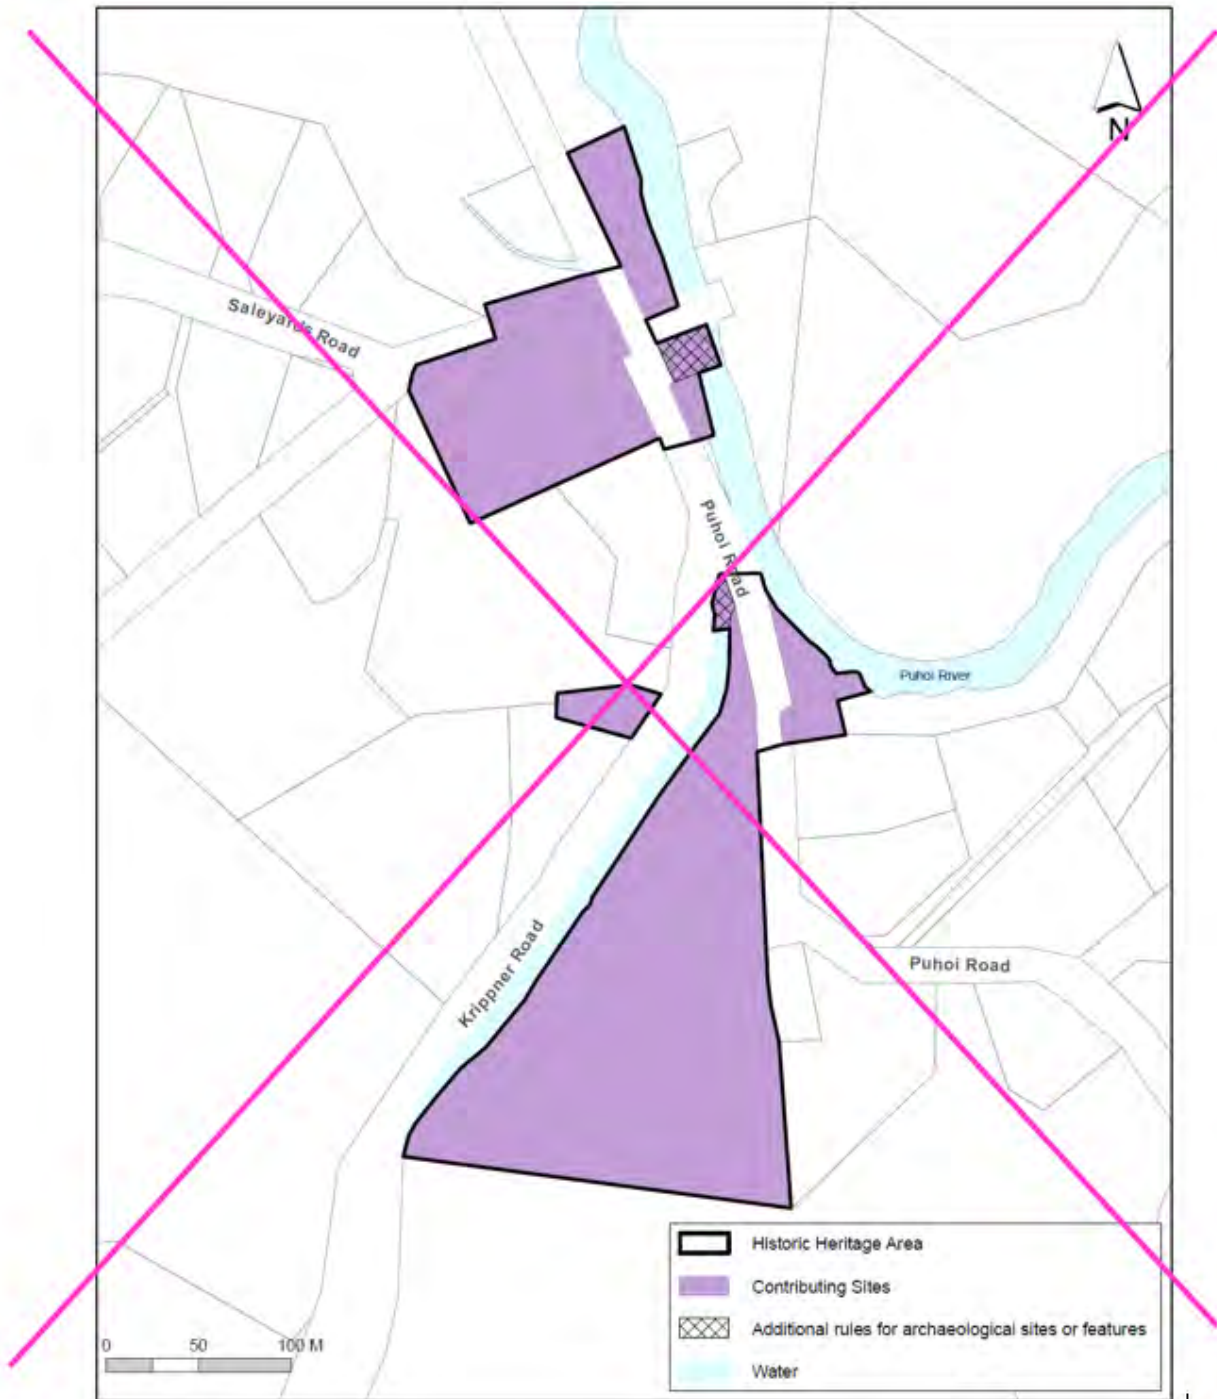

The Pūhoi township is generally characterised by ribbon development along the main roads. The Pūhoi township has a strong rural village character, with buildings located in varied positions and orientations, generally facing the main road. The Pūhoi River is an important and prominent feature, running adjacent to Pūhoi/Ahuroa Road from the bend in Ahuroa Road in the north to close to the intersection between Pūhoi Road and Krippner Road in the south. Two tributary channels from the Pūhoi River are located west of the river under the main road. On the eastern side of Pūhoi Road is reserve (grassed) land, the location of many early buildings (but no longer extant) and memorials to the Bohemian settlers. As a whole, the Pūhoi township has considerable aesthetic value as a picturesque rural settlement, of 19th century origin. Its collection of late-19th to early-20th century buildings and structures, together with trees and the rural and river backdrop, provides strong visual appeal.

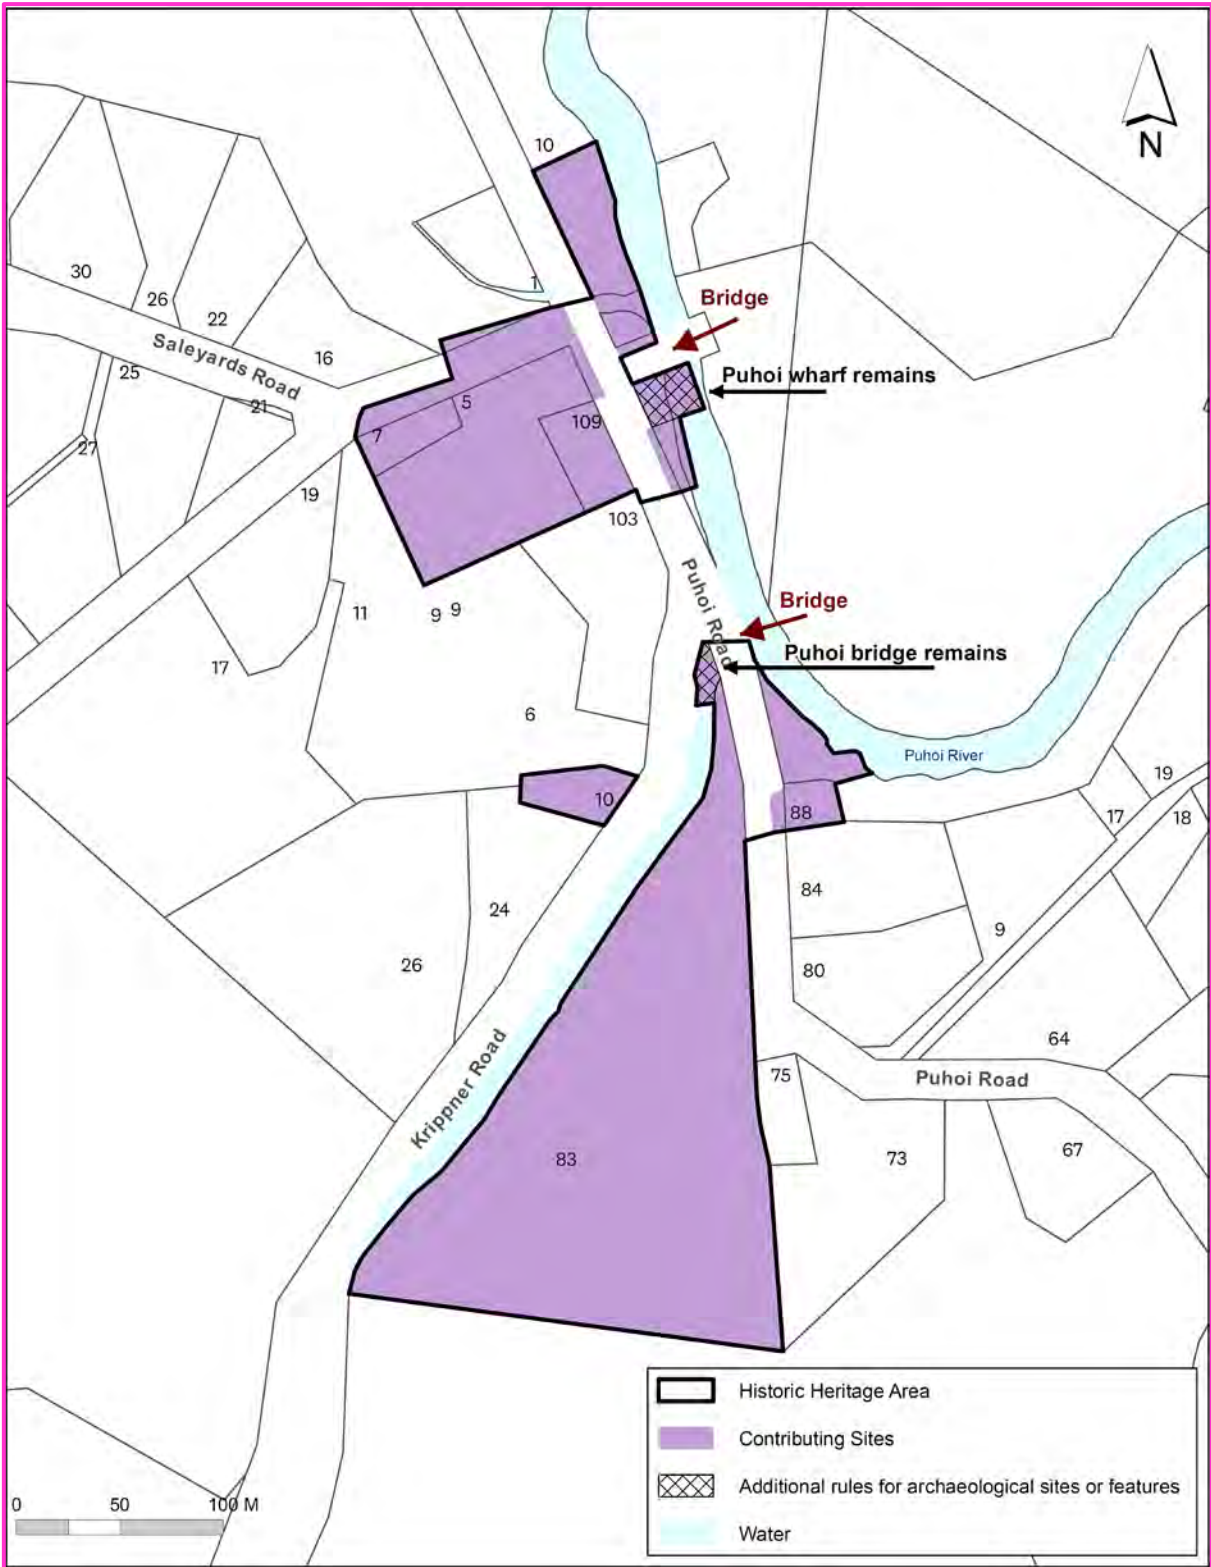

Pūhoi township’s collection of buildings from its key period of development (1863-1939) has considerable physical attributes value. Most of the buildings have had minor additions and alterations, but these do not substantially affect their physical attribute values. Two of the historical buildings particularly stand out as local landmarks due to their height and picturesque appearance: the Church of St Peter and St Paul – on the northern end of the township – and the Pūhoi Hotel – at the southern end of the township. All the historical buildings are constructed in timber with metal roofs, with the exception of the concrete and plaster Pūhoi Library and the Pūhoi Store. The buildings are generally in a simple vernacular style, similar to other late 19th and early 20th century buildings of their type. However, the Church of St Peter and St Paul – designed by the early notable Auckland architect James Wrigley – and the convent school (1922) and convent (1923) – designed by well-known Auckland architect Thomas Mahoney \(especially for the Catholic church\) – stand out as architecturally-designed buildings.

Pūhoi has considerable social value and is held in high esteem by the descendants of the Bohemian settlers of the 1860s and 1870s. Jubilee celebrations commemorating the arrival of the first settlers in 1863 were, and continue to be held, through the 20th and 21st centuries, drawing large crowds. Memorials were made to mark occasions, including the Pūhoi Pioneers Memorial Park (1938 – 75th anniversary), the memorial gate to the park (1953 – 90th anniversary), a Wayside Shrine on Pūhoi Road (1953 – 90th anniversary), the Pūhoi landing stone (1988 – 125th anniversary), and a time capsule in the landing reserve (2013 – 150th anniversary).

Schedule 14.2.19 Lawry Settlement Workers' Housing Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID-02450)

Statement of significance

The houses within the Lawry Settlement Workers' Housing area on Ramsgate, Findlay, Cawley and Hewson Streets in Ellerslie are of considerable national significance for their historic values strongly associated with the Workers' Dwelling Acts of 1905 and 1910, which was the first central government-led legislation in the western world providing for the government to build public housing for its citizens. Named after Liberal Government Member of Parliament, Francis (Frank) Lawry, the Lawry Settlement in Ellerslie was established in 1905-6, with its streets being named after other Members of Parliament.

It was the largest planned settlement of its type in New Zealand and with approximately 73 houses built was over double any other similar settlement in the country. There are 38 workers' dwellings remaining on the eastern side of the settlement, making it the largest extant group of state houses from this time period in Auckland. The remaining dwellings of the Lawry Settlement Worker's Housing area represent an important political and social idea in New Zealand and assist in understanding the roots of New Zealand's state housing program that has continued almost uninterrupted for over a century.

Workers' dwellings within the Lawry Settlement are representative examples of early state-designed housing by government architect Woburn Temple, exemplifying the government notion that state housing would be indistinguishable from private housing. Special attention was paid to ventilation and sanitation, and modern conveniences such as hot water and indoor plumbing were included.

The houses are characterised by their villa and transitional villa style and materiality including massing, roof form, weatherboard cladding, timber joinery and ornamentation and corrugated metal roofing. All dwellings remain single storey and most dwellings have a skillion roof lean to, with some lean to forms extended to the rear. The Lawry Settlement contains seven of Temple's plans that are the only known examples of such in the region.

Distinctive features of Temple's designs remain evident such the cant window. Timber ornamentation including eaves brackets, gable detailing, shingles and fretwork are highly visible, with some designs displaying geometric and arts and crafts influences. Many houses retain at least one decorative chimney which are a significant feature in the streetscape.

Common modifications include infilled and/or extended verandahs, replacement roofing or some replacement windows. Some changes have also occurred to the individual subdivision grain and infill development has occurred behind, and adjacent to, original houses.

The houses within the Lawry Settlement have considerable value as part of a wider cultural and thematic context of state housing across Auckland and New Zealand. Houses on Ramsgate, Findlay, Cawley and Hewson Streets comprise a group of interrelated places which have coherence because of shared age, architectural style and historical associations. The houses contribute to the townscape of Ellerslie and have a streetscape character and sense of place which is reinforced by their rhythm and setbacks, intact historic subdivision boundaries and proximity to the railway.

Schedule 14.2.20 Parkfield Terrace Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02451)

Statement of significance

Parkfield Terrace has significance for illustrating the last phase of residential subdivision and development in Grafton. While the surrounding land had been subdivided beginning in the 1860s, the subject area remained in use as the Bennett and Green Ltd plant nursery until 1911. Parkfield Terrace is now one of the few remaining areas of suburban residential development in the area, following the demolition of much of the housing stock for the construction of State Highway 1. This residential subdivision helps define Grafton as a suburb and demonstrates a historic pattern of development that was once common in the city fringe, but is becoming increasingly rare.

The area is a contiguous grouping of 22 houses along Parkfield Terrace, which is located in the suburb of Grafton, approximately 600m from the edge of the Auckland Central Business District. Parkfield Terrace is a cul-de-sac road extending from Khyber Pass and connecting to Carlton Gore Road via a pedestrian walkway. Bluestone kerbing, footpaths and mature plane trees extend along the road, and these characteristics contribute to its historical value, urban amenity and aesthetic.

The residences included in Parkfield Terrace are one- or one-and-a-half storey timber houses in styles that were popular during the early years of the 20th century, including villas, transitional villas and bungalows. In particular, the area includes good examples of smaller types of these styles, including bungalow cottages and centre-bay villas. Collectively, the area has exceptional consistency in terms of its scale, fabric, massing, rhythm of development, setback and subdivision pattern. The area is almost entirely as built, with only one of the original houses missing (due to being destroyed by a fire). Generally, houses retain a high degree of physical integrity and have had few significant modifications.

The historic subdivision pattern is intact. Lot sizes are small - ranging from 215m²-330m² - as their size was constrained by surrounding development. All houses in the area are located on the full extent of their original site, and none of the land parcels have been formally subdivided. Minor development has taken place in the side and rear yards of sites where the narrow side and rear yards permit. This type of development usually amounts to a small extension to, or replacement of, the original lean-to and a garage or shed.

Houses are built close to the front property boundaries with a small setback of around 1.5-2m. The visual appeal of the houses is enhanced by low timber, brick or stone fencing (usually around 1m), which ensures houses are open to the street. Some houses have small gardens or other plantings in front, which combine with the mature street trees to give the area a strong sense of place.

The context of Parkfield Terrace is that of an urban residential subdivision, close to the City Centre and the amenities in Karangahape Road and Newmarket. This location contextualises the area as a city fringe subdivision, developed with a reliance on public, rather than private, transport.

Schedule 14.2.21 Jervois Road Streamline Moderne/Art Deco Block Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02452)

Statement of significance

The Jervois Road Streamline Moderne/Art Deco Block is a cohesive group of Streamline Moderne/Art Deco-style apartment buildings that represent an important period of development in Herne Bay and inner suburban Auckland. They are the most intact grouping of this type of building from this period in Auckland. Built between the late 1930s and early 1940s, the group consists of nine lots, located between 175 Jervois Road and 2 Salisbury Street, Herne Bay.

All but one of the apartment buildings occupy the entire Jervois Road frontage of the block that was formerly a tram barn (depot) site. The site, between Wallace Street and Salisbury Street on Jervois Road, was a facility that served the Auckland Tram network from the 1880s until 1929. Herne Bay developed as a suburb during this period, and consequently the area around the tram barn has strong Victorian and Edwardian character.

The Jervois Road tram barn was replaced in 1929 by a larger facility in the city. The building was demolished, freeing up the land for subdivision. However, the onset of the Great Depression meant that the property remained undeveloped for almost a decade. In the late 1930s and early 1940s, the properties were finally developed. The developers appeared to share an interest in the popular Streamline Moderne/Art Deco architectural style and were happy to invest in a relatively new (and dramatically different) form of housing: multi-unit apartment buildings.

The row is a highly intact grouping of apartment buildings or 'flats' designed in, or influenced by, the 'Streamline Moderne' typology with the exception of the single storey English Cottage Revival house at 183 and the former duplex at 185 Jervois Road. Varying in size and height, the buildings are all located close to the front of their lot, with a minor setback – most are around 4m from the front boundary. The properties at 183 and 185 Jervois Road are set back a little further (8-9m). The apartment buildings take up most of the area of the lots, with garages (part of the original design) found at the rear. Only one property (183 Jervois Road) has infill to the rear.

The north-eastern half of the block is generally open to the street, with either no wall, or a low masonry wall fronting the street. The south-western half of the block has higher masonry walls fronting the street, with the exception of 2 Salisbury Street which has a hedge.

The apartments are of masonry construction, with textured stucco cladding. Apart from some minor alterations over time, the buildings have retained their original form and characteristics. Notable features of the Streamline Moderne/Art Deco architectural design of the buildings include: fenestration (banks of casement windows), high parapets (and flat roofs), horizontal coloured bands, dimensional lettering (showing the name of each building), and textured stucco finish. Some buildings also have curved flowing façades.

All but one of the buildings are known to have been architecturally designed, most by architect A.C. Jeffries (but also A.S. O'Connor and A.B. Cocombe). These architects were prolific Auckland architects during the interwar period, drawing on architectural fads of the time, including the Spanish Mission and Art Deco styles. The Jervois Road Streamline Moderne/Art

Deco Block buildings are illustrative and highly intact examples of a design type for which they were noted.

The apartment buildings have regional historical significance as they represent the shifting lifestyles of the period and the approach taken at that time to provide a more intensive alternative form of residential accommodation (especially around tram routes).

Forming a highly cohesive and visible group, the apartment buildings are a landmark feature in the locality. Situated in a prominent position along the Jervois Road ridge, they are clearly visible from the street and are considerably significant for their aesthetic and contextual values. The end buildings, “Raycourt” sweeping around the corner of Wallace Street, and “Riverina” on the corner of Salisbury with the Salisbury apartments opposite, are focal points in the local urban landscape. In the Herne Bay context, they are an extraordinary collective grouping of apartment buildings, in an area that historically and to a large extent still is predominantly individual villas on their own lots.

 From: Emma Rush – Senior Advisor Special Projects - Heritage

Subject: Plan Modification: Clause 16 amendment to a proposed plan change
 Plan Change 81: Historic Heritage Additions to the Auckland Unitary Plan (Operative in Part 2016)

I seek your approval to make an amendment to a proposed policy statement or plan pursuant to clause 16, Schedule 1, Resource Management Act 1991 (RMA). Clause 16(2) provides that:

A local authority may make an amendment, without using the process in this schedule, to its proposed policy statement or plan to alter any information, where such an alteration is of minor effect, or may correct any minor errors.

The RMA defines proposed plan at section 43AAC as follows:

- (1) In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires, proposed plan—
 - (a) means a proposed plan, a variation to a proposed plan or change, or a change to a plan proposed by a local authority that has been notified under clause 5 of Schedule 1 or given limited notification under clause 5A of that schedule, but has not become operative in terms of clause 20 of that schedule; and
 - (b) includes—
 - (i) a proposed plan or a change to a plan proposed by a person under Part 2 of Schedule 1 that has been adopted by the local authority under clause 25\(2\)\(a\) of Schedule 1:
 - (ii) an IPI notified in accordance with section 80F\(1\) or \(2\).

Plan Change 81: Historic Heritage Additions (PC81) is a plan change to the Auckland Unitary Plan that has been notified but has not yet been approved under clause 17, Schedule 1, or become operative.

You have delegated authority, as a Tier 4 manager, to make a decision to amend the plan change under clause 16 where the alteration is of minor effect or to correct any minor errors. Schedule 2A of the Auckland Council Combined Chief Executives Delegation Register authorises all powers, functions, and duties under RMA’s first schedule (except clause 17 which cannot be delegated) to tier four positions.

Nature of error or alteration	PC81 proposes to add several new historic heritage places to Schedule 14.1. Each scheduled place has a unique number, shown in the ID column in Schedule 14.1. PC81 in error allocated ID numbers to two new historic heritage places that are already allocated to existing scheduled places.
Effect of change	The change will correct a minor typographical error which will not change the intent or content of the matter. The change corrects the ID numbering where there is no doubt of the intended number. The proposed amendment is not debatable in any way or form; it is obvious that there should not be different

Decision [2024] NZEnvC 174

IN THE MATTER OF an appeal under clause 14 of the First Schedule of the Resource Management
Act 1991

BETWEEN M AFSARI
(ENV-2023-AKL-000216)
Appellant
AND AUCKLAND COUNCIL
Respondent

Court: Chief Environment Judge D A Kirkpatrick sitting alone under s 279 of the Act
Last case event: 13 June 2024
Date of Order: 22 July 2024
Date of Issue: 22 July 2024

CONSENT ORDER

A: Under section 279(1)(b) of the Resource Management Act 1991, the Environment Court, by consent, orders that:

- (1) The appeal is allowed, to the extent that the provisions are amended in accordance with Appendix 1 and 2 to this order; and

Afsari v Auckland Council

(2) The appeal is otherwise dismissed.

B: Under section 285 of the Resource Management Act 1991, there is no order as to costs.

REASONS

Introduction

[1] This appeal relates to the decision of Auckland Council (Council) on the proposed Lawry Settlement Workers' Housing Historic Heritage Area (Lawry Settlement HHA) in Plan Change 81 – Additions to Schedule 14 Historic Heritage Schedule (PC 81) to the Auckland Council Unitary Plan Operative in Part (AUP(OP)) (Appeal).

Background

[2] The Council notified PC 81 on 18 August 2022. PC 81 sought to recognise the historic heritage values of 11 historic heritage places – seven individual Historic Heritage Places and four Historic Heritage Areas – by adding them to Schedule 14 and the planning maps of the AUP(OP).

[3] One of the four Historic Heritage Areas proposed in PC 81 was the Lawry Settlement HHA. The proposed Lawry Settlement HHA was located in Ellerslie, Auckland, and included houses that were associated with the Workers' Dwellings Acts of 1905 and 1910.

[4] PC 81 was heard by Independent Hearing Commissioners on 9 and 10 May 2023.

[5] The Independent Hearing Commissioners decided that the extent of subdivision, new dwellings and changes to original dwellings had irreversibly reduced the heritage values of the proposed Lawry Settlement HHA to a point where justifying scheduling was no longer possible. The Independent Hearing Commissioners decided not to include the Lawry Settlement HHA in Schedule 14, as set out in their decision publicly notified on 10 November 2023 (Decision).

Appeal

[6] The Appellant lodged an Appeal against the Decision on 15 December 2023. The Appeal sought to have the Lawry Settlement HHA included in Schedule 14 of the AUP(OP). In particular, it identified a smaller area within the Lawry Settlement HHA that should be included. The area comprised of the western part of Findlay Street, southward down Ramsgate Street, and all of Hewson Street between Ramsgate Street and Cawley Street, Ellerslie.

[7] No other Appeal has been lodged against the Council's decision on PC 81.

[8] No parties gave notice of interest in the Appeal under s 274 of the RMA.

[9] The Parties carried out direct settlement discussions on 11 March 2024 and again on 30 April 2024.

Heritage evaluation

[10] The Council's heritage expert Blair Hastings was engaged to assess whether, based on the known heritage values of the area, there was a refined area within the Lawry Settlement HHA that could meet the threshold for inclusion in Schedule 14.

[11] Blair Hastings concluded that an area including 25 properties met the thresholds for scheduling as an Historic Heritage Area because it has considerable overall significance to the locality, region, and nation. Blair Hastings prepared an affidavit in support of the consent documents.

[12] Blair Hastings has identified the area as the "Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area Historic Heritage Area" (Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area HHA). The key features of the Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area HHA are as follows:

- (a) The extent of place covers 25 properties, which comprise the most intact remaining cohesive grouping of the proposed Lawry Settlement HHA;
- (b) The extent of place includes 22 original houses designed by Woburn Herbert Temple, the Department of Labour supervising architect for the Lawry Settlement that are Contributing Sites. It only includes three Non-contributing Sites, which are three post-1923 houses;

- (c) The Exclusions are the interiors of all buildings contained within the Extent of Place, unless otherwise identified in another scheduled historic heritage place, stand-alone accessory buildings, structures, or garages built after 1923; and
- (d) The proposed “Workers’ Dwellings Act Housing Area” HHA is very similar to the area the Appellant sought to be included as an Historic Heritage Area in its Appeal, except that it does not include numbers 7 Ramsgate Street, and 15 and 20 Findlay Street.

Agreement reached

[13] The Parties have agreed to include the Workers’ Dwellings Act Housing Area HHA as a Historic Heritage Area through the following amendments to the AUP(OP):

- (a) Additions to Chapter L: Schedule 14.1 Schedule of Historic Heritage Table 2: Historic Heritage Areas;
- (b) Additions to Chapter L: Schedule 14.2 Historic Heritage Areas – Maps and Statements of Significance; and
- (c) Amendments to Auckland Unitary Plan GIS Viewer (Planning maps).

Section 32AA evaluation

[14] Section 32AA of the Act requires a further evaluation of any changes to a proposed plan change since the initial s 32 evaluation report.

[15] Tania Richmond prepared an affidavit in support of the draft consent order that included a further evaluation in support of the proposed Workers’ Dwellings Act Housing Area HHA under s 32AA of the RMA.

[16] In summary, Ms Richmond has concluded that:¹

- (a) Scheduling the proposed Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area HHA is consistent with Part 2, and in particular with the purpose of the RMA, as it provides for the sustainable management of Auckland's historic heritage resources;
- (b) The heritage controls in the AUP(OP) are a management regime that is efficient and effective as the provisions provide a proven framework for the appropriate use and development of Historic Heritage Places;
- (c) The Extent of Place of the Historic Heritage Overlay proposed in the Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area HHA imposes the heritage controls over the most intact remaining cohesive grouping of the proposed Lawry Settlement HHA. It does not include the larger number of Non-contributing Sites originally identified in the proposed Lawry Settlement HHA;
- (d) In real terms, there is limited impact of the Historic Heritage Overlay Qualifying Matter on enabling intensification within the Walkable Catchment of the Ellerslie Train Station, as provided for under the NPS-UD, which was a concern raised in the submission by Kāinga Ora. This is because the land within the proposed Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area HHA is also subject to a Qualifying Matter for a floodplain and proposed to be zoned Residential – Low Density Residential zone under Plan Change 78: Intensification to the AUP(OP); and
- (e) In addition, even if proposed Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area HHA did restrict the potential for intensification, including the Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area HHA in the Historic Heritage Overlay results in 4.4% of the land in Walkable Catchment of the Ellerslie Train Station being subject to a Qualifying Matter for historic heritage. Tania Richmond considers this an insignificant impact on intensification

Consideration

[17] In making this order the Court has read and considered:

- (a) The Council's decision on Proposed Plan Change 81;
- (b) The notice of appeal; and
- (c) The joint memorandum of counsel in support of the draft consent order dated 13 June 2024, together with the s 32AA evaluation contained in the affidavit of Tania Richmond (planning) on behalf of Auckland Council dated 11 June 2024, and the heritage evaluation contained in the affidavit of Blair Hastings on behalf of Auckland Council dated 11 June 2024.

[18] The Court is making this order under section 279(1) of the Act, such order being by consent, rather than representing a decision or determination on the merits. The Court understands for present purposes that:

- (a) All parties to the proceedings have executed the memorandum requesting this order; and
- (b) All parties are satisfied that all matters proposed for the Court's endorsement fall within the Court's jurisdiction, and conform to the relevant requirements and objectives of the Act including, in particular, Part 2.

Orders

[19] Therefore, the Court orders, by consent, that:

- (a) The appeal is allowed to the extent that:

- (i) Schedule 14 of the AUP(OP) is amended in accordance with the agreed terms set out in Appendix 1 attached to and forming part of this order; and
 - (ii) The planning maps to the AUP(OP) are amended in accordance with Appendix 2 attached to and forming part of this order;
- (b) The appeal is otherwise dismissed; and
- (c) There is no order as to costs.

Schedule 14.2.XX Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID XXXXX)

Statement of significance

The Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area on Findlay Street and Hewson Street in Ellerslie is a group of 22 workers' dwellings that were constructed between 1908 and 1919 under the Workers' Dwellings Acts of 1905 and 1910. The area was part of the Lawry Settlement, which was one of three workers' dwellings settlements in Auckland, and the largest planned settlement in New Zealand.

The Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area is of considerable national historical significance for associations with the Workers' Dwellings Acts of 1905 and 1910, which were the first central government-led legislation in the western world providing for the government to build public housing for its citizens.

Specifically, the Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area has strong historical associations with the Lawry Settlement, of which it was a part. Named after Liberal Government Member of Parliament, Francis (Frank) Lawry, the area which includes a highly intact grouping of original workers' dwellings that assists greatly in understanding the roots of New Zealand's State Housing program.

The Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area predominantly retains its street-facing pattern of development. Together with the deep setbacks, low fencing or hedging and a general lack of garaging in front yards, the layout of the area continues to reflect the ideals of a suburban community, as originally envisioned by the First Labour Government.

Workers' dwellings within the Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area are early State-designed housing by government architect Woburn Temple. In their design and construction, they exemplify the notion that State Housing should be indistinguishable from private housing. Workers' dwellings were designed to be high quality and included a range of amenities. Special attention was paid to ventilation and sanitation, and modern conveniences such as hot-water and indoor plumbing were included.

Temple prepared a set of 24 house plans (later reduced to 15) that future residents could choose from; the Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area contains examples of six of Temple's plans, and they are the only known examples in the region. The houses are characterised by their villa and transitional villa style and materiality, their massing, roof form, weatherboard cladding, timber joinery, ornamentation, and corrugated metal roofing. All dwellings remain single-storey and most dwellings have a lean-to styled roof extending to their rear.

Distinctive features of Temple's designs remain evident in the area, including cant windows and side entries. Timber ornamentation including eaves brackets, gable detailing, shingles and fretwork are highly visible, with some designs displaying geometric and Arts and Crafts influences. Many houses retain at least one decorative chimney which are a significant feature in the streetscape. The houses largely retain their original architectural features and built form.

The area also exhibits aesthetic value in its well-maintained wide berms, its consistent patterning of mature street trees and the integrity of the original bluestone kerbing across the entire area. Infill development is present in the streetscape but is not a dominant feature.

The houses within the Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area have considerable value as part of a wider cultural and thematic context of State Housing across Auckland and New Zealand. Houses on Findlay Street and Hewson Street comprise a group of interrelated places which have coherence because of shared age, architectural style, and historical associations. The houses contribute to the townscape of Ellerslie and have a streetscape character and sense of place.

The period of significance is between 1905 when the first Workers' Dwellings Act was passed, to 1923 when the government decided not to pursue further development in the Lawry Settlement.

Schedule 14.1 Schedule of Historic Heritage

[new text to be inserted]

[rcp/dp]

Introduction

The criteria in B5.2.2\(1\) to \(5\) have been used to determine the significant historic heritage places in this schedule and will be used to assess any proposed additions to it.

The criteria that contribute to the heritage values of scheduled historic heritage in Schedule 14.1 are referenced with the following letters:

A: historical

B: social

C: Mana Whenua

D: knowledge

E: technology

F: physical attributes

G: aesthetic

H: context.

Information relating to Schedule 14.1

Schedule 14.1 includes for each scheduled historic heritage place;

- an identification reference (also shown on the Plan maps)
- a description of a scheduled place
- a verified location and legal description and the following information:

Reference to Archaeological Site Recording

Schedule 14.1 includes in the place name or description a reference to the site number in the New Zealand Archaeological Association Site Recording Scheme for some places, for example R10_709.

Categories of scheduled historic heritage places

Schedule 14.1 identifies the category of significance for historic heritage places, namely:

- (a) outstanding significance well beyond their immediate environs (Category A); or
- (b) the most significant scheduled historic heritage places scheduled in previous district plans where the total or substantial demolition or destruction was a discretionary or non-complying activity, rather than a prohibited activity (Category A*). This is an interim category until a comprehensive re-evaluation of these places is undertaken and their category status is addressed through a plan change process; or

- (c) considerable significance to a locality or greater geographic area (Category B).

Further information on the categories of scheduled historic heritage places is contained in D17 Historic Heritage Overlay.

Primary feature

Schedule 14.1 lists the primary feature of historic heritage significance for a scheduled place. Not all primary features of Category B places have been identified. Until such time as the primary features of Category B places are identified, all features within the extent of Category B places, where the primary features are not identified, will be considered a primary feature.

Extent of a scheduled historic heritage place

Schedule 14.1 refers to the 'extent of place' of a scheduled historic heritage place. In most cases reference is made to the extent of a scheduled historic heritage place being shown on the Plan maps. The historic heritage overlay rules apply to all land and water (including the foreshore and seabed) within the identified extent of a scheduled historic heritage place.

Where a scheduled historic heritage place is annotated with a # symbol in Schedule 14.1 an extent of place has yet to be defined. For places annotated with a # symbol the rules in D17 Historic Heritage Overlay apply to all land and water (including the foreshore and seabed) within 50 metres of the feature named or described in the schedule.

For Historic Heritage Areas the maps and statements of significance in Schedule 14.2 describe the identified extent of place. When the extent of place for a scheduled historic heritage place is shown on a map in Schedule 14.2 it shall take precedence over the extent of place shown on the Plan maps.

Exclusions

Schedule 14.1 identifies as 'exclusions' those sites, features or elements of a historic heritage place that do not have historic heritage value. Excluded features are subject to different rules than those that apply to the scheduled place (refer to D17 Historic Heritage Overlay).

Additional rules for archaeological sites or features

Schedule 14.1 identifies those scheduled historic heritage places with archaeological values where additional archaeological rules apply (refer to D17 Historic Heritage Overlay).

Place of Māori significance

Schedule 14.1 identifies scheduled historic heritage places that are sites or places of significance to Mana Whenua. These places may also be subject to D21 Sites and Places of Significance to Mana Whenua Overlay.

Requirements of the Heritage New Zealand Pouhere Taonga Act 2014

In addition to the Plan provisions relating to scheduled historic heritage places the provisions of the Heritage New Zealand Pouhere Taonga Act 2014 apply.

Historic heritage places subject to heritage orders

Historic heritage places that are subject to Heritage Orders under the Heritage New Zealand Pouhere Taonga Act 2014 are included in Schedule 13 Heritage Orders Schedule.

Heritage New Zealand Pouhere Taonga (Heritage New Zealand)

Heritage New Zealand maintains the New Zealand Heritage List/ Rārangī Kōrero which is a list of historic places, historic areas and wahi tapu areas. Heritage New Zealand is also required to establish and maintain the list of National Historic Landmarks/ Ngā Manawhenua o Aotearoa me ōna Kōrero Tūturu. A scheduled historic heritage place in this Plan may also be on the New Zealand Heritage List.

In addition to the requirements of this Plan, the Heritage New Zealand Pouhere Taonga Act 2014 requires an authority to be obtained from Heritage New Zealand to modify or destroy any archaeological site meeting the criteria set out in that Act, whether or not it is recorded or scheduled.

If works are proposed to a scheduled historic heritage place, and the place meets the definition of an 'archaeological site' in the Heritage New Zealand Pouhere Taonga Act 2014, then the works will be subject to the provisions of that Act in addition to this Plan. Some places that meet the definition of an 'archaeological site' under the Heritage New Zealand Pouhere Taonga Act 2014 will not be included in Schedule 14.1, and an authority to modify an archaeological site will be required from Heritage New Zealand.

Prior to starting work, or making an application for a resource consent affecting a historic heritage place Heritage New Zealand should be contacted to confirm whether, in addition to any rules applying in this Plan;

- (1) an authority is required from Heritage New Zealand to modify an archaeological site; or
- (2) the place is on the New Zealand Heritage List/ Rārangī Kōrero or list of National Historic Landmarks.

Schedule 14.2 Historic Heritage Areas – Maps and statements of significance

Schedule 14.2.1 Ardmore Road, Wanganui Avenue, Albany Road and Trinity Street Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02516)

Statement of significance

This is an area of Edwardian villas displaying a good representation of architectural and landscape character, with very clear geographic and topographic identity. The area displays stylistic and spatial consistency, which derives from both the nature of the subdivision, and a remarkable “group building” venture (described below).

A number of Edwardian commercial buildings at the Jervois Road entries are important historic portals to the historic heritage area and are included as an integral part of it. The corners of Ardmore Road and Wanganui Avenue are graced by solid two-storey decorative period masonry buildings. The west side of the Albany Road entry is marked by what is probably the best corner building of the six, while the building on the opposite corner is of no heritage value but warrants inclusion in the interests of completeness, symmetry, and long-term improvement.

The three principal roads (Ardmore Road, Wanganui Avenue & Albany Road) run in parallel at right angles to Jervois Road and the land contour, as if it were on a perfect plane warped in one direction only. This relation to the contour imparts elements of both movement and formality. Commencing at Jervois Road, each road enters into a long pronounced descent, then bottoms out and finishes with a short ascent to a common terminus at Trinity Street, where the facing villas act powerfully to close the vista and provide a sense of completeness. The shops form an important historic streetscape and consistently have verandahs and Edwardian details. Some shops include old shop frontages, while other ground level frontages have seen more change. At the Jervois Road end of the road are a few outbuildings - some relate to the shops, while on Albany Street there is an old stables.

The commercial premises within the historic heritage area on Jervois Road illustrate the historical development pattern of providing local convenience stores which offered important services for the nearby residents at a time prior to modern conveniences such as refrigeration, the motor vehicle, and supermarkets.

Throughout the area, the houses have a common alignment square to the site boundaries, there is consistency of lot size, width and building set-back in any one part, a strong repetition of building style and form (notably the gabled bay), and strong consistency of roof form and slope. These features form strong elements of group character and, in particular, have combined to create striking sequences of buildings in parallax. The steepness of the roads allows the character of the housing to be appreciated more fully than on a level road, such that each building plays an increased role in the visual composition of the streetscape.

The historic heritage area corresponds to what was effectively a single subdivision of some 250 lots, created between 1903 and 1906 in the name of the Jervois Estate Syndicate. The four roads of bay villas were largely built over a period of two years by an American who employed 'chippies' from the ships in port during their periods of loading and unloading.

Some small decorative details, such as the caps on some internal posts, have been found to be uniquely American (Stewart). However, the external style is demonstrably Edwardian.

A distinctive ambience exists in Ardmore Road because of the treatment of the road itself. All the roads have the same reserve width but Ardmore alone has been developed with a berm and a correspondingly narrower carriageway (nine metres). In contrast, Wanganui Avenue and Albany Road both have a very wide carriageway (12 metres). Chicanes were introduced in recent years to exclude through-traffic. The street trees are not of historical significance to the original subdivision. Bluestone kerbs remain a recognisable feature.

Half of the lots are unusually small for the period, being only 16.4-16.7 perches (420m²). These are located in the lowest positions with the least views. The lot sizes then scale progressively up the principal roads, being approximately 460m² to 630m² at the top nearest to Jervois Road (with a corresponding increase in lot width from 12 to 14 metres). Likewise the lots on rising ground in Trinity Street reach 530m². Clearly, the developers perceived a hierarchy of values. However, it means that more than half the lots are too narrow to permit vehicular access down the side of the villa, and in some cases, there is insufficient depth for parking in the front yard. Should car parking be desired forward of the building facade where there is sufficient depth to the front yard, care needs to be taken that this does not unduly obscure the character of the villa.

A large proportion of the villas have only minor modifications to their exteriors. There have been recent additions to some roofs and to the rear of the houses, and limited infill by housing of later periods. Alterations to houses in the historic heritage area are very largely cosmetic, leaving the basic form, decoration and architectural value effectively intact. The small changes made are easily reversible. The scale of the villas has been retained and still forms a strong historic visual streetscape.

The villas are largely straightforward in form. They are aligned essentially to the front and rear, irrespective of the orientation to sun or view. With building setbacks of only two to four metres, the villas stand consistently up to the road, lending a conspicuously architectural character to the area.

The houses are characteristically single storey, with weatherboard cladding, pitched roofs of corrugated iron, and sash windows. Roof forms dominate the streetscape, with only a few roofs with a Dutch gable detail. Brick chimneys are prominent, many of them ornamented. Most houses have a bay. In character with late period villas, the bay is contained under the main roof of the house. Timber ornamentation is essentially sparing and simple. Picket fences predominate.

In the design of the house facade and treatment of the front yard, there is a sense of propriety and formality facing the street. There is typically a front verandah over which the roof pitch flattens to impart a sense of welcome. The verandah acts as intermediate or transitional space between the public footpath and the privacy of the home, reflecting a time when the road was social space. The social interaction which is possible between the verandah and the footpath can still survive to some extent today, particularly where high front fences have not been added.

In terms of architectural character and social significance, a clear historical distinction exists between the front (publicly visible) elevation of the houses and the rear (the utility area, private and unseen) elevation. Expense was concentrated upon the front elevation which was of formal design, well-articulated with bays, and ornamented. The rear elevation was simple and plain, with an absence of curved walls, articulation of surfaces or ornamentation. These architectural distinctions should be respected when designing alterations or extensions at the rear.

Schedule 14.2.2 Burnley Terrace and King Edward Street Historic Heritage Area
(Schedule 14.1 ID 02513)

Statement of significance

This is an outstanding subdivision in Sandringham of quite remarkable consistency, with a superb range of fairly closely-spaced late Victorian and Edwardian bay villas in Burnley Terrace, and a mixture of Edwardian and transitional villas in King Edward Street. Some of the houses on Burnley Terrace adjoin Taupata Street, with a short pattern of lots spread over these two streets. Both streets are straight and flat, and all the houses have a common alignment square to the site boundaries.

Up until the 1870s, the activity in the area was predominantly farming with early settlement dating from 1840 with crown grants. During the 1880s, residential lots were established - Edmund Bell's subdivision included Taupata Street; in 1885, Charles Paice put in King Edward Street; and in 1886, Henry Hirst created 58 sections along Burnley Terrace. In 1902, the tram arrived and signalled major development.

Some of the houses on Burnley Terrace also adjoin Taupata Street, with a short pattern of lots spread over these two streets, with a few of the garages or houses facing the rear lane of Taupata Street.

The overall area shows consistency of lot size, width and building set-back, strong repetition of building style and form (notably the gabled bay), and strong consistency of a main roof form and slope. These features form strong elements of group character, and in particular have combined to create striking sequences of buildings in parallax.

The two streets are characteristic of the Victorian and Edwardian eras, and of the subdivision of the time, and exhibit it at a great scale, with relatively little modification and minimal infill by housing of later periods. Alterations to houses in these streets are largely cosmetic, leaving the basic form, decoration and architectural value intact. The small changes made are easily reversible.

The houses are largely straightforward in form. Although the side yards are wider than in earlier periods, the homes are aligned essentially to the front and rear, irrespective of the orientation to sun or view.

Most of the houses are characteristically single storey, with weatherboard cladding, pitched roofs of corrugated iron, and sash windows. Brick chimneys are prominent, some of them ornamented. Apart from a pair of mid-Victorian villas on the south side of Burnley Terrace, most houses have a strong gable, and many are bay villas or transitional villas. In keeping with the character of the early 1890s period, the bay is contained under the main roof of the house. There are also a few instances of bungalows that represent the next phase of the area's development.

The level of timber ornamentation ranges from very sparing simple forms to the more eye-catching "pattern-book" ornamentation of some of the bay villas. Picket fences predominate at the front boundary. A few historic stone walls are evident, especially in Burnley Terrace.

The houses are predominantly clad in timber and retain traditional materials. In the design of the house facade and treatment of the front yard, there is a sense of propriety and formality facing the street. There is typically a front verandah over which the roof pitch flattens to impart a sense of welcome. The verandah acts as an intermediate or transitional space between the public footpath and the privacy of the home, reflecting a time when the street was social space. The social interaction which is possible between the verandah and the footpath can still survive to some extent today, particularly where high front fences have not been added. Bluestone kerbs remain a feature of the streetscape.

In terms of architectural character and social significance, a clear historical distinction exists between the front (publicly visible) elevation of the houses and the rear (the utility area, private and unseen) elevation. Expense was concentrated upon the front elevation which was of formal design, well-articulated with bays, and ornamented. The rear elevation was simple and plain, with an absence of curved walls, articulation of surfaces or ornamentation. These architectural distinctions should be respected when designing alterations or extensions at the rear. There are a few houses that face away from Burnley Terrace onto Taupata Street.

Burnley Terrace

Burnley Terrace was the first of the two streets in this historic heritage area to be subdivided, with the development in 1885-86 of more than 120 lots. Road construction proceeded from both the east and west ends on slightly different alignments, causing a slight offset in their kerbs where they meet.

The western half of Burnley Terrace was originally named Reston Road. It is the more humble half, the lots being appreciably smaller and narrower than in the eastern half; 12 metres wide compared with 13 to 14 metres. Accordingly, about one-third of the lots in the western half do not allow vehicular access beside the house. In a few cases, parking occurs in the front yard, where care needs to be taken that this does not unduly obscure the character of the villa. In the eastern half, with most of the lots having a driveway down the side boundary, cars are not parked forward of the building facade and the front yards have largely retained their original character.

The western half of Burnley Terrace has an appreciably narrower carriageway (nine metres) and a wider berm than the eastern half. Interestingly however, the narrower berms in the eastern half contain intermittent rows of melias, while for the most part the berms at the western half are simply grassed. While this imparts a certain bareness to the western end of the street, it does allow the pattern of building forms to be plainly visible and appreciated without interruption or dilution.

Along all of Burnley Terrace, the villas are located well-up to the street, with typical set-backs of as little as two to two-and-a-half metres. This gives the street a conspicuously architectural character.

At the time Burnley Terrace was subdivided, the economy was depressed and house building would initially have been slow. The pace of building accelerated from the mid-1890s, when there was a general building boom lasting into the 1900s. Most of the villas date from this boom period.

A distinctive characteristic of the area are the villas that face north to Taupata Street, which is a cul-de-sac and, as it terminates, has more of a service lane quality. Two significant villas are located on Taupata Street, along with a number of outbuildings associated with other lots, and an early rental building. These properties have two street frontages.

King Edward Street

King Edward Street's main subdivision occurred almost 20 years later than Burnley Terrace, in 1904-05, when the area was known as the "Township of Bellwood South". Most of the villas were built soon after subdivision and represent the next two generations of style after those in Burnley Terrace. The houses are constructed, primarily in the late Edwardian villa-style, with a few transitional bay villas, demonstrating a later style dating from around World War I (1914-1918), and distinguishable in the street by the main roof running down over the verandah.

The roof forms of the transitional villas are a dominant form and there have been little later roof alteration or attic additions. The ambience in King Edward Street is one of spaciousness. The lots are both larger and wider (15 metres) than in Burnley Terrace and the berms are wider. In places the berm is split about a central footpath, a concept new for the period. There are intermittent sequences of tree planting, in mixed species. The villas are set somewhat further back than in Burnley Terrace, generally in the range of three to three-and-a-half metres. One sequence is set back eight metres, giving the front garden much greater significance. All the lots are wide enough to allow vehicular access beside the house, so cars are not parked forward of the building facade, and the front yards have largely retained their original character.

Summary

The range of period housing within these streets represents an important period of time in the development of Auckland, and although a number of houses are undergoing renovations, King Edward Street and Burnley Terrace retain a distinctive character that represents their period of development. However, the western end of King Edward Street has a few modern houses which do not make a contribution. There are also a few distinctive buildings including a two storey homestead in Burnley Terrace, a 1912 apartment building, early bungalows, and a former commercial building in King Edward Street, that add their own character to the streets.

Map 14.2.2.1 Historic Heritage Area: Burnley Terrace and King Edward Street

Schedule 14.2.3 Cooper Street Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02518)

Statement of significance

This is a significant subdivision of early Victorian cottages from the Arch Hill farm, representing some of the oldest surviving housing in the inner city. The lots were placed on the market in 1865 when the area was known as Newton West. It is assumed that house building began soon after this time, and that many of the houses date from the 1870s.

Cooper Street is contemporaneous with the Renall Street Historic Heritage Area. Both were subdivided for the artisan class. However, at the time it was developed, Cooper Street was on the very edge of the town and was less constricted than Renall Street. The elevated site falls to the southeast. Its open prospect and clear separation from the poor-class housing areas of Freemans Bay and Newton Gully were important selling points when the lots went to auction. The 1865 sale notice described the “choice building lots” as “deserving of particular attention for their healthy and commanding position.”

The layout of Cooper Street is somewhat more spacious than Renall Street. The road width was made 15 metres wide and the carriageway is wider. The sections were created larger than those at Renall Street, at 300m². The extra size is wholly accounted for in the depth of the lots.

As in Renall Street, the lots are narrow (50 links or ten metres) and the houses generally sit tightly together with minimal side yards, so that the houses are orientated entirely to the front and rear. For the most part, except for the two-storey cottages and a bungalow, the houses sit well forward. Only the footpath separates the properties from the carriageway, a characteristic of artisan housing of the period. For the most part, the ambience at both the front and rear of the houses is of a compact, close-spaced, tight density. The street is aligned perfectly at right angles to the land contours, which imparts a certain sense of formality.

The houses are predominantly small 19th century cottages, essentially simple in form and detail, and aligned square to the site boundaries. They are predominantly clad in weatherboard, with pitched roofs of corrugated iron. There are sash, timber framed windows, with almost no bays. Timber ornamentation is simple and low key.

In the design of the house facade and treatment of the front yard, there is a sense of propriety and formality facing the street. There is typically a front verandah over which the roof pitch flattens to impart a sense of welcome. The verandah acts as intermediate or transitional space between the public footpath and the privacy of the home, reflecting a time when the street was social space. The social interaction which is possible between the verandah and the footpath still survives to some extent today, particularly where high front fences have not been added.

In terms of architectural character and social significance, a clear historical distinction exists between the front (publicly visible) elevation of the houses and the rear (the utility area, private and unseen) elevation. Expense was concentrated upon the front elevation, which was of formal design, with at least some degree of articulation and ornamentation.

The rear elevation was simple and plain, with an absence of ornamentation or articulation of surfaces. Many of the cottages have historic lean-to additions, which have a simple form and limited detail. These architectural distinctions should be respected when designing alterations or extensions at the rear.

Cooper Street is divided by Seddon Street and there is a change of character at this point. Whereas the houses north of Seddon Street are single storeyed cottages set close to the street, those south of Seddon Street include both single storey and a number of two-storey narrow cottages and are generally set further back. While the land north of Seddon Street descends gently from Great North Road, it steepens rapidly below Seddon Street.

The street is now cut by a modern motorway, and there is no longer evidence of historic use of the end of the street, although Cooper Street is connected visually to the Newton gully cottages on the opposite slopes. There is little evidence of original plantings, footpaths or road surface in the streetscape however, bluestone kerbs remain a recognisable feature.

North of Seddon Street

North of Seddon Street, there is a consistency of building scale and set back, and a tightness of buildings, which combine to create a unity and intimacy of character. All the cottages are Victorian, and most of them are largely unmodified. There has been very little infill of later period housing. With only small front yards, planting is small scale and delicate. Low-scale picket fences predominate. Several cottages have been modified, resulting in their verandahs being fully closed-in. This is not in keeping with the original open-verandah style.

Car parking is on-street, as the side yards are too narrow for vehicular access and there is insufficient depth for parking in the front yard. As a consequence, the front yards have largely retained their original character.

South of Seddon Street

The houses south of Seddon Street were built over an extended period, so that only a proportion of them pre-date World War 1. The oldest and most notable are six small two-storeyed Victorian cottages, which are one room wide, and are largely unmodified.

The steepness of the street allows the character of the housing to be appreciated more fully than on a level street, such that each building plays an increased role in the visual composition of the streetscape.

The houses are set behind more substantial front gardens, which allow the planting of significant trees and shrubs. There is greater provision of on-site parking. Some of the houses occupy double lots and many have a wide enough side yards for vehicle access. Should car parking be desired in the front yard, care needs to be taken that this does not unduly obscure the character of the house.

Map 14.2.3.1 Historic Heritage Area: Cooper Street

Schedule 14.2.4 Elgin Street Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02517)

Statement of significance

This street of uninterrupted Victorian and Edwardian housing was subdivided in 1884. By this time, subdivision standards had increased significantly. The street is 20 metres wide and the lots are typically of 480m² with a width of 12 metres. There is therefore a sense of spaciousness not apparent in earlier streets.

The historic heritage area includes a fine brick warehouse and period shop at the Great North Road end, adding value to the historic ambience of the street. The scale of the warehouse, though larger, is quite compatible with the domestic scale of the street and acts as an important portal for the street to and from the south. Its exterior surface and detailing are essentially intact and should be conserved.

At the time Elgin Street was subdivided, the economy was depressed and house building would have proceeded slowly. Accordingly, the houses were built over a period of about twenty years, and so range from four-square Victorian cottages and villas of the late-1880s, to mass-produced Edwardian bay villas constructed in the 1900s when the economy had quickened. The lots were large enough to accommodate “pattern-book” building plans, leading to an increased standardisation of form. The late villas, for example those at 14 Elgin Street and 18 Elgin Street, show a repeated form which creates a strong streetscape. There is a noticeable cluster of richly designed homes on the east side of the southern block, including a highly individualistic example of the Victorian Gothic style. In contrast, the Edwardian villas opposite are simply and sparingly designed. Where there is an intact historic appearance from the street and side elevations, this is an important feature.

While the side yards are not as tight as in earlier periods, the houses are still orientated essentially to the front and rear. Some of the earliest homes are set comparatively close to the street, whereas the turn-of-the-century villas are set further back. There tend to be reasonably consistent building lines in any one part of the street. The footpaths are wider than in earlier streets and a berm is provided. Together with the berm, the front yards are large enough to accommodate significant trees and shrubs.

The street has a strong slope and the southern section has a curve in it. The gradient and curve allow the character of the housing to be appreciated more fully than in a straight level street, such that each building plays an increased role in the visual composition of the streetscape. Bluestone kerbs remain a recognisable feature.

The houses are largely straightforward in form and are aligned square to the site boundaries. They are all single storeyed, with weatherboard cladding and pitched roofs of corrugated iron. Brick chimneys are prominent, some of them ornamented. There are sash windows, and all the late villas have bays. In character with this later period, the bay is contained under the main roof of the house. The level of timber ornamentation ranges from simple forms on the earlier Victorian cottages, through the fine intricate fret-work of the Victorian Gothic, to the more conventional industrial patterns of the

In the design of the house facade and treatment of the front yard, there is a sense of propriety and formality facing the street. There is typically a front verandah over which the roof pitch flattens to impart a sense of welcome. The verandah acts as intermediate or transitional space between the public footpath and the privacy of the home, reflecting a time when the street was social space. The social interaction which is possible between the verandah and the footpath still survives to some extent today, particularly where high front fences have not been added.

In terms of architectural character and social significance, a clear historical distinction exists between the front (publicly visible) elevation of the houses and the rear (the utility area, private and unseen) elevation. Expense was concentrated upon the front elevation which was of formal design, well-articulated (often with bays) and ornamented. The rear elevation was simple and plain, with an absence of curved walls, articulation of surfaces or ornamentation. These architectural distinctions should be respected when designing alterations or extensions at the rear.

Elgin Street is divided by Crummer Road and there is some change in character at that point. The houses in the southern block are of very high consistency and largely unmodified. In the northern block, where the houses tend to be more humble, the basic building form is intact but minor modifications and loss of detail are common. This offers an opportunity for restoration to complement the quality of the southern block.

Many of the houses, particularly in the southern block, have one side yard just wide enough for vehicle access, and most car parking is off-street. The landscaping of the front yard is largely uncompromised by car parking or garaging, particularly in the southern block where the front yards retain much of their original character. Should car parking be desired in the front yard, care needs to be taken that this does not unduly obscure the character of the house. This poses more of a problem in the northern block.

Schedule 14.2.5 Herne Bay Road Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02515)

Statement of significance

Herne Bay Road is a street of mostly late Victorian and early Edwardian villas of very high quality and which are largely unmodified, particularly on the east side. The historic heritage area is representative of this housing period, and also represents Herne Bay housing for the upper-class of the time. The area is almost completely free of more recent infill development. Herne Bay Road is one of Auckland's earlier roads, having been set out as a thoroughfare in the late 1860s, prior to its subdivision for housing. In the 1870s and early 1880s, eleven lots were released on the west side and most of the Victorian villas and cottages that were built on them have survived, largely intact.

In 1901, the east side was subdivided into fifteen lots in the middle of a building boom. Accordingly, the lots were all built on in a relatively short period, producing today's legacy of an unusually continuous row of well-preserved Edwardian bay villas. The villas show strong repetition of overall forms, notably the gabled bay, and strong consistency of roof form and roof slope and building set-back. These elements combine to create a sequence of buildings in parallax. At the same time, the villas express individuality in timber detailing and ornamentation, ranging from fairly standard catalogue mouldings to complex turnery and spindle work. The form, scale, height and materials of the villas are important attributes.

The road includes four later houses at the top of the west side approaching Jervois Road, where subdivision did not occur until 1923, including a set of mid-century apartments. These dwellings were designed in the style of their period and show a historical progression up the road, moving through the Californian bungalow-style to the Moderne style of the apartments. This sense of stylistic evolution lends character to this part of the road, and its inclusion in the historic heritage area is important in maintaining the quality of the road's "portal" at Jervois Road. The portal is completed by a finely proportioned Victorian shop and residence on the east corner (now used as a restaurant), which is historically integral to Herne Bay Road.

The road has a particularly spacious ambience. The road has bluestone kerbs and established trees that lead down towards Herne Bay beach. The lots range from 550-800m² and have a width of 15 to 20 metres, which was generous for the time. Accordingly, the villas are generally well separated from each other.

There tends to be reasonably consistent building lines in any one part of the road. The villas on the east side are situated reasonably closely to the road, and have a consistent set-back of 3.5 to 4.5 metres. Front gardens and landscaping was traditionally soft and involved timber or metal fencing. Much of this historic landscaping is retained, giving the frontage a conspicuously architectural character. On the west side of the road, most of the set-backs range between three metres and six metres. Virtually all the lots are wide enough to allow vehicular access beside the house. In consequence, most cars are not parked forward of the building facade, and the front yards have largely retained their original character. Garages were generally not part of the historic fabric of the street, and front yards traditionally remain intact and void of structures.

Herne Bay Road runs straight down the hill until it reaches the harbour, which is situated across the reserve at the foot of the street. There is little evidence of original footpaths or road surface however bluestone kerbs remain a feature. A strong axial character was established through planting the berms in an avenue of London planes, a road tree characteristic of the period. Unfortunately, only the top half of the avenue still survives. Planting within the front yard was historically of low-scale, using soft materials. Historic harbour views are a significant element of the street and have been taken into account in terms of planning and securing the harbour view, obtainable obliquely from each bay window.

Although the side yards are wider than in earlier periods, many of the homes are aligned essentially to the front and rear, irrespective of the orientation to sun or view. However, quite a number of the villas, particularly those occupying a double lot, make some architectural concession to one side yard in the form of a return verandah or shallow bay.

The houses are largely straightforward in form and are aligned square to the side boundaries. A main roof form encloses the building with gables coming off the main form. Traditionally, there were no additions on top of the main roof. The predominantly timber villas were set lightly on the ground. Some of the villas have had redevelopment of roof forms with additional attic windows and gables. These are not original, and significant care needs to be taken when modifying the roof form to ensure it remains true to its original style. Some of the buildings have enclosed verandahs, converted into habitable areas, where there would have once been an open verandah. These modifications do not form part of the traditional characteristics of the villa. Specific elements of the verandah that are of importance often include the detailing of the posts, fretwork and balustrades.

The houses are clad in weatherboard, with pitched roofs of corrugated iron. Brick chimneys are prominent, some of them ornamented. There are sash windows, and all the late villas have bays, some with tiled sunhoods. In character with the later period, the bay is contained under the main roof of the house. The road includes examples of the double-bay villa, and the angled-corner bay villa. The level of timber ornamentation ranges from simple forms on the earlier Victorian cottages, through the more eye-catching “pattern-book” ornamentation of some of the bay villas, to elegantly turned verandah work. A mixture of low picket fences predominates at the front boundary.

Because the area lies on a north-facing slope oriented to the sun and is somewhat protected from the cool southerlies by the Herne Bay ridge at its back, there is a comfortable microclimate. This is capitalised upon and enhanced, as illustrated by the villas on the east side of the road, which display a repeated sequence of protruding bays and recessed verandahs from south to north. The verandahs were designed to trap the sun and shield the houses from the wind on their southern edge.

In the design of the house facade and treatment of the front yard, there is a sense of propriety and formality facing the road. There is typically a front verandah over which the roof pitch flattens to impart a sense of welcome. In both two-storied villas in the road, there are double verandahs. The verandah acts as intermediate or transitional space between the public footpath and the privacy of the home, reflecting a time when the road was social space. The social interaction which is possible between the verandah and the footpath can still survive to some extent today, particularly where high front fences, front yard carports and garages have not been added.

In terms of architectural character and social significance, a clear historical distinction exists between the front (publicly visible) elevation of the houses and the rear (the utility areas, private and unseen) elevation, except where the villa is on a corner site. Expense was concentrated upon the front elevation which was of formal design, well-articulated with bays and ornamented. The rear elevation was simple and plain, with an absence of curved walls, articulation of surfaces or ornamentation. These architectural distinctions should be respected when designing alterations or extensions at the rear.

Schedule 14.2.6 Lippiatt Road Pegler Brothers Housing Area Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02564)

Statement of significance

Lippiatt Road connects Awa Street and Walmsley Road in Otahuhu. It has a northeast-southwest orientation with a slight kink to the east at the Awa Street end. The street is in close proximity to the volcanic feature of Mt Robertson. From the northern end of the street a glimpse of the dense vegetation veil to the cone can be obtained, although the volcanic cone is not a dominant visual feature in relation to the street.

Otahuhu retains a significant number of small bungalow type houses known as Pegler houses. At the time of the Great Depression, the Pegler Brothers began to buy sections in Otahuhu and construct modest, low-cost timber houses of reasonable quality. The construction work provided local employment, while also providing much needed new housing in Otahuhu. Around 180 homes were built in various locations within the borough, many of which still remain.

The original Fencible cottages built in Otahuhu after 1849 have been described as the borough's first housing scheme, with the Pegler houses-noted as Otahuhu's second significant housing scheme. The houses were built in small clusters or individually in many Otahuhu Streets. Lippiatt Road retains the largest cluster of Pegler houses and the street as a whole retains a cohesive 1930s character with bungalow-type housing, including the Pegler Houses, and other bungalow houses of a similar period.

Of a total of approximately 44 residential sections in this road, 20 of these contain Pegler Brothers houses, comprising 45 per cent of the housing stock. Other sections in this street generally contain bungalow-style houses, giving the street as a whole a consistent established bungalow character.

The original subdivision pattern with sites having a general proportion of 16 metres wide by 40 metres deep has been retained. Dwellings are generally set back from the front boundary by between five and nine metres. Front yards are generally open. While a number of properties have solid front fences, a strong visual connection between the street and the dwellings is generally retained. Where garages or carports are present, these are usually located to the rear of properties. Trees contribute considerably to a leafy character for the street. While various alterations, including changes of cladding, have been made to a number of the houses, they still retain a consistent and cohesive pattern of form. Overall, the pattern of site proportions, location of dwellings on the site, and the concentration of buildings of similar era, form and style creates a distinctive street character.

The Pegler Brothers houses are distinctive in Otahuhu, as modest scale bungalow type houses, clad in timber weatherboards, with timber casement windows, with top-lights. As originally built they had a small bay at the front, with the front door sheltered by a modest porch. Down the side of the houses were two chimneys, one for the living room fireplace and one for the coal range. A small lean-to to the rear of the houses is likely to have housed the bathroom. While the plan appears to have remained reasonably consistent, some variations were made to the roof form, with both gabled and hipped roofs used. Often both roof types are evident where clusters of the houses remain, possibly to create some variety within a particular group.

The Pegler Brothers Housing Area in Lippiatt Road has considerable local significance for its historic associations with the housing development undertaken by the Pegler Brothers in Otahuhu during the Great Depression. The houses in Lippiatt Road are significant for their physical qualities, as representative examples of the standard modest bungalow built in many locations throughout Otahuhu by the Pegler Brothers. The Pegler Brothers Housing Area has collective historic, architectural and streetscape values, based on the high concentration of Pegler houses, together with other 1930s bungalows, the coherent and consistent pattern of dwellings, the original residential subdivision pattern, the generous setback of dwellings from the street front, and the open street character. Residential gardens, as well as street trees in Lippiatt Road, contribute to its established vegetated character.

Schedule 14.2.7 Monte Cecilia Park Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02514)

Statement of significance

Monte Cecilia Park contains over 14 hectares of land located in Hillsborough, bordered by Hillsborough Road and Pah Road to the west and east, and Mt Albert Road and Herd Road to the north and south. Monte Cecilia Park contains special characteristics that illustrate the early history of Auckland's settlement that includes arboriculture, cultural heritage, archaeology, geology and architecture values relating to a range of time periods. For these reasons, the unified entity of this landscape needs to be recognised and provided for, so that the heritage, character and amenity values of the site are maintained.

The significance of the park derives from both the combination of historical, cultural, and natural values. The area valued for its views, location and soils, and was highly sought after, initially by Maori, and subsequently by European settlers. The park comprises part of the area of land that was formerly known as 'The Pah Estate', and the current landform of Monte Cecilia Park still retains significant physical evidence of its evolution from this estate, including boundary locations, entranceways, driveways, trees, and buildings. It is one of few properties close to central Auckland that has retained a large portion of its original landholding. Monte Cecilia Park has panoramic views of the Manukau Harbour, One Tree Hill and Hillsborough. The park contains two natural amphitheatres within the lower slopes of the park. There are also landform areas within this landscape that contain geological values considered to be important.

The historic heritage area was occupied by Māori before European colonisation of New Zealand, and was formerly the location of an extensive fortified pā, known as Whataroa Pā. As parts of the landscape have not been significantly modified since that time, it is considered that cultural material associated with this Māori occupation may be present within the park today.

The Pah Estate originally comprised an area of land purchased by land dealer William Hart, who acquired the Crown Grant in 1847. Hart developed a farm on the property, selling it in 1852. Subsequently it was owned and managed by some of Auckland's most prominent businessmen during the 1860s to 1880s. The Pah Estate was sold in 1866 to Thomas Russell, a prominent Auckland lawyer, businessman, and politician. The landholding was extended considerably under Russell's ownership and the landscape evolved from its early farming use to a highly developed commercial farm and designed landscape, featuring a tree-lined entrance drive and formally laid out plantings. Russell sold the property to James Williamson in 1877. Williamson was a founding member of the Bank of New Zealand, the New Zealand Insurance Company, and the New Zealand Loan and Mercantile Agency Company. Under Williamson's ownership the Pah Estate was further developed with the assistance of a landscape designer.

The Pah Homestead was constructed on the Pah Estate between 1877 and 1879, as Williamson's 'gentleman's residence'. The Italianate house was designed by architect Edward Mahoney whose practice was one of the most substantial in Auckland at that time.

Following Williamson's death in 1888 and subsequent transfer of the Pah Estate to the Assets Realisation Board of the Bank of New Zealand, the house was leased (including to St John's Collegiate School from 1902 to 1912) and parts of the estate subdivided and sold. The house and part of the estate comprising approximately 50 acres of surrounding land were sold in 1908 to Mrs Bayley. In January 1913, the property was sold to the Sisters of Mercy and Catholic Bishop of Auckland. The property has a long and significant association with the Catholic community in Auckland. It was named Monte Cecilia by the Sisters of Mercy in honour of the founder of the Auckland Community, Mother Mary Cecilia Maher. During its ownership by the Sisters of Mercy and later the Catholic Diocese, the house served as an orphanage, a novitiate house, boarding school, and more recently was used to provide emergency housing.

The Pah Homestead is scheduled in the Auckland Unitary Plan as a Category A historic heritage place (refer to Schedule 14.1 Schedule of Historic Heritage, ID 01695). The homestead is also included in the New Zealand Heritage List/Rārangī Kōrero.

Monte Cecilia Park contains approximately 1,100 trees and can be likened to an arboretum, as it contains some of the largest and/or oldest examples of some tree species in New Zealand, and some rare or uncommon species in New Zealand. There are a number of trees within the park included in Schedule 10 of the Auckland Unitary Plan (Notable Trees Schedule).

While parts of property associated with the Pah Estate have been progressively subdivided and developed for roading, housing, or educational and religious uses, the park-like quality of the landscape associated with the house, and evidence of its agricultural development remain to a significant degree.

Monte Cecilia Park is an outstanding cultural landscape of value to the Auckland region because of its association with Maori and use as a pā, the information it reveals about early land purchase, its early development for farming in 1840s, and the commercial and social relationships relating to these development activities. It demonstrates architectural and landscape design concepts from the late 1800s, and provides an understanding of the lifestyle associated with the property when it was an exclusive private residence. It retains intact physical evidence of its progressive development from the 1800s and later institutional uses.

Schedule 14.2.8 Railway Workers Housing Area Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02565)

Statement of significance

The area includes residential properties on the eastern side of Nikau Road, adjacent to Sturges Park, on the south east side of part of Awa Street, and on the north–east and south- west sides of Awa Street close to the intersection with Kuranui Place in Otahuhu.

A distinctive feature of Otahuhu’s early 20th century residential development was the housing precinct built for New Zealand Railways Department (Railways Department) staff in this area of Otahuhu in the mid-1920s. While a number of the railways houses were removed in 1981 to allow for redevelopment, a significant group of these houses remains in Nikau Road and Awa Street. In 1927, 54 houses were present. Of this number, 24 remain in these two streets.

The houses in Otahuhu are representative of housing provided by the Railways Department for their workers, and demonstrate some of the minor variations used. They are all of timber construction, with timber weatherboard cladding, timber window joinery (originally double hung sash types), and corrugated iron roofs. The houses have a symmetrically arranged front elevation, with the entrance porch located centrally. Details such as vertical boards applied to gable ends and paired posts to the verandahs, or use of trellis panels on the verandahs are in evidence. In Otahuhu, while some changes have been made to a number of the houses, such as replacing timber windows with aluminium joinery, they retain their railway house character.

The Railway Workers Housing Area has considerable local significance for its historic association with the housing development undertaken by the Railways Department in the 1920s. It represents an important grouping of the modest workers houses built by the Railways Department, using standard designs and prefabricated construction techniques. The houses are significant for their physical qualities, as representative examples of the standard modest house types built in many locations throughout New Zealand by the Railways Department. The Railways Workers Housing Area has collective historic, architectural and streetscape values, based on the surviving concentration of railway houses, the coherent and consistent pattern of dwellings, the original residential subdivision pattern, the generous setback of dwellings from the street front, and the open street character.

Schedule 14.2.9 Part of Renown Estate Subdivision Historic Heritage Area
(Schedule 14.1 ID 02562)

Statement of significance

The area encompasses part of three streets in Balmoral: Marsden Avenue, Kingsford Road, and Thorley Street. The area, which includes a number of houses built by Tudor Builders and Hansen Construction Ltd., was developed slightly later than the majority of the surrounding streets and includes houses from the 1930s, which are stylistically distinctive.

While in many respects the residential development in the area is typical of late Garden Suburb-era development in Auckland, it is exceptional for its collection of single storey detached brick houses. Most of these houses are bungalows that show a strong influence of the English Cottage style in their form, and have a liberal application of Tudor surface treatment. Also unusual are two houses in the Spanish Mission style that shows an Art Deco influence. Other houses are more typical of the bungalows of the Interwar era, but some of these are also built in brick rather than timber.

After World War I, suburban expansion in Balmoral took place on undeveloped land south of Balmoral Road. The Californian bungalow was the style of choice in the early years of the Interwar-period, and is well represented in the southern part of Balmoral. By the 1930s, the style had evolved further, under the influence of the English Domestic Revival. Some houses, most often one and a half or two storey examples, were in a style referred to as the English Cottage style. Under the influence of Modernism, other designs substantially departed from historic precedents, using Art Deco style, frequently over a plan no more remarkable than that of a typical bungalow.

Key examples in the Historic Heritage Area that show a strong influence from the English Cottage style include:

- 42 Marsden Avenue,
- 60 Marsden Avenue,
- 14 Kingsford Road,
- 16 Kingsford Road, and
- 18 Kingsford Road.

The two Spanish Mission Examples referred to above are at:

- 43 Marsden Avenue, and
- 56 Marsden Avenue.

Overall, these houses exhibit a greater level of craftsmanship than other similar areas developed at the same time, and sit within a spacious leafy context arising from the generous sizes of the original lots.

The houses in the area were predominantly constructed by three building companies: Tudor Builders Ltd. constructed houses for Rental Homes Ltd. and Mr G. G. Marriott; Hanson Construction Ltd. constructed houses for Rental Homes Ltd.; and Pegler

Brothers constructed two houses. Pegler Brothers, an Otahuhu based family company, was known for developing land as a rental development when buyers deserted the market in the early 1930s. This development can be seen in Lippiatt Road Otahuhu. Although aimed at a slightly more affluent clientele, Rental Homes Ltd.'s business model appears to have parallels with the Pegler Brothers business. Rental Homes Ltd. retained interests in the area for at least 50 years.

This part of Marsden Avenue, Kingsford Road and Thorley Street is an outstanding example of late phase of Garden Suburb development (as it is understood in the New Zealand context) from the 1930s. The houses of Tudor Builders and Hansen Construction Ltd. reinforce this character by predominantly employing styles with strong architectural references to those associated with the English Garden Suburb.

These values are underpinned by historic associations with local developers Hardley and De Luen and local architect W. H. Jaine. The history of the development demonstrates the challenges of developing the volcanic landscape of Mount Eden, and the challenges of developing land in the early 1930s when economic depression took its toll on the financial means and confidence of prospective house buyers.

Schedule 14.2.10 Princes Street Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02511)

The Princes Street Historic Heritage Area includes Albert Park, Princes Street, Kitchener Street, Bankside Street, Waterloo Quadrant, Parliament Street, Constitution Hill, Churchill Street, Alten Road and parts of Wellesley Street East, Shortland Street, Emily Place, Eden Crescent, and Symonds Street. It is important historically to Māori, for its association with the establishment of government quarters, and for its relationship with New Zealand's military heritage. The development of the University of Auckland also forms an important part of this area's history.

A Māori kainga (village) called Rangipuke was originally situated on Albert Park hill and a pā named Te Horotiu is said to have been located in what is now the north-western corner of Albert Park. From 1840, European settlement intensified and the Princes Street/Waterloo Quadrant area began to acquire a diverse range of public buildings. These included the residence of the Governor of New Zealand, destroyed by fire in 1848 and replaced in 1856 by what is now known as Old Government House. This remained the seat of governance until 1865, when the capital was moved to Wellington, and for the next century was Auckland's vice-regal residence. New Zealand's first parliament buildings were established in 1854 on Constitution Hill.

Construction of Albert Barracks, the British Army headquarters in both Auckland and New Zealand, and the largest British military fortification in the country, began in late 1846 and continued until at least 1852. The barracks were constructed to reassure the local population after the first New Zealand (Northern) War (1845-1846), at which time the settlement at Kororāreka/Russell was attacked and burnt to the ground. The garrison of some 900 troops also provided a valuable economic stimulus to the region. Encompassing an area of more than nine hectares, or 22 acres, the completed fortification was roughly octagonal in plan. It originally enclosed a parade ground, accommodation blocks, and other buildings. The former barracks forms a significant archaeological site that extends from the area occupied by the University of Auckland down to Emily Place and Constitution Hill. The barracks featured a prominent and impressive solid bluestone basalt perimeter wall, of which only a small portion remains within the university grounds.

With the removal of the military threat and the shifting of the seat of government to Wellington, the cost of maintaining the regiments was reviewed and a decision was taken in 1870 to abandon the barracks. During 1871 and 1872 the walls and many of the barrack buildings were removed or demolished and the materials used in other constructions around the city. Fifteen acres of the land was set aside as a ground for recreation and amusement, and the remaining land was laid out as streets and sections.

The auctioning of building sites in 1875 to provide capital for the development of Albert Park led to the development of small precincts of grand merchants' villas such as those that survive along Princes Street. These elegant, substantial private homes for the city's business and professional elite began to line both Princes and Symonds Streets as the area became a focus for the construction of prestigious housing.

Covering 7.5 hectares, Albert Park was designed in a public competition in 1881. The park layout was the winning entry of architect James Slater. Tree planting began in the park in 1880, with 200 exotic specimens being donated by Sir George Grey. Other trees were also donated by prominent colonial Auckland and tree collector Judge Thomas Gillies. Historic trees from the earlier plantings include: a circle of English oaks (planted to commemorate the visit of the United States Navy Great White Fleet in 1908), a Queensland kauri, a ginkgo, several Moreton Bay fig trees, a Monkey Claw tree, a Blue Atlas cedar, a Himalayan cedar, an olive, two Cork oaks, several Tree of Heaven trees, a Camphor laurel (the largest and one of the oldest in the Auckland region), English elms, Canary Island palms, Chinese windmill palms, an ombu, and a row of Washingtonia palms growing beside Princes Street. Later plantings include the Cobham kauri (1962), and the Windsor oaks, which were planted in 1938 to commemorate the coronation of King George VI.

During World War II public shelters for civil defence were constructed in open lawn areas of the park, and a network of tunnels some 3.4 kilometres-long formed below its surface to provide air raid shelters for the residents and workers of the inner city. Since the late-19th century a substantial portion of the historic heritage area has been occupied by the University of Auckland, which has expanded over much of the historic barracks and former government site.

Albert Park is a nationally notable example of a Victorian public park and the oldest formal park in the Auckland region. The park consists of formal walks focused on a central fountain, flower beds and statuary. The park also includes a Gothic-style park-keepers lodge in Princes Street, added in 1882; a band rotunda; and a large number of notable historic trees including those donated by Sir George Grey.

Portion of Albert Barracks Wall (1846 – 1850)

Eighty five metres of the original 1300 metre wall still remains in the grounds of University of Auckland. The Albert Barracks Wall is nationally significant as the oldest intact component of British military architecture in New Zealand. It is an important reminder of the role played by British troops in the colonisation of New Zealand and their contribution to the economy and social life of colonial Auckland, when it was capital of New Zealand. One of the Auckland region's oldest remaining stone structures, it is associated with the 1845 New Zealand Wars and Governor Grey. The wall was constructed between 1846 and 1850 to enclose nine-hectares of land that made up Albert Barracks. It was constructed using basalt quarried from Mt. Eden by newly instructed Māori stonemasons under the supervision of Major Marlow and George Graham of the Royal Engineers. The wall was largely demolished after the barracks were abandoned in 1870, with the remnant section being that part of the wall that was retained to demarcate the Old Government House property. Archaeological evidence of the barracks, wall and buildings may be found over the wider former barracks site.

Albert Park Band Rotunda (1901)

The Auckland region's oldest remaining band rotunda was constructed in 1901 to a design by James Slater, the architect who produced the plan for Albert Park. It is symbolic of the increase in leisure time that resulted from the social and economic reforms introduced by the Liberal Government from 1898, and is also symbolic of the immense popularity of brass band music in late Victorian and Edwardian Auckland. The structure incorporates a rare example of an 'onion' topped sheet metal roof, and retains its original design elements and structural integrity. The structure is still used for music recitals and is an important component of Albert Park.

Albert Park Boer War Memorial

This memorial is a notable and regionally important public memorial to troops from the Auckland region that died in the South African War of 1899 -1902. The marble memorial known as the 'Trooper Memorial' is the earliest known example of a war memorial in the Auckland region that incorporates a statue of a soldier from the New Zealand Army (Fifth New Zealand Contingent). The lion which is incorporated in the monument is symbolic of British Imperial power and Edwardian New Zealand's commitment to the British Empire.

Albert Park Queen Victoria statue (1899)

One of the Auckland region's best known public monuments, this notable statue of Queen Victoria was the first full statue of the monarch to be erected in New Zealand. Funded partly by public subscription, the bronze statue was created by notable English sculptor Francis Williamson, who was official sculptor to Queen Victoria. The statue was erected in 1897 to mark the 60th Jubilee of Queen Victoria's reign and is symbolic of New Zealand's strong links with Britain and the British Empire at that time. It was formally unveiled by Lord Ranfurly, Governor of New Zealand on 24 May 1899 to mark Queen Victoria's 80th birthday.

Albert Park Sir George Grey statue (1904)

The statue of Sir George Grey in Albert Park is one of the Auckland region's most notable public monuments, and the region's only remaining public statue of Sir George Grey, who was Governor General from 1845 to 1853, and from 1861 to 1868, and Premier of New Zealand from 1877 to 1879. The marble statue was sculpted in London by Francis Williamson, sculptor to Queen Victoria. Its plinth was crafted from Coromandel granite and Auckland scoria by local masons Trayes Bros. The monument was funded by public subscription and the Liberal Government led by Richard John Seddon. Unveiled in 1904, six years after the death of Sir George Grey, the statue was originally sited within the Queen Street road reserve in a landmark position. Its position became more prominent when the Auckland Town Hall was constructed on Queen Street in 1911. The monument was relocated to Albert Park in 1922 when the Queen Street electric tram system was upgraded.

Albert Park Gate House/Lodge (1882)

Set within Albert Park on the edge of Princes Street, this is the only historic building directly in the park. The building is a Gothic Revival Bay villa, with weatherboard cladding and a shingle roof. Its design is the work of notable Auckland architect, Henry

Wade. The house was originally constructed in 1882, with a subsequent addition in 1908. It has been home to a number of park keepers and park superintendents over time, as well as home of the first city librarian, Edward Shillington. Other figures of note that lived-here include Thomas Pearson, a landscape gardener who played a significant role in the design and management of many of Auckland's early parks, including Albert Park.

Old Government House (1855 - 1856) and 1848 site

Old Government House was constructed in 1855-56 as the residence of the Governor of New Zealand, replacing an earlier Governor's residence that had burned down in 1848. The house remained as the vice-regal residence in Auckland until 1969, when it was taken over by the University of Auckland. The building and its grounds are of significance to Tangata Whenua as many prominent rangatira visited successive governors at the house and held hui there. It is one of the few remaining structures in Auckland that have a link to the period when Auckland was New Zealand's capital. The building was designed by William Mason, one of colonial New Zealand's most notable architects. The building is the largest wooden building in the Auckland region and one of the largest colonial wooden buildings remaining in New Zealand. It provides a nationally notable example of a Georgian renaissance style structure. It is associated with several historic outbuildings and an adjoining ballroom. The associated historic gate keeper's cottage also remains.

Old Government House is set within extensive grounds that contain a nationally significant group of historic trees planted under the supervision of Government gardener Thomas Cleghorn from 1841. They include two Norfolk pines (Araucaria heterophylla) at either end of the front lawn of Old Government House and a South African coral tree (Erythrina caffra) planted by Sir George Grey during his second term as Governor of NZ 1861-68. The five oldest English oaks (Quercus robur) in the grounds of Old Government House are the oldest oaks in the Auckland region and among the oldest in New Zealand. They were propagated by Cleghorn in 1841-42 and planted in 1844-45. Further oaks were planted by George Graham, the first Secretary to Governor Hobson in the early 1850s. The acorns for the oldest trees came from the 'Royal Oak' in Boscabel, Shropshire. Some of the later trees are said to have been propagated from acorns given to Bishop Selwyn by Queen Victoria.

Synagogue (former) (1884)

The former synagogue is the only historic building of its type in Auckland region and one of only two 19th century synagogues surviving in New Zealand. It acted as Auckland's main synagogue and focal point for the Jewish community from 1885 until 1968, and was associated with many notable Aucklanders, including civic leaders. The building was designed by notable Auckland architect Edward Bartley, and provides a regionally representative example of a synagogue designed in a mixed Romanesque and Gothic style. The interior of the building features Auckland's only known example of a barrel vaulted timber ceiling and an ornate circular ark covered by a stained glass dome. The building is one of New Zealand's oldest massed concrete buildings. A basement was used for social and educational purposes and a school annexe was added in 1914. The building was purchased by the Auckland City Council in 1965 when the new Auckland Synagogue was built in Greys Avenue.

Princes Street Merchant Houses

The Princes Street merchant houses make up the most notable group of elite mid Victorian merchant residences in the Auckland region, alongside the related and nearby Symonds Street merchant houses. They include a row of five houses on the western side of Princes Street, and Alfred Nathan House (1882) on the eastern side of the street. The houses were built on the site of the former Albert Barracks vacated by British troops in 1870, and near to Government House.

The houses are a symbolic reminder of what was once one of Auckland's premier residential areas. The houses were built between 1876 and 1882 for Auckland's commercial and professional elite. Many were later transformed into boarding houses and then altered for use by the University of Auckland or other institutions. Five of the houses are now owned and maintained by Auckland Council.

Number 21 Princes Street 'Sonoma' was built in 1877-78 in a restrained Italianate style for successful Auckland chemist James Sharland. Following Sharland's death in 1887 the house was lived in by his brother in law Philip Philips, a former Mayor of Auckland and leader of the Auckland Jewish community.

Number 23-25 Princes Street was built in 1882 as an investment for Auckland Star proprietor Sir Henry Brett. In 1891, it was converted into a boarding house 'Ellesmere'. In 1929, the house was converted into flats and in 1959 into a doctor's surgery. In 1976, the building became the Auckland University Club and it is now a language school.

Number 27 Princes Street was originally built in 1880 for Thomas Whitson whose family owned the Albert Brewery. From 1883 the house was the residence of Dr C.H. Haines and it remained a doctor's residence for many years. The house was significantly modified to a design by prominent architect Roy A. Lippincott.

No. 29 was built for brewer George Johnstone in 1877-78. It was briefly a boarding house until purchased by prominent Auckland businessman Moss Davis in 1885. It was named 'Hamurana' and remained in the Davis family for many years.

Number 31 Princes Street, known as 'Park House', 'Honeyman House' and later 'Pembridge', was built in 1876 for Auckland draper John Smith. It was the home of businessman Arthur H. Nathan for many years and later the University of Auckland's Conservatorium of Music. It is a rendered brick building in ornate Italianate style.

Number 24 Princes Street, known originally as 'Wickford' was designed by John Currie for Nathan Alfred Nathan of L.D. Nathan, and leader of the Auckland Jewish community. The building remained in the Nathan family until 1932 when it became a private hospital. It was purchased by University of Auckland in 1958 to house its registry.

The Old Stables

Within the sites of the Princes Street merchant houses are historic plantings, and one house includes an historic stables. The Old Stables building dates from the 19th century. It was renovated in the late 20th century and is currently used as a building for exhibitions. The stables are a rare and well-preserved example of domestic stables in central Auckland. The stables are the only known building of this type to survive in the area. Employing polychrome brickwork, the stables was designed in a sufficiently ornate manner to reinforce perceptions about the taste and prosperity of its owner. Changes to the stables in the early 1900s reflected the decline of horsepower and the advent of motorised transport. Part of the building had been converted into a garage by 1923, at which time the structure was also modified to create x-ray and consulting rooms associated with the medical use of the primary building on site. The building continued to be used as part of the medical facility until at least the 1950s. In the early 1970s, the 1923 addition to the stables was removed.

St Andrew's Presbyterian Church (1847- 1850)

St Andrew's is the oldest surviving church in Auckland, having been erected in 1847-1850. It was built in a prestigious location, close to the colonial governor's residence in an elevated part of the early town. Associated from the outset with the principles of the Free Church of Scotland, the building was constructed to a simple rectangular design. It was built using local basalt and Mahurangi 'mudstone', overseen by the architect Walter Robertson. Its appearance contrasts with Anglican and Catholic churches of the day, and reflects the Scottish origins of its congregation. Early attendees formed an influential part of Auckland society, and sat in rows of pews that were rented out according to social rank. Governor Grey and the minister's family were allocated seats on either side of the pulpit, while soldiers from the local garrison occupied rows in the centre.

St Andrew's was transformed in the early 1880s, reflecting its role as the mother church of Presbyterianism in the region, as well as the prosperity of the local Presbyterian community. Major additions included a prominent front portico and offset tower, executed in a Greek revival style, which vied with the nearby Supreme Court and Old Government House for architectural splendour. Internally an organ gallery was erected, contrasting with the practice of some other Presbyterian congregations, who preferred not to employ musical instruments. Stained glass windows and stencilled decoration were also introduced at around the turn of the century, though carefully excluding explicit Christian iconography. A steady decline in the residential nature of the parish nearly led to the closure of the church in the 1930s, and more recent alterations have been few. The parish having successfully revived, the building remains in regular use by the Presbyterian faith and is remarkable for having been used continuously for religious worship since its foundation.

St Andrew's Church is of national significance as the earliest remaining Presbyterian church in New Zealand, and as the oldest intact stone church of any denomination in the country. It is internationally important for its early links with the Free Church of Scotland, which had been founded in Scotland only shortly before, in 1843. The building has high spiritual value as a place of worship for more than 150 years, and as the mother church for Presbyterianism in northern New Zealand. It is valuable as one of Auckland's earliest surviving buildings, with connections to important personalities in the history of New Zealand and Auckland Province. The structure demonstrates the development of pioneer stonemasonry, as well as the Scottish roots of many early settlers in the region. It retains an unusually intact 19th century interior, whose layout and appearance contribute to an understanding of religious and social history in both the early and later colonial periods.

The oldest parts of the building form an important example of the architectural work of Walter Robertson, an early Auckland architect, while the tower and portico are among the most impressive commissions carried out by Matthew Henderson. The church has considerable aesthetic and landmark qualities.

Supreme Court (former)/High Court (1865 - 1868)

The former Supreme Court (now High Court) is a powerful example of Gothic Revival architecture, and was one of the most impressive buildings in New Zealand when built. It was constructed in 1865-1868 under the direction of Edward Rumsey, a British-born architect who had trained under Gilbert Scott. The two-storey brick and stone building replaced an earlier courthouse in the commercial sector of colonial Auckland, which had been built of kauri timber. The new structure was erected in a more elevated and prominent position, prestigiously located alongside the now-demolished Provincial Council building and the Old Government House. This occurred at a time of uncertainty about Auckland's future, soon after the colonial capital had been moved to Wellington, and while the British Army troops at nearby Albert Barracks were being withdrawn.

The courthouse was one of the earliest large-scale construction projects in the town, being proclaimed at the time to be the first public building of durable materials erected in Auckland Province. A distinctive Gothic Revival style was employed for its exterior, including a crenelated central tower and pointed-arch arcading. This style was extended to its internal features, contrasting strongly with the classical appearance of earlier structures nearby, including St Andrews Presbyterian Church and Old Government House. Gothic Revival was frequently used in larger judicial buildings during the later colonial period alluding, in part, to the longevity and power of the British judicial system through the use of medieval imagery. Extensive carvings by Anton Teutenberg on the main facades of the Auckland courthouse reinforce such notions of authority, with naturalistic depictions of British royalty, local dignitaries, and Māori leaders, such as the Ngāpuhi chief, Hone Heke (d.1850). The building was extended in 1935-1936, and extensively renovated in 1988 when part of the original structure was removed to accommodate new facilities. The interior retains its original courtroom, including its timber panelling and gallery.

The former Supreme Court is nationally significant as an early public building of Gothic Revival style, unusual in its scale and level of decoration in 1860s New Zealand. It graphically demonstrates the growing power of the state and legal system on a national level, as well as the local importance placed on law and order as Auckland was undergoing transformation soon after the third New Zealand (or Waikato) War (1863-1864). The building is notable for its almost continuous use as a courthouse and has been closely linked to legal cases of national and international importance. These have included the earliest trial in New Zealand to involve fingerprint evidence, and the trial of those accused of sinking the 'Rainbow Warrior' in 1985. The building reveals much about 19th century life through its appearance and layout, including attitudes to justice, the organisation of legal affairs, and relationships between the public and the state. The preserved interiors also demonstrate prevailing fashions for decor and 19th century craft techniques. The Teutenberg carvings have high aesthetic appeal, and form a significant

Courtville (1912)

The Courtville building, on the corner of Waterloo Quadrant and Parliament Street, is a very early high-rise block of flats, which originally had 15 self-contained flats. It was built for private developers Mr Ernest Potter and William Stanton by James (later Sir James) Fletcher and was one of his early ventures in Auckland. Courtville is a very fine early example of inner city rental accommodation. It demonstrates a very sophisticated architectural statement with restrained use of ornate detail and a very unusual and innovative plan. The wide eaves and geometrically designed corbels show the influence of the architecture of Louis Sullivan and Frank Lloyd Wright of the Chicago School, while the corner treatment and dome is similar to the Dilworth Building in Queens Street and can be linked back to the architecture of Edwin Lutyens. It is a key building in the townscape with its splayed corner entrance and dome, which gives the intersection of Waterloo Quadrant and Parliament Street considerable emphasis. It is visually the most striking of the Courtville buildings and is of similar style to all of these. The building has provided comfortable inner city rental accommodation for hundreds of Aucklanders over the years, accumulating considerable social historical significance in the process.

Old Arts Block (1923-1926)

The building is one of the regions, and New Zealand's, most notable and elegant architectural landmarks. It features two wings, an adjoining student union block, and a central 'ivory tower' that is symbolic of higher educational achievement. The building was designed by the notable Australian architectural partnership of Lippincott and Bilson. It was built in 1923-26 by notable New Zealand civil engineering and construction firm Fletcher Construction Ltd., using Oamaru stone. It was opened in 1926 by then Governor General of New Zealand Sir Charles Fergusson, assisted by Sir George Fowlds CBE, who was Chairman of the University College Council at the time. The masonry of the entranceway building incorporates a notable example of the use of New Zealand ecological elements, including native plants and birds, and Art Nouveau motifs. The building includes regionally-notable mosaic tile work and internal staircases. It was fully renovated in the early 1990s and is still used for University of Auckland purposes.

The Northern Club (1867)

The Northern Club was built on the site of the earlier Royal Hotel. It was intended to be a hotel but was leased to the British Imperial Government as quarters for officers stationed at Albert Barracks until purchased by a gentlemen's club (The Northern Club) in 1869. The original building was designed by notable colonial architect Edward Mahoney, and was extended by notable Auckland architects Reader Wood and Edward Rumsey in 1884 to include a new dining room and 15 additional bedrooms. The Northern Club is a regionally notable and representative example of a large commercial building dating from the 1860s. It is the Auckland region's oldest private club and has been at the centre of the social life of Auckland's male elite for 150 years. It has been associated with numerous notable Aucklanders and has hosted members of the Royal Family. The building's exterior provides a regionally notable and representative example of a design inspired by the Italian palazzo style. The top storey features one of the region's finest examples of an entablature, and parapet. The building is an inner city landmark and an important component of the regionally significant Princes Street Historic Heritage Area. The building continues to operate as a private club, with women having been admitted from 1990. Its exterior is in original condition and its interior retains many original design features.

Emily Place Reserve and Churton Memorial

This park is the site of an early church and today contains historic trees and the Churton Memorial with this second iteration built in 1908-1909 in memory of Reverend J.F. Churton, the first vicar of St Paul's Anglican Church. The obelisk, base and steps of the memorial are constructed of Coromandel granite, with an inscribed slate tablet and brass plaque. It has been a public monument for over 100 years, marking the site of the first Anglican Church in colonial Auckland.

Cottage

This cottage on Bankside Street is a rare early cottage remaining in the central city. It is an early concrete residence of hydraulic lime concrete, this being the same material in the design of part of the original Jewish Synagogue nearby. The cottage has aesthetic significance for the simplicity of its design and for the visual interest and contrast it provides in relation to the modern multi-storey buildings that surround it.

Constitution Hill

Constitution Hill forms a significant 19th century landscape as part of the historic heritage area, including trees, landscaping, and the historic road that connected the government precinct to Parnell. The former Te Reuroa Pā is situated in the vicinity of this area.

Auckland Art Gallery (1885 - 1888)

Situated on a rising corner site at the junction of Wellesley and Kitchener Streets and below the hilltop of Albert Park, the Auckland Art Gallery, Toi o Tāmaki, was the first permanent art gallery in New Zealand. Constructed between 1885 and 1888, the Auckland Art Gallery was designed by Melbourne architects John H. Grainger and Charles A. D'Ebro. They were the winners of the Auckland City Council competition for a library building in 1884. For many years, the building had multiple functions as civic offices, a public library, and an art gallery.

The style of the building is 'Early French Renaissance', or 'French Chateau style'. Situated on a 120 degree corner site, the building is constructed of brick and plaster over three storeys and with an attic in the steep pitched roofs. There is a curved section which links the building and creates interest with an ogee-roofed tower. Alongside this curved section is the six storey clock tower. The corner tower houses a Palladian styled stairway and the former reference room of the library, which has a superb gallery supported on cast iron columns and protected by cast iron balustrades.

The harmonious proportioning of the building derives from the massing of parts and the sense of movement generated by alternating projecting and recessed frontages. The projecting bays have pavilion roofs with dormer windows, highlighted with console brackets and pediments. Corinthian pilasters flank other windows, and corners and ground floor windows have broken pediments.

The collections housed by the gallery include major holdings of New Zealand historic, modern and contemporary art, and works by Māori and Pacific Island artists. Additionally, there are European painting, sculpture and print collections, ranging in date from 1376 to the present day.

The Auckland Art Gallery was remodelled between 1969 and 1971 with the addition of the Edmiston Wing. At this time, the library was transferred to a new building and the gallery gained sole occupancy. Former uses of the building are as Civic facilities, for recreation both as an art gallery and library, and use as a Council/Local Government building.

In 2008 the Auckland City Council approved an extension, and alteration and renovation of the building.

Summary

The Princes Street Historic Heritage Area is characterised by a significant concentration and continuity of sites, buildings, structures, objects, and landscape features centred on Albert Park, one of Auckland's most significant 19th century recreational landscapes. The area has multiple and layered significance for its historical, social, mana whenua, aesthetic, knowledge, technological, and physical attributes values. The northern part of the Symonds Street ridge incorporates places of significance to Maori and was the epicentre of British administrative and military power in early New Zealand. Large parts of the area have archaeological value as part of the Albert Barracks site - the largest military barracks in colonial New Zealand. The Princes Street Historic Heritage Area is of exceptional overall historic heritage value. Many of the buildings, objects and features are individually included in the Schedule of Historic Heritage (Schedule 14.1) and/or the New Zealand Heritage List/ Rārangī Kōrero, and the area includes numerous scheduled individual and groups of notable trees.

Map 14.2.10.1 Historic Heritage Area: Princes Street

Schedule 14.2.11 Renall Street Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02512)

Statement of significance

The area includes a narrow street of original housing dating predominantly from the late 1860s, but also includes housing up to the early 20th century. It is a scarce remnant of Auckland's 19th century artisan housing and buildings, and its character is evocative of the humble streets of small-scale houses of that period. In addition to being within a historic heritage area, the houses in the historic heritage area are also scheduled as individual historic heritage places (refer to Schedule 14.1).

The area includes the stuccoed-brick Foresters' Hall, which was built soon after 1900 at 5 Renall Street. There are only a few houses from later periods within the historic heritage area, such as the California bungalows at 3 and 22 Renall Street. They retain the characteristics of that style and the simplified forms inherent from the era they were built. There have been modifications made to the building at 2 Renall Street but these modifications have come to form part of the historic fabric of the place.

Jeremiah Moloney bought parts of the land and laid out Renall Street. The street was set out in 1865 with a reserve width of only half a chain (ten metres). The street was named after Alfred William Renall, who was a Member of Parliament from 1858 to 1873. The narrowness of the street (at 33 feet) and of the sections is significant to the qualities of the place, with minimal distance between each property and building. The typical narrow lots of 7-8 perches (180-200m²) have survived to this day. The houses sit tightly together with minimal side yards, so that they are orientated entirely to the front and rear. The lots are shallow, and the houses sit well forward with little or no front yard. Planting is small scale and delicate. Only a narrow footpath separates the properties from the carriageway, a characteristic of artisan housing of the period. The ambience, at both the front and rear of the houses and buildings, is very compact, close-spaced, with tight density.

The qualities of the street are also derived from the steepness, the bend in the middle, and views of the harbour and to Freeman's Bay over the roof tops. The steep gradient and curve of the street allow the physical attributes of the housing to be appreciated more fully than in a straight level street. Because of this topography, each building plays a role in the visual composition of the streetscape. There is a feeling not only of enclosure but also of distance, due to the gradient of the street providing views of the harbour.

The street is aligned east-west, and the houses on the north side are single storied while those on the south side are mainly two-storied. This allows the latter properties to receive maximum sunlight.

The houses were built predominantly in the 1870s and 1880s, and remain largely unmodified. The oldest homes, located at 6 Renall Street and 8 Renall Street, date from the late 1860s. The houses are essentially simple in form and aligned square to the site boundaries. They are clad in weatherboard, with pitched roofs of corrugated iron. Brick chimneys are prominent. They have sash windows, with generally no bay. Timber ornamentation is generally simple and low key. Windows are predominantly double-hung. Door panels are Victorian. Low picket fences, in various designs, predominate.

The simple form of the buildings under a simple roof, with no roof additions or dormers has been retained. The intactness of the roof forms is a significant feature of Renall Street. Generally, there are no additions to the sides of the houses since the street has been subject to heritage management since 1973.

The street has been made one-way, and car parking is predominantly on-street. The side yards are too narrow for vehicular access and there is insufficient depth for parking in the front yard. In consequence, the front yards have largely retained their original character. Traditionally garages and carports were not part of the properties and there is generally limited ability for on-site parking structures. Several properties now have parking pads or carports and a few have garaging under the main house form. Appropriate scale, detail and location are important for any garaging proposed.

In the design of the house facade and treatment of the shallow front yard, there is a sense of propriety and formality facing the street. There is typically a front verandah over which the roof pitch flattens to impart a sense of welcome. The verandah acts as intermediate or transitional space between the public footpath and the privacy of the home, reflecting a time when the street was social space. The social interaction which is possible between the verandah and the footpath still survives to some extent today, particularly where high front fences have not been added. Bluestone kerbing remains a feature.

In terms of architectural character and social significance, a clear historical distinction exists between the front (publicly visible) elevation of the houses and the rear (the utility area, private and unseen) elevation. Expense was concentrated upon the front elevation, which was of formal design, with at least some degree of articulation and ornamentation. Within the finances of the family, it was their grand statement. The rear elevation was simple and plain, with an absence of ornamentation or articulation of surfaces. Additions were traditionally added to the rear. These architectural distinctions should be respected when designing alterations or extensions at the rear.

Schedule 14.2.12 Karangahape Road Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02739)

Statement of significance

The Karangahape Road Historic Heritage Area has significance for its historical association with the commercial and residential development of Auckland, from the time of the city's colonial establishment through to the mid-20th century. The area retains considerable significance due to the predominance of Victorian and Edwardian-era buildings that have survived modern redevelopment. The decorative physical appearance of these buildings combined with the unity of scale and form reflects the historical pattern of development and creates an urban landscape that is distinctive within Auckland. Despite the many changes that have occurred in the rest of the city throughout the years, Karangahape Road has retained its original purpose, which reinforces its significance as one of Auckland's earliest and most important commercial and entertainment areas.

Karangahape Road rose to prominence as a shopping area for the residential suburbs of Grey Lynn, Newton, and Ponsonby, and this function is tangible through the many shops, theatres and department store buildings that remain. The road serves as a main access point to the inner city from the outer suburbs through its connections with Grafton Bridge, Great North Road and Pitt Street, and provides an entry point to Symonds Street Cemetery, the earliest European cemetery in Auckland. The area also connects to historic Myers Park. Its location along a ridgeline served as a definitive division between the inner city and the suburbs, long before the arrival of the motorway interchanges.

The identified extent of place for the Karangahape Road Historic Heritage Area is the area of Karangahape Road in between Ponsonby Road at its eastern end and Symonds Street Cemetery at its western end. Included within this area are the buildings and areas that were part of the commercial and residential development of this area from Auckland's colonial settlement through to the era of Karangahape Road's decline in the mid-1960s.

The character of the area is dominated by the presence of Victorian, Edwardian, and Interwar-period commercial buildings. The buildings are generally two- to three-storeys and have a verandah that covers all or part of the footpath. These features have maintained the historical pattern of commercial development which define a retail landscape of the early-mid 20th century and reflect the core pattern of development for Karangahape Road. Along the associated side-streets there are more modest early and mid-20th century shops and warehouses that are part of the historical pattern of development and support the area's commercial importance.

There has been redevelopment along the road and in its surrounding area, resulting in the presence of modern infill buildings amongst the historic buildings of Karangahape Road. These have been included in the historic heritage area, but have been noted as non-contributors. Past precinct rules have required new buildings in the area to be sympathetic to the historical setting and character of the road, and infill buildings have generally had a neutral impact on the historical integrity of the street. The retention and sensitive adaptation of existing contributing buildings is important to retaining Karangahape Road’s historical integrity.

Schedule 14.2.14 Winstone Model Homes Historic Heritage Area

Historic Heritage Area (Schedule ID 02832)

Statement of significance

The Winstone Model Homes Historic Heritage Area is significant as an important group of houses constructed by Winstone Limited to showcase their line of locally manufactured building materials. The ten houses in this area were designed in the Arts and Crafts and English Cottage style and feature the Steeltex stucco cladding system. The area also demonstrates a cohesive context, including original lot sizes, open front gardens, and lack of infill development. The houses are part of the Royal Estate subdivision, one of the many housing developments undertaken by the Winstone family during the 1920s and 1930s.

The Winstone Model Homes Historic Heritage Area is situated at 26-42 (even numbers) Eldon Road and 41 and 43 Cambourne Road, in adjacent suburbs Balmoral and Sandringham, approximately five kilometres south of the Auckland Central Business District. The area features bluestone kerbing, street trees, footpaths and grass verges, all of which contribute to its suburban amenity and aesthetic.

The Winstone houses were built between 1933 and 1938 as part of the Royal Estate, a Depression-era housing subdivision initiated by Auckland building merchant company Winstone Limited. Despite the poor drainage associated with this land due to its proximity to Cabbage Tree Swamp, the Royal Estate was well-placed to take advantage of the existing tram service and established shops in nearby Dominion Road.

The Winstone family were active in suburban subdivision in Mt Roskill, Mt Eden, Epsom and Grey Lynn during the 1920s and 1930s. In addition to meeting a perceived need for affordable housing during the Depression, their interest in housing developments was also intended to showcase Winstone Limited's innovative building products, particularly their stucco lathing system "Steeltex". The Steeltex stucco cladding system represents an important innovation in construction in New Zealand. Not only does the construction technique respond directly to the 1935 New Zealand Standard Model Building By-Law, issued following the Napier earthquake, it also served as a solution to waning native timber stocks and high house construction prices.

Nine of the ten houses in this historic heritage area were constructed using the Steeltex system and still feature their original stucco cladding today, demonstrating the longevity of this construction technique. In addition to their shared construction materials and techniques, the Winstone houses were also designed using the same architectural language (the show home at 38 Eldon Road was designed by architect Basil Hooper). The houses are all essentially small, one-storey bungalows with Arts and Crafts and/or English Cottage style features. The Winstone houses are characterised by asymmetry of both their design and form and also a number of other features including: timber or steel joinery in a variety of shapes, sizes and placements; gable and/or hipped roof forms clad with Marseilles tiles; a small porch or entry portico; sparing use of plain or pigmented plastered detailing, especially around windows, doors or on chimneys; and chimneys (both stuccoed and un-stuccoed) that feature prominently in the design and help balance the asymmetry.

The context or setting of the Winstone houses is equally important to their collective value. The Arts and Crafts and English Cottage aesthetics were as much about the house as the spacious and well-vegetated setting. The large front gardens of the Winstone houses are generally landscaped with low plantings and trees, sometimes in a formal English garden style (house setback is quite varied, ranging from five meters to 15.5 meters, with an average of ten meters). All ten houses have a formed path leading to the front door and some have provision for parking (a parking pad or driveway) in front or alongside the house. None of the houses have garaging or carports either in front or in the side yards, except 38 and 42 Eldon Road. If provided, garaging is generally located behind the houses, in the rear yard. Front boundary treatments in this area are varied, including stucco walls, picket fences and hedges – but are universally low in height. Boundary treatments to the side and rear are generally less formal, and feature either a timber fence or mature vegetation.

The historic subdivision pattern in this area is intact; none of the land parcels have been subdivided. Site sizes in this area range from 500-650m², and all ten houses are located on the full extent of their original site, though the houses near the corner do extend across an original parcel boundary through the middle of their sites.

Number 32 Eldon Road is a weatherboard house, likely dating from the 1950s. While this is a replacement building (and a non-contributor to the historic heritage area), it follows the original subdivision pattern and average setback of the neighbouring Winstone houses. There is no infill housing in this area. Some minor development has taken place at the rear of most of the houses, such as extensions, decks, garaging, sheds, and/or pools.

Schedule 14.2.16 Point Chevalier Shops Historic Heritage Area Historic Heritage Area (Schedule ID 02834)

Statement of significance

The Point Chevalier Shops Historic Heritage Area is significant because it illustrates the historical development of Point Chevalier as both a suburb and a destination for recreation. The shops on Point Chevalier Road were constructed during the Inter-war period, when the suburb was amalgamated into Auckland City and the first tram lines were laid. The shop locations are closely linked to the development of the tram and associated tram stops, providing a clear illustration of the development of the suburb. The shops also reflect the development of suburban shops, demonstrating the way residential uses were combined with retail. Collectively, the shops and their associated residences have considerable coherence and contribute to the sense of place of Point Chevalier.

The area is a non-contiguous group of ten local and corner shops along Point Chevalier Road. The area is located in the suburb of Point Chevalier, approximately 5.5 kilometres west of the Auckland Central Business District. Point Chevalier Road generally runs northwest as far as Raymond Street, then turns and continues generally northeast until it reaches Coyle Park at the end of the peninsula. Blue stone kerbing and footpaths extend along most of the road, and these characteristics contribute to its urban amenity and aesthetic.

The Point Chevalier shops include both one- and two-storey buildings constructed of plastered brick or timber in an Inter-war Stripped Classical style. The shops are characterised by parapets and suspended verandahs; some have recessed entries surrounded by large plate glass display windows. Some buildings feature the following elements: a shaped parapet, original timber or steel joinery, leadlight glazing above transoms, and/or Stripped Classical plaster detailing. Where shopfronts from the period of significance are intact, their design and materials should be retained.

Most of the shops in this historic heritage area were originally constructed to accommodate both commercial and residential uses, with a clear physical distinction between these uses that is still legible today. The residential component of each building is generally located to the rear or side of the shop, often takes on a more domestic form and style and, in particular, references the bungalow architectural language. These portions of each building are characterised by weatherboard or plastered brick cladding; a shallow-pitched hipped, gabled or mono-pitch roof; exposed rafters; casement and/or bay windows; and chimneys with simple caps. These residential components are an important part of the suburban shop building type, and should be retained.

The context of the Point Chevalier shops is predominantly residential, and reflects a way of life that was once common, when people shopped every day and relied on neighbourhood outlets within walking distance. In contrast to their residential neighbours, the shops are all built to the front boundary of the property, with no set back, and with a verandah extending over the adjacent footpath. They have no front boundary treatment, though most have a timber fence or hedge along the side and/or rear yards. Most of the shops have some landscaping in the rear yard, which is associated with the residential component of the building.

The historic subdivision pattern is generally intact. Site sizes range from 420-1200m², and all ten buildings are located on the full extent of their original site. None of the land parcels have been formally subdivided, though several are cross-leased, with infill development in the rear yard. Other development has taken place in the rear yard, including extensions to the original houses or shops, and garages and/or sheds; these are not usually significant in terms of their historic heritage values, and have been identified as exclusions.

Schedule 14.2.17 Upland Village Historic Heritage Area (Schedule ID 02841)

Statement of significance

Upland Village HHA is a small retail hub located within Remuera, one of Auckland's oldest and most affluent residential suburbs. Established around the crossroads of Remuera, Upland and Minto Roads within the eastern portion of the suburb, the area represents one of Auckland's most intact small-scale shopping centres principally established during the interwar era.

Upland Village's first and most important phase of development occurred between 1915 and 1938, a 23-year period of significance that captures its commercial origins following the extension of the eastern tramline to Upland Road, its most prolific period of construction during the 1920s, and the erection of its last building in the late-1930s.

Prior to the commencement of Upland Village's commercial development, the area was predominantly rural with a small number of residences located on and near the land now occupied by the shopping centre. The gradual subdivision of allotments and larger lots into smaller (albeit irregular) sections during the early decades of the twentieth century resulted in an underlying layout and building arrangement that remains legible today.

The establishment of the centre was closely linked to the arrival of the electric tramline to Upland Road in 1913, which encouraged residential expansion and prompted the establishment of shops and services to support the growing local community. Following the formation of the first two buildings on the corners of Remuera and Minto roads in 1915 and 1917, Upland Village's development occurred swiftly and simultaneously on both sides of Remuera Road. By the end of the 1920s, the majority of the area was built out with blocks of residential shops and lock-ups. This was followed by the construction of two additional buildings in the 1930s.

Upland Village is a well-defined commercial core that adopts a traditional, but small, main street configuration. It maintains a relatively dense development pattern produced by the positioning of the structures of the street edge, with only minor variation in rhythm and setback. Its strong collection of commercial buildings define the area and illustrate the eastern expansion of the Remuera district during the early decades of the twentieth century. The majority of the buildings were established as 'residential shops', offering a range of services on the ground floor that developed to meet the needs of the growing community and with living quarters on the first floor. Other building types included a service station and substation.

The architecture, scale and construction of development within Upland Village provide a strong sense of cohesion, continuity and permanence, and collectively reflect the area's first phase of development. Designed in styles associated with the interwar period, the most prevalent being the Stripped Classical and Spanish Mission styles, the buildings generally represent a more modest interpretation of the designs adopted for larger commercial buildings in urban centres. Notable examples within the area include the block of structures on the northern side of Remuera Road (586-608 Remuera Road). Several buildings were designed by local architects, including E. Rupert Morton, Frederick A. Browne, H. S. James and E. T. Hawkes.

The buildings are predominantly of two-storey construction, interspersed with a small number of single-storey structures. They generally take the form of terraced shops, with an almost continuous line of ground-floor verandahs suspended from the principal elevations. The predominant building material is brick and/or concrete, with finishes that include painted render, painted or exposed brick, and stucco. Rear elevations, visible from the access lanes behind the shops, are generally of exposed brick. Roofs are mainly clad with corrugated metal, with some examples of clay tiles. Traditional shop fronts have given way to modern timber or aluminium replacements, while first floor fenestration appears to remain largely unchanged and comprise timber casements and sash windows. The scale and extent of signage varies across the area. With the exception of one site (561 Remuera Road), only minor changes appear to have occurred to the rear of the buildings.

Upland Village is considered an area of local historic heritage significance. It has historical value for reflecting important development patterns and representative aspects of Auckland's transport and commercial history during the interwar period – a time of marked advancement in the locality and region. Established following the advent of the electric tram at Upland Road in 1913, the area has value for its intimate association with the expansion of Auckland's electric tram network and for reflecting the progressive eastward development of the Remuera suburb during the early decades of the twentieth century. It is particularly significant as the only known interwar shopping centre in the isthmus to develop in direct response to the arrival of the electric tram and location of its terminus, and notably exists as one of the most intact examples of commercial development in Auckland's eastern suburbs associated with this important theme.

The swift growth of Upland Village is apparent in its group of buildings that collectively reflect the construction boom of the interwar period and the composition of small-scale commercial centres during that time. The area has physical attributes value as a notable representative example of a traditional small-scale shopping centre, which developed swiftly and compactly during this time in Auckland. Its largely intact group of masonry buildings are of particular value for their strong sense of cohesion and continuity, and for modestly reflecting architectural styles and trends in commercial interwar architecture. Although the buildings within Upland Village have experienced change over time, most noticeably to their shop fronts, the overall integrity of their historic form, features and fabric remains.

Creating a definable geographical area that can be distinguished from its residential surroundings, Upland Village has context value for its individual components that when taken together form a historic townscape that is notable for its unified built form and strong associations with a key period in Remuera's history. Its uninterrupted blocks of buildings collectively contribute to the area's sense of place and legibility as an intact retail hub in the locality and as one of only a small number of authentic interwar centres in Auckland.

In comparing Upland Village with other traditional town centres and smaller retail hubs within Auckland, similarities in location, historical development and physical qualities are apparent in some cases. Despite its establishment as a secondary commercial centre within the suburb of Remuera, rather than the principal town centre, Upland Village appears to be no less expressive of Auckland's important period of commercial development during the 1920s and 1930s. It also represents a notable representative example of a small-scale commercial centre in the isthmus. Whilst Upland Village is one many commercial centres associated with Auckland's electric tram network, it is the only known example to develop as a direct result of the tramline extension and exists as one of the most intact examples along its former eastern route. In the Remuera context, Upland Village represents a strong group of commercial buildings that reflect the swift development that occurred during a period of pronounced growth and prosperity in the locality.

Schedule 14.2.18 Pūhoi Township Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02849)

Statement of significance

Located in a valley on the banks of Pūhoi River, the Pūhoi township was established in 1863 by German-speaking Bohemian immigrants from the Staab region of the present-day Czech Republic. The town was established as a “special settlement” under the terms of the 1858 Auckland Waste Lands Act, through which the province offered prospective European immigrants free 40-acre blocks, disposing of unsold “waste land” it had acquired from Māori through Crown pre-emption.

The Pūhoi township has outstanding historical value as an intact 19th century “special settlement”, representing a phase in the history of New Zealand when there was considerable effort to change the environment and make-up of the population to be a colony of the British Empire. The township also has significance as one of few settlements established by non-English-speaking settlers from mainland Europe through the Auckland Waste Lands Act (1858) legislation. The great majority were from England, Scotland and Ireland. Indeed, the Pūhoi township was the first Bohemian settlement in New Zealand, and the only one in the Auckland region (one other, smaller, settlement being set up in Ohaupo in Waikato in the 1860s).

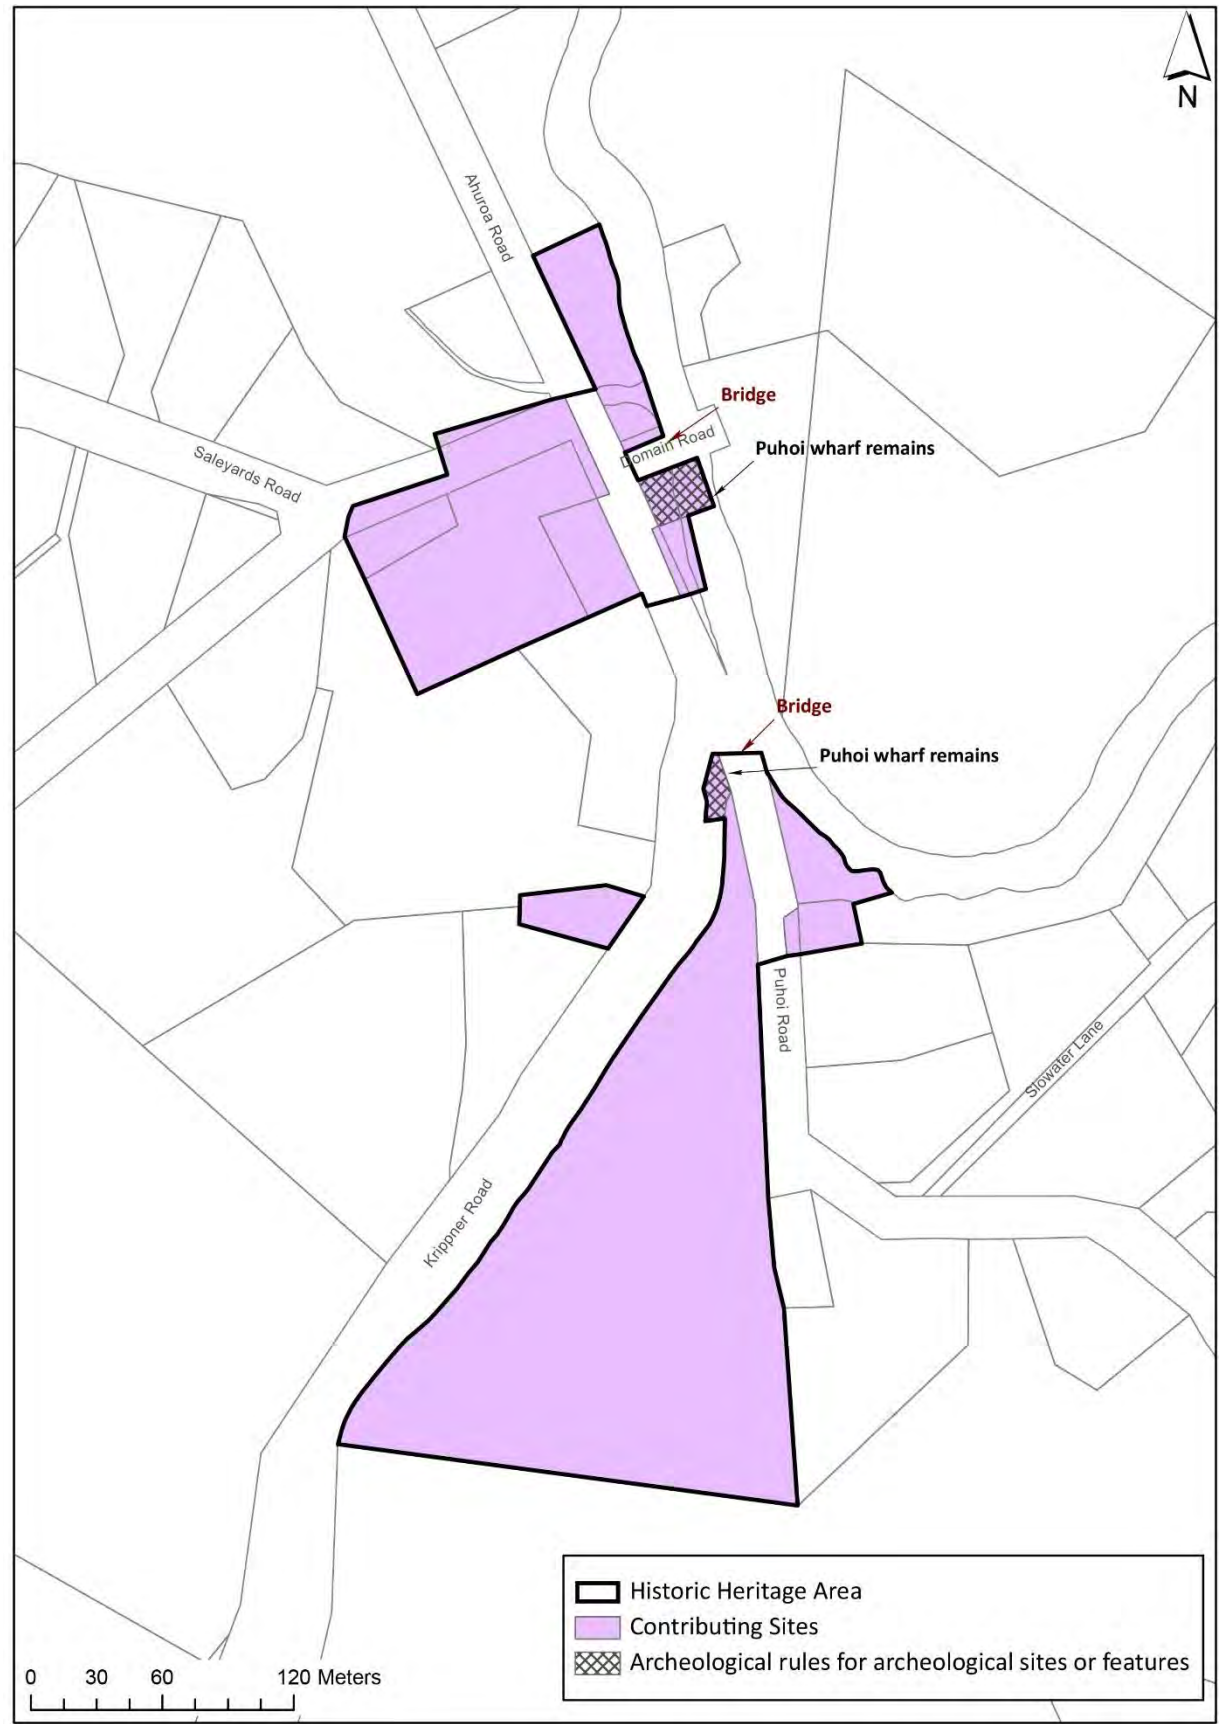

The Pūhoi township began to flourish in the 1870s and civic, religious and commercial buildings were built, many of which still exist today. By the early- to mid-20th century the settlement included a church (1881) (including a 1906 presbytery, a 1922 convent school, and a 1923 convent), stables (1883), workers residences (1886 and 1901), a community hall (1900), a hotel (1901), a library (1913), a wharf shed (1924), and a general store (1939). All of these buildings still exist. Other buildings and structures were also built but no longer remain today. However, sites and remnants are still apparent in the township, including the remnants of the 1877 wharf and Pūhoi Road bridge (late 19th century), as well as the (now vacant) sites of the landing spot and first buildings of the settlement (1863), the Schischka boarding house and store (built 1876), the blacksmith premises (1880s), and the first presbytery (1880). The Pūhoi township has considerable context value as a well-preserved example of a colonial New Zealand town dating from the second half of the 19th century, and indeed one of the most distinct and discernible “special settlements” established in the 1860s.

The Pūhoi township is generally characterised by ribbon development along the main roads. The Pūhoi township has a strong rural village character, with buildings located in varied positions and orientations, generally facing the main road. The Pūhoi River is an important and prominent feature, running adjacent to Pūhoi/Ahuroa Road from the bend in Ahuroa Road in the north to close to the intersection between Pūhoi Road and Krippner Road in the south. Two tributary channels from the Pūhoi River are located west of the river under the main road. On the eastern side of Pūhoi Road is reserve (grassed) land, the location of many early buildings (but no longer extant) and memorials to the Bohemian settlers. As a whole, the Pūhoi township has considerable aesthetic value as a picturesque rural settlement, of 19th century origin. Its collection of late-19th to early-20th century buildings and structures, together with trees and the rural and river backdrop, provides strong visual appeal.

Pūhoi township's collection of buildings from its key period of development (1863-1939) has considerable physical attributes value. Most of the buildings have had minor additions and alterations, but these do not substantially affect their physical attribute values. Two of the historical buildings particularly stand out as local landmarks due to their height and picturesque appearance: the Church of St Peter and St Paul – on the northern end of the township – and the Pūhoi Hotel – at the southern end of the township. All the historical buildings are constructed in timber with metal roofs, with the exception of the concrete and plaster Pūhoi Library and the Pūhoi Store. The buildings are generally in a simple vernacular style, similar to other late 19th and early 20th century buildings of their type. However, the Church of St Peter and St Paul – designed by the early notable Auckland architect James Wrigley – and the convent school (1922) and convent (1923) – designed by well-known Auckland architect Thomas Mahoney – stand out as architecturally-designed buildings.

Pūhoi has considerable social value and is held in high esteem by the descendants of the Bohemian settlers of the 1860s and 1870s. Jubilee celebrations commemorating the arrival of the first settlers in 1863 were, and continue to be held, through the 20th and 21st centuries, drawing large crowds. Memorials were made to mark occasions, including the Pūhoi Pioneers Memorial Park (1938 – 75th anniversary), the memorial gate to the park (1953 – 90th anniversary), a Wayside Shrine on Pūhoi Road (1953 – 90th anniversary), the Pūhoi landing stone (1988 – 125th anniversary), and a time capsule in the landing reserve (2013 – 150th anniversary).

Schedule 14.2.20 Parkfield Terrace Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02851)

Statement of significance

Parkfield Terrace has significance for illustrating the last phase of residential subdivision and development in Grafton. While the surrounding land had been subdivided beginning in the 1860s, the subject area remained in use as the Bennett and Green Ltd plant nursery until 1911. Parkfield Terrace is now one of the few remaining areas of suburban residential development in the area, following the demolition of much of the housing stock for the construction of State Highway 1. This residential subdivision helps define Grafton as a suburb and demonstrates a historic pattern of development that was once common in the city fringe, but is becoming increasingly rare.

The area is a contiguous grouping of 22 houses along Parkfield Terrace, which is located in the suburb of Grafton, approximately 600m from the edge of the Auckland Central Business District. Parkfield Terrace is a cul-de-sac road extending from Khyber Pass and connecting to Carlton Gore Road via a pedestrian walkway. Bluestone kerbing, footpaths and mature plane trees extend along the road, and these characteristics contribute to its historical value, urban amenity and aesthetic.

The residences included in Parkfield Terrace are one- or one-and-a-half storey timber houses in styles that were popular during the early years of the 20th century, including villas, transitional villas and bungalows. In particular, the area includes good examples of smaller types of these styles, including bungalow cottages and centre-bay villas. Collectively, the area has exceptional consistency in terms of its scale, fabric, massing, rhythm of development, setback and subdivision pattern. The area is almost entirely as built, with only one of the original houses missing (due to being destroyed by a fire). Generally, houses retain a high degree of physical integrity and have had few significant modifications.

The historic subdivision pattern is intact. Lot sizes are small - ranging from 215m²-330m² - as their size was constrained by surrounding development. All houses in the area are located on the full extent of their original site, and none of the land parcels have been formally subdivided. Minor development has taken place in the side and rear yards of sites where the narrow side and rear yards permit. This type of development usually amounts to a small extension to, or replacement of, the original lean-to and a garage or shed.

Houses are built close to the front property boundaries with a small setback of around 1.5-2m. The visual appeal of the houses is enhanced by low timber, brick or stone fencing (usually around 1m), which ensures houses are open to the street. Some houses have small gardens or other plantings in front, which combine with the mature street trees to give the area a strong sense of place.

The context of Parkfield Terrace is that of an urban residential subdivision, close to the City Centre and the amenities in Karangahape Road and Newmarket. This location contextualises the area as a city fringe subdivision, developed with a reliance on public, rather than private, transport.

Map 14.2.20.1 Historic Heritage Area: Parkfield Terrace

Schedule 14.2.21 Jervois Road Streamline Moderne/Art Deco Block Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02852)

Statement of significance

The Jervois Road Streamline Moderne/Art Deco Block is a cohesive group of Streamline Moderne/Art Deco-style apartment buildings that represent an important period of development in Herne Bay and inner suburban Auckland. They are the most intact grouping of this type of building from this period in Auckland. Built between the late 1930s and early 1940s, the group consists of nine lots, located between 175 Jervois Road and 2 Salisbury Street, Herne Bay.

All but one of the apartment buildings occupy the entire Jervois Road frontage of the block that was formerly a tram barn (depot) site. The site, between Wallace Street and Salisbury Street on Jervois Road, was a facility that served the Auckland Tram network from the 1880s until 1929. Herne Bay developed as a suburb during this period, and consequently the area around the tram barn has strong Victorian and Edwardian character.

The Jervois Road tram barn was replaced in 1929 by a larger facility in the city. The building was demolished, freeing up the land for subdivision. However, the onset of the Great Depression meant that the property remained undeveloped for almost a decade. In the late 1930s and early 1940s, the properties were finally developed. The developers appeared to share an interest in the popular Streamline Moderne/Art Deco architectural style and were happy to invest in a relatively new (and dramatically different) form of housing: multi-unit apartment buildings.

The row is a highly intact grouping of apartment buildings or 'flats' designed in, or influenced by, the 'Streamline Moderne' typology with the exception of the single storey English Cottage Revival house at 183 and the former duplex at 185 Jervois Road. Varying in size and height, the buildings are all located close to the front of their lot, with a minor setback – most are around 4m from the front boundary. The properties at 183 and 185 Jervois Road are set back a little further (8-9m). The apartment buildings take up most of the area of the lots, with garages (part of the original design) found at the rear. Only one property (183 Jervois Road) has infill to the rear.

The north-eastern half of the block is generally open to the street, with either no wall, or a low masonry wall fronting the street. The south-western half of the block has higher masonry walls fronting the street, with the exception of 2 Salisbury Street which has a hedge.

The apartments are of masonry construction, with textured stucco cladding. Apart from some minor alterations over time, the buildings have retained their original form and characteristics. Notable features of the Streamline Moderne/Art Deco architectural design of the buildings include: fenestration (banks of casement windows), high parapets (and flat roofs), horizontal coloured bands, dimensional lettering (showing the name of each building), and textured stucco finish. Some buildings also have curved flowing façades.

All but one of the buildings are known to have been architecturally designed, most by architect A.C. Jeffries (but also A.S. O'Connor and A.B. Cocombe). These architects were prolific Auckland architects during the interwar period, drawing on architectural fads of the time, including the Spanish Mission and Art Deco styles. The Jervois Road Streamline Moderne/Art Deco Block buildings are illustrative and highly intact examples of a design type for which they were noted.

The apartment buildings have regional historical significance as they represent the shifting lifestyles of the period and the approach taken at that time to provide a more intensive alternative form of residential accommodation (especially around tram routes).

Forming a highly cohesive and visible group, the apartment buildings are a landmark feature in the locality. Situated in a prominent position along the Jervois Road ridge, they are clearly visible from the street and are considerably significant for their aesthetic and contextual values. The end buildings, "Raycourt" sweeping around the corner of Wallace Street, and "Riverina" on the corner of Salisbury with the Salisbury apartments opposite, are focal points in the local urban landscape. In the Herne Bay context, they are an extraordinary collective grouping of apartment buildings, in an area that historically and to a large extent still is predominantly individual villas on their own lots.

Schedule 14.2.22 Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02853)

Statement of significance

The Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area on Findlay Street and Hewson Street in Ellerslie is a group of 22 workers' dwellings that were constructed between 1908 and 1919 under the Workers' Dwellings Acts of 1905 and 1910. The area was part of the Lawry Settlement, which was one of three workers' dwellings settlements in Auckland, and the largest planned settlement in New Zealand.

The Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area is of considerable national historical significance for associations with the Workers' Dwellings Acts of 1905 and 1910, which were the first central government-led legislation in the western world providing for the government to build public housing for its citizens.

Specifically, the Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area has strong historical associations with the Lawry Settlement, of which it was a part. Named after Liberal Government Member of Parliament, Francis (Frank) Lawry, the area which includes a highly intact grouping of original workers' dwellings that assists greatly in understanding the roots of New Zealand's State Housing program.

The Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area predominantly retains its street-facing pattern of development. Together with the deep setbacks, low fencing or hedging and a general lack of garaging in front yards, the layout of the area continues to reflect the ideals of a suburban community, as originally envisioned by the First Labour Government.

Workers' dwellings within the Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area are early State-designed housing by government architect Woburn Temple. In their design and construction, they exemplify the notion that State Housing should be indistinguishable from private housing. Workers' dwellings were designed to be high quality and included a range of amenities. Special attention was paid to ventilation and sanitation, and modern conveniences such as hot-water and indoor plumbing were included.

Temple prepared a set of 24 house plans (later reduced to 15) that future residents could choose from; the Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area contains examples of six of Temple's plans, and they are the only known examples in the region. The houses are characterised by their villa and transitional villa style and materiality, their massing, roof form, weatherboard cladding, timber joinery, ornamentation, and corrugated metal roofing. All dwellings remain single-storey and most dwellings have a lean-to styled roof extending to their rear.

Distinctive features of Temple's designs remain evident in the area, including cant windows and side entries. Timber ornamentation including eaves brackets, gable detailing, shingles and fretwork are highly visible, with some designs displaying geometric and Arts and Crafts influences. Many houses retain at least one decorative chimney which are a significant feature in the streetscape. The houses largely retain their original architectural features and built form.

The area also exhibits aesthetic value in its well-maintained wide berms, its consistent patterning of mature street trees and the integrity of the original bluestone kerbing across

The houses within the Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area have considerable value as part of a wider cultural and thematic context of State Housing across Auckland and New Zealand. Houses on Findlay Street and Hewson Street comprise a group of interrelated places which have coherence because of shared age, architectural style, and historical associations. The houses contribute to the townscape of Ellerslie and have a streetscape character and sense of place.

The period of significance is between 1905 when the first Workers' Dwellings Act was passed, to 1923 when the government decided not to pursue further development in the Lawry Settlement.

Schedule 14.1 Schedule of Historic Heritage

[new text to be inserted]

[rcp/dp]

Introduction

The criteria in B5.2.2\(1\) to \(5\) have been used to determine the significant historic heritage places in this schedule and will be used to assess any proposed additions to it.

The criteria that contribute to the heritage values of scheduled historic heritage in Schedule 14.1 are referenced with the following letters:

A: historical

B: social

C: Mana Whenua

D: knowledge

E: technology

F: physical attributes

G: aesthetic

H: context.

Information relating to Schedule 14.1

Schedule 14.1 includes for each scheduled historic heritage place;

- an identification reference (also shown on the Plan maps)
- a description of a scheduled place
- a verified location and legal description and the following information:

Reference to Archaeological Site Recording

Schedule 14.1 includes in the place name or description a reference to the site number in the New Zealand Archaeological Association Site Recording Scheme for some places, for example R10_709.

Categories of scheduled historic heritage places

Schedule 14.1 identifies the category of significance for historic heritage places, namely:

- (a) outstanding significance well beyond their immediate environs (Category A); or
- (b) the most significant scheduled historic heritage places scheduled in previous district plans where the total or substantial demolition or destruction was a discretionary or non-complying activity, rather than a prohibited activity (Category A*). This is an interim category until a comprehensive re-evaluation of these places is undertaken and their category status is addressed through a plan change process; or

- (c) considerable significance to a locality or greater geographic area (Category B).

Primary feature

Schedule 14.1 lists the primary feature of historic heritage significance for a scheduled place. Not all primary features of Category B places have been identified. Until such time as the primary features of Category B places are identified, all features within the extent of Category B places, where the primary features are not identified, will be considered a primary feature.

Extent of a scheduled historic heritage place

Schedule 14.1 refers to the 'extent of place' of a scheduled historic heritage place. In most cases reference is made to the extent of a scheduled historic heritage place being shown on the Plan maps. The historic heritage overlay rules apply to all land and water (including the foreshore and seabed) within the identified extent of a scheduled historic heritage place.

Where a scheduled historic heritage place is annotated with a # symbol in Schedule 14.1 an extent of place has yet to be defined. For places annotated with a # symbol the rules in D17 Historic Heritage Overlay apply to all land and water (including the foreshore and seabed) within 50 metres of the feature named or described in the schedule.

For Historic Heritage Areas the maps and statements of significance in Schedule 14.2 describe the identified extent of place. When the extent of place for a scheduled historic heritage place is shown on a map in Schedule 14.2 it shall take precedence over the extent of place shown on the Plan maps.

Exclusions

Schedule 14.1 identifies as 'exclusions' those sites, features or elements of a historic heritage place that do not have historic heritage value. Excluded features are subject to different rules than those that apply to the scheduled place (refer to D17 Historic Heritage Overlay).

Additional rules for archaeological sites or features

Schedule 14.1 identifies those scheduled historic heritage places with archaeological values where additional archaeological rules apply (refer to D17 Historic Heritage Overlay).

Place of Māori significance

Schedule 14.1 identifies scheduled historic heritage places that are sites or places of significance to Mana Whenua. These places may also be subject to D21 Sites and Places of Significance to Mana Whenua Overlay.

Requirements of the Heritage New Zealand Pouhere Taonga Act 2014

In addition to the Plan provisions relating to scheduled historic heritage places the provisions of the Heritage New Zealand Pouhere Taonga Act 2014 apply.

Historic heritage places subject to heritage orders

Historic heritage places that are subject to Heritage Orders under the Heritage New Zealand Pouhere Taonga Act 2014 are included in Schedule 13 Heritage Orders Schedule.

Heritage New Zealand Pouhere Taonga (Heritage New Zealand)

Heritage New Zealand maintains the New Zealand Heritage List/ Rārangī Kōrero which is a list of historic places, historic areas and wahi tapu areas. Heritage New Zealand is also required to establish and maintain the list of National Historic Landmarks/ Ngā Manawhenua o Aotearoa me ōna Kōrero Tūturu. A scheduled historic heritage place in this Plan may also be on the New Zealand Heritage List.

In addition to the requirements of this Plan, the Heritage New Zealand Pouhere Taonga Act 2014 requires an authority to be obtained from Heritage New Zealand to modify or destroy any archaeological site meeting the criteria set out in that Act, whether or not it is recorded or scheduled.

If works are proposed to a scheduled historic heritage place, and the place meets the definition of an 'archaeological site' in the Heritage New Zealand Pouhere Taonga Act 2014, then the works will be subject to the provisions of that Act in addition to this Plan. Some places that meet the definition of an 'archaeological site' under the Heritage New Zealand Pouhere Taonga Act 2014 will not be included in Schedule 14.1, and an authority to modify an archaeological site will be required from Heritage New Zealand.

Prior to starting work, or making an application for a resource consent affecting a historic heritage place Heritage New Zealand should be contacted to confirm whether, in addition to any rules applying in this Plan;

- (1) an authority is required from Heritage New Zealand to modify an archaeological site; or
- (2) the place is on the New Zealand Heritage List/ Rārangī Kōrero or list of National Historic Landmarks.

Schedule 14.2 Historic Heritage Areas – Maps and statements of significance

Schedule 14.2.1 Ardmore Road, Wanganui Avenue, Albany Road and Trinity Street Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02516)

Statement of significance

This is an area of Edwardian villas displaying a good representation of architectural and landscape character, with very clear geographic and topographic identity. The area displays stylistic and spatial consistency, which derives from both the nature of the subdivision, and a remarkable “group building” venture (described below).

A number of Edwardian commercial buildings at the Jervois Road entries are important historic portals to the historic heritage area and are included as an integral part of it. The corners of Ardmore Road and Wanganui Avenue are graced by solid two-storey decorative period masonry buildings. The west side of the Albany Road entry is marked by what is probably the best corner building of the six, while the building on the opposite corner is of no heritage value but warrants inclusion in the interests of completeness, symmetry, and long-term improvement.

The three principal roads (Ardmore Road, Wanganui Avenue & Albany Road) run in parallel at right angles to Jervois Road and the land contour, as if it were on a perfect plane warped in one direction only. This relation to the contour imparts elements of both movement and formality. Commencing at Jervois Road, each road enters into a long pronounced descent, then bottoms out and finishes with a short ascent to a common terminus at Trinity Street, where the facing villas act powerfully to close the vista and provide a sense of completeness. The shops form an important historic streetscape and consistently have verandahs and Edwardian details. Some shops include old shop frontages, while other ground level frontages have seen more change. At the Jervois Road end of the road are a few outbuildings - some relate to the shops, while on Albany Street there is an old stables.

The commercial premises within the historic heritage area on Jervois Road illustrate the historical development pattern of providing local convenience stores which offered important services for the nearby residents at a time prior to modern conveniences such as refrigeration, the motor vehicle, and supermarkets.

Throughout the area, the houses have a common alignment square to the site boundaries, there is consistency of lot size, width and building set-back in any one part, a strong repetition of building style and form (notably the gabled bay), and strong consistency of roof form and slope. These features form strong elements of group character and, in particular, have combined to create striking sequences of buildings in parallax. The steepness of the roads allows the character of the housing to be appreciated more fully than on a level road, such that each building plays an increased role in the visual composition of the streetscape.

The historic heritage area corresponds to what was effectively a single subdivision of some 250 lots, created between 1903 and 1906 in the name of the Jervois Estate Syndicate. The four roads of bay villas were largely built over a period of two years by an American who employed 'chippies' from the ships in port during their periods of loading and unloading.

Some small decorative details, such as the caps on some internal posts, have been found to be uniquely American (Stewart). However, the external style is demonstrably Edwardian.

A distinctive ambience exists in Ardmore Road because of the treatment of the road itself. All the roads have the same reserve width but Ardmore alone has been developed with a berm and a correspondingly narrower carriageway (nine metres). In contrast, Wanganui Avenue and Albany Road both have a very wide carriageway (12 metres). Chicanes were introduced in recent years to exclude through-traffic. The street trees are not of historical significance to the original subdivision. Bluestone kerbs remain a recognisable feature.

Half of the lots are unusually small for the period, being only 16.4-16.7 perches (420m²). These are located in the lowest positions with the least views. The lot sizes then scale progressively up the principal roads, being approximately 460m² to 630m² at the top nearest to Jervois Road (with a corresponding increase in lot width from 12 to 14 metres). Likewise the lots on rising ground in Trinity Street reach 530m². Clearly, the developers perceived a hierarchy of values. However, it means that more than half the lots are too narrow to permit vehicular access down the side of the villa, and in some cases, there is insufficient depth for parking in the front yard. Should car parking be desired forward of the building facade where there is sufficient depth to the front yard, care needs to be taken that this does not unduly obscure the character of the villa.

A large proportion of the villas have only minor modifications to their exteriors. There have been recent additions to some roofs and to the rear of the houses, and limited infill by housing of later periods. Alterations to houses in the historic heritage area are very largely cosmetic, leaving the basic form, decoration and architectural value effectively intact. The small changes made are easily reversible. The scale of the villas has been retained and still forms a strong historic visual streetscape.

The villas are largely straightforward in form. They are aligned essentially to the front and rear, irrespective of the orientation to sun or view. With building setbacks of only two to four metres, the villas stand consistently up to the road, lending a conspicuously architectural character to the area.

The houses are characteristically single storey, with weatherboard cladding, pitched roofs of corrugated iron, and sash windows. Roof forms dominate the streetscape, with only a few roofs with a Dutch gable detail. Brick chimneys are prominent, many of them ornamented. Most houses have a bay. In character with late period villas, the bay is contained under the main roof of the house. Timber ornamentation is essentially sparing and simple. Picket fences predominate.

In the design of the house facade and treatment of the front yard, there is a sense of propriety and formality facing the street. There is typically a front verandah over which the roof pitch flattens to impart a sense of welcome. The verandah acts as intermediate or transitional space between the public footpath and the privacy of the home, reflecting a time when the road was social space. The social interaction which is possible between the verandah and the footpath can still survive to some extent today, particularly where high front fences have not been added.

In terms of architectural character and social significance, a clear historical distinction exists between the front (publicly visible) elevation of the houses and the rear (the utility area, private and unseen) elevation. Expense was concentrated upon the front elevation which was of formal design, well-articulated with bays, and ornamented. The rear elevation was simple and plain, with an absence of curved walls, articulation of surfaces or ornamentation. These architectural distinctions should be respected when designing alterations or extensions at the rear.

Schedule 14.2.2 Burnley Terrace and King Edward Street Historic Heritage Area
(Schedule 14.1 ID 02513)

Statement of significance

This is an outstanding subdivision in Sandringham of quite remarkable consistency, with a superb range of fairly closely-spaced late Victorian and Edwardian bay villas in Burnley Terrace, and a mixture of Edwardian and transitional villas in King Edward Street. Some of the houses on Burnley Terrace adjoin Taupata Street, with a short pattern of lots spread over these two streets. Both streets are straight and flat, and all the houses have a common alignment square to the site boundaries.

Up until the 1870s, the activity in the area was predominantly farming with early settlement dating from 1840 with crown grants. During the 1880s, residential lots were established - Edmund Bell's subdivision included Taupata Street; in 1885, Charles Paice put in King Edward Street; and in 1886, Henry Hirst created 58 sections along Burnley Terrace. In 1902, the tram arrived and signalled major development.

Some of the houses on Burnley Terrace also adjoin Taupata Street, with a short pattern of lots spread over these two streets, with a few of the garages or houses facing the rear lane of Taupata Street.

The overall area shows consistency of lot size, width and building set-back, strong repetition of building style and form (notably the gabled bay), and strong consistency of a main roof form and slope. These features form strong elements of group character, and in particular have combined to create striking sequences of buildings in parallax.

The two streets are characteristic of the Victorian and Edwardian eras, and of the subdivision of the time, and exhibit it at a great scale, with relatively little modification and minimal infill by housing of later periods. Alterations to houses in these streets are largely cosmetic, leaving the basic form, decoration and architectural value intact. The small changes made are easily reversible.

The houses are largely straightforward in form. Although the side yards are wider than in earlier periods, the homes are aligned essentially to the front and rear, irrespective of the orientation to sun or view.

Most of the houses are characteristically single storey, with weatherboard cladding, pitched roofs of corrugated iron, and sash windows. Brick chimneys are prominent, some of them ornamented. Apart from a pair of mid-Victorian villas on the south side of Burnley Terrace, most houses have a strong gable, and many are bay villas or transitional villas. In keeping with the character of the early 1890s period, the bay is contained under the main roof of the house. There are also a few instances of bungalows that represent the next phase of the area's development.

The level of timber ornamentation ranges from very sparing simple forms to the more eye-catching "pattern-book" ornamentation of some of the bay villas. Picket fences predominate at the front boundary. A few historic stone walls are evident, especially in Burnley Terrace.

The houses are predominantly clad in timber and retain traditional materials. In the design of the house facade and treatment of the front yard, there is a sense of propriety and formality facing the street. There is typically a front verandah over which the roof pitch flattens to impart a sense of welcome. The verandah acts as an intermediate or transitional space between the public footpath and the privacy of the home, reflecting a time when the street was social space. The social interaction which is possible between the verandah and the footpath can still survive to some extent today, particularly where high front fences have not been added. Bluestone kerbs remain a feature of the streetscape.

In terms of architectural character and social significance, a clear historical distinction exists between the front (publicly visible) elevation of the houses and the rear (the utility area, private and unseen) elevation. Expense was concentrated upon the front elevation which was of formal design, well-articulated with bays, and ornamented. The rear elevation was simple and plain, with an absence of curved walls, articulation of surfaces or ornamentation. These architectural distinctions should be respected when designing alterations or extensions at the rear. There are a few houses that face away from Burnley Terrace onto Taupata Street.

Burnley Terrace

Burnley Terrace was the first of the two streets in this historic heritage area to be subdivided, with the development in 1885-86 of more than 120 lots. Road construction proceeded from both the east and west ends on slightly different alignments, causing a slight offset in their kerbs where they meet.

The western half of Burnley Terrace was originally named Reston Road. It is the more humble half, the lots being appreciably smaller and narrower than in the eastern half; 12 metres wide compared with 13 to 14 metres. Accordingly, about one-third of the lots in the western half do not allow vehicular access beside the house. In a few cases, parking occurs in the front yard, where care needs to be taken that this does not unduly obscure the character of the villa. In the eastern half, with most of the lots having a driveway down the side boundary, cars are not parked forward of the building facade and the front yards have largely retained their original character.

The western half of Burnley Terrace has an appreciably narrower carriageway (nine metres) and a wider berm than the eastern half. Interestingly however, the narrower berms in the eastern half contain intermittent rows of melias, while for the most part the berms at the western half are simply grassed. While this imparts a certain bareness to the western end of the street, it does allow the pattern of building forms to be plainly visible and appreciated without interruption or dilution.

Along all of Burnley Terrace, the villas are located well-up to the street, with typical set-backs of as little as two to two-and-a-half metres. This gives the street a conspicuously architectural character.

At the time Burnley Terrace was subdivided, the economy was depressed and house building would initially have been slow. The pace of building accelerated from the mid-1890s, when there was a general building boom lasting into the 1900s. Most of the villas date from this boom period.

A distinctive characteristic of the area are the villas that face north to Taupata Street, which is a cul-de-sac and, as it terminates, has more of a service lane quality. Two significant villas are located on Taupata Street, along with a number of outbuildings associated with other lots, and an early rental building. These properties have two street frontages.

King Edward Street

King Edward Street's main subdivision occurred almost 20 years later than Burnley Terrace, in 1904-05, when the area was known as the "Township of Bellwood South". Most of the villas were built soon after subdivision and represent the next two generations of style after those in Burnley Terrace. The houses are constructed, primarily in the late Edwardian villa-style, with a few transitional bay villas, demonstrating a later style dating from around World War I (1914-1918), and distinguishable in the street by the main roof running down over the verandah.

The roof forms of the transitional villas are a dominant form and there have been little later roof alteration or attic additions. The ambience in King Edward Street is one of spaciousness. The lots are both larger and wider (15 metres) than in Burnley Terrace and the berms are wider. In places the berm is split about a central footpath, a concept new for the period. There are intermittent sequences of tree planting, in mixed species. The villas are set somewhat further back than in Burnley Terrace, generally in the range of three to three-and-a-half metres. One sequence is set back eight metres, giving the front garden much greater significance. All the lots are wide enough to allow vehicular access beside the house, so cars are not parked forward of the building facade, and the front yards have largely retained their original character.

Summary

The range of period housing within these streets represents an important period of time in the development of Auckland, and although a number of houses are undergoing renovations, King Edward Street and Burnley Terrace retain a distinctive character that represents their period of development. However, the western end of King Edward Street has a few modern houses which do not make a contribution. There are also a few distinctive buildings including a two storey homestead in Burnley Terrace, a 1912 apartment building, early bungalows, and a former commercial building in King Edward Street, that add their own character to the streets.

Schedule 14.2.3 Cooper Street Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02518)

Statement of significance

This is a significant subdivision of early Victorian cottages from the Arch Hill farm, representing some of the oldest surviving housing in the inner city. The lots were placed on the market in 1865 when the area was known as Newton West. It is assumed that house building began soon after this time, and that many of the houses date from the 1870s.

Cooper Street is contemporaneous with the Renall Street Historic Heritage Area. Both were subdivided for the artisan class. However, at the time it was developed, Cooper Street was on the very edge of the town and was less constricted than Renall Street. The elevated site falls to the southeast. Its open prospect and clear separation from the poor-class housing areas of Freemans Bay and Newton Gully were important selling points when the lots went to auction. The 1865 sale notice described the “choice building lots” as “deserving of particular attention for their healthy and commanding position.”

The layout of Cooper Street is somewhat more spacious than Renall Street. The road width was made 15 metres wide and the carriageway is wider. The sections were created larger than those at Renall Street, at 300m². The extra size is wholly accounted for in the depth of the lots.

As in Renall Street, the lots are narrow (50 links or ten metres) and the houses generally sit tightly together with minimal side yards, so that the houses are orientated entirely to the front and rear. For the most part, except for the two-storey cottages and a bungalow, the houses sit well forward. Only the footpath separates the properties from the carriageway, a characteristic of artisan housing of the period. For the most part, the ambience at both the front and rear of the houses is of a compact, close-spaced, tight density. The street is aligned perfectly at right angles to the land contours, which imparts a certain sense of formality.

The houses are predominantly small 19th century cottages, essentially simple in form and detail, and aligned square to the site boundaries. They are predominantly clad in weatherboard, with pitched roofs of corrugated iron. There are sash, timber framed windows, with almost no bays. Timber ornamentation is simple and low key.

In the design of the house facade and treatment of the front yard, there is a sense of propriety and formality facing the street. There is typically a front verandah over which the roof pitch flattens to impart a sense of welcome. The verandah acts as intermediate or transitional space between the public footpath and the privacy of the home, reflecting a time when the street was social space. The social interaction which is possible between the verandah and the footpath still survives to some extent today, particularly where high front fences have not been added.

In terms of architectural character and social significance, a clear historical distinction exists between the front (publicly visible) elevation of the houses and the rear (the utility area, private and unseen) elevation. Expense was concentrated upon the front elevation, which was of formal design, with at least some degree of articulation and ornamentation.

The rear elevation was simple and plain, with an absence of ornamentation or articulation of surfaces. Many of the cottages have historic lean-to additions, which have a simple form and limited detail. These architectural distinctions should be respected when designing alterations or extensions at the rear.

Cooper Street is divided by Seddon Street and there is a change of character at this point. Whereas the houses north of Seddon Street are single storeyed cottages set close to the street, those south of Seddon Street include both single storey and a number of two-storey narrow cottages and are generally set further back. While the land north of Seddon Street descends gently from Great North Road, it steepens rapidly below Seddon Street.

The street is now cut by a modern motorway, and there is no longer evidence of historic use of the end of the street, although Cooper Street is connected visually to the Newton gully cottages on the opposite slopes. There is little evidence of original plantings, footpaths or road surface in the streetscape however, bluestone kerbs remain a recognisable feature.

North of Seddon Street

North of Seddon Street, there is a consistency of building scale and set back, and a tightness of buildings, which combine to create a unity and intimacy of character. All the cottages are Victorian, and most of them are largely unmodified. There has been very little infill of later period housing. With only small front yards, planting is small scale and delicate. Low-scale picket fences predominate. Several cottages have been modified, resulting in their verandahs being fully closed-in. This is not in keeping with the original open-verandah style.

Car parking is on-street, as the side yards are too narrow for vehicular access and there is insufficient depth for parking in the front yard. As a consequence, the front yards have largely retained their original character.

South of Seddon Street

The houses south of Seddon Street were built over an extended period, so that only a proportion of them pre-date World War 1. The oldest and most notable are six small two-storeyed Victorian cottages, which are one room wide, and are largely unmodified.

The steepness of the street allows the character of the housing to be appreciated more fully than on a level street, such that each building plays an increased role in the visual composition of the streetscape.

The houses are set behind more substantial front gardens, which allow the planting of significant trees and shrubs. There is greater provision of on-site parking. Some of the houses occupy double lots and many have a wide enough side yards for vehicle access. Should car parking be desired in the front yard, care needs to be taken that this does not unduly obscure the character of the house.

Map 14.2.3.1 Historic Heritage Area: Cooper Street

Schedule 14.2.4 Elgin Street Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02517)

Statement of significance

This street of uninterrupted Victorian and Edwardian housing was subdivided in 1884. By this time, subdivision standards had increased significantly. The street is 20 metres wide and the lots are typically of 480m² with a width of 12 metres. There is therefore a sense of spaciousness not apparent in earlier streets.

The historic heritage area includes a fine brick warehouse and period shop at the Great North Road end, adding value to the historic ambience of the street. The scale of the warehouse, though larger, is quite compatible with the domestic scale of the street and acts as an important portal for the street to and from the south. Its exterior surface and detailing are essentially intact and should be conserved.

At the time Elgin Street was subdivided, the economy was depressed and house building would have proceeded slowly. Accordingly, the houses were built over a period of about twenty years, and so range from four-square Victorian cottages and villas of the late-1880s, to mass-produced Edwardian bay villas constructed in the 1900s when the economy had quickened. The lots were large enough to accommodate “pattern-book” building plans, leading to an increased standardisation of form. The late villas, for example those at 14 Elgin Street and 18 Elgin Street, show a repeated form which creates a strong streetscape. There is a noticeable cluster of richly designed homes on the east side of the southern block, including a highly individualistic example of the Victorian Gothic style. In contrast, the Edwardian villas opposite are simply and sparingly designed. Where there is an intact historic appearance from the street and side elevations, this is an important feature.

While the side yards are not as tight as in earlier periods, the houses are still orientated essentially to the front and rear. Some of the earliest homes are set comparatively close to the street, whereas the turn-of-the-century villas are set further back. There tend to be reasonably consistent building lines in any one part of the street. The footpaths are wider than in earlier streets and a berm is provided. Together with the berm, the front yards are large enough to accommodate significant trees and shrubs.

The street has a strong slope and the southern section has a curve in it. The gradient and curve allow the character of the housing to be appreciated more fully than in a straight level street, such that each building plays an increased role in the visual composition of the streetscape. Bluestone kerbs remain a recognisable feature.

The houses are largely straightforward in form and are aligned square to the site boundaries. They are all single storeyed, with weatherboard cladding and pitched roofs of corrugated iron. Brick chimneys are prominent, some of them ornamented. There are sash windows, and all the late villas have bays. In character with this later period, the bay is contained under the main roof of the house. The level of timber ornamentation ranges from simple forms on the earlier Victorian cottages, through the fine intricate fret-work of the Victorian Gothic, to the more conventional industrial patterns of the

In the design of the house facade and treatment of the front yard, there is a sense of propriety and formality facing the street. There is typically a front verandah over which the roof pitch flattens to impart a sense of welcome. The verandah acts as intermediate or transitional space between the public footpath and the privacy of the home, reflecting a time when the street was social space. The social interaction which is possible between the verandah and the footpath still survives to some extent today, particularly where high front fences have not been added.

In terms of architectural character and social significance, a clear historical distinction exists between the front (publicly visible) elevation of the houses and the rear (the utility area, private and unseen) elevation. Expense was concentrated upon the front elevation which was of formal design, well-articulated (often with bays) and ornamented. The rear elevation was simple and plain, with an absence of curved walls, articulation of surfaces or ornamentation. These architectural distinctions should be respected when designing alterations or extensions at the rear.

Elgin Street is divided by Crummer Road and there is some change in character at that point. The houses in the southern block are of very high consistency and largely unmodified. In the northern block, where the houses tend to be more humble, the basic building form is intact but minor modifications and loss of detail are common. This offers an opportunity for restoration to complement the quality of the southern block.

Many of the houses, particularly in the southern block, have one side yard just wide enough for vehicle access, and most car parking is off-street. The landscaping of the front yard is largely uncompromised by car parking or garaging, particularly in the southern block where the front yards retain much of their original character. Should car parking be desired in the front yard, care needs to be taken that this does not unduly obscure the character of the house. This poses more of a problem in the northern block.

Map 14.2.4.1 Historic Heritage Area: Elgin Street

Schedule 14.2.5 Herne Bay Road Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02515)

Statement of significance

Herne Bay Road is a street of mostly late Victorian and early Edwardian villas of very high quality and which are largely unmodified, particularly on the east side. The historic heritage area is representative of this housing period, and also represents Herne Bay housing for the upper-class of the time. The area is almost completely free of more recent infill development. Herne Bay Road is one of Auckland's earlier roads, having been set out as a thoroughfare in the late 1860s, prior to its subdivision for housing. In the 1870s and early 1880s, eleven lots were released on the west side and most of the Victorian villas and cottages that were built on them have survived, largely intact.

In 1901, the east side was subdivided into fifteen lots in the middle of a building boom. Accordingly, the lots were all built on in a relatively short period, producing today's legacy of an unusually continuous row of well-preserved Edwardian bay villas. The villas show strong repetition of overall forms, notably the gabled bay, and strong consistency of roof form and roof slope and building set-back. These elements combine to create a sequence of buildings in parallax. At the same time, the villas express individuality in timber detailing and ornamentation, ranging from fairly standard catalogue mouldings to complex turnery and spindle work. The form, scale, height and materials of the villas are important attributes.

The road includes four later houses at the top of the west side approaching Jervois Road, where subdivision did not occur until 1923, including a set of mid-century apartments. These dwellings were designed in the style of their period and show a historical progression up the road, moving through the Californian bungalow-style to the Moderne style of the apartments. This sense of stylistic evolution lends character to this part of the road, and its inclusion in the historic heritage area is important in maintaining the quality of the road's "portal" at Jervois Road. The portal is completed by a finely proportioned Victorian shop and residence on the east corner (now used as a restaurant), which is historically integral to Herne Bay Road.

The road has a particularly spacious ambience. The road has bluestone kerbs and established trees that lead down towards Herne Bay beach. The lots range from 550-800m² and have a width of 15 to 20 metres, which was generous for the time. Accordingly, the villas are generally well separated from each other.

There tends to be reasonably consistent building lines in any one part of the road. The villas on the east side are situated reasonably closely to the road, and have a consistent set-back of 3.5 to 4.5 metres. Front gardens and landscaping was traditionally soft and involved timber or metal fencing. Much of this historic landscaping is retained, giving the frontage a conspicuously architectural character. On the west side of the road, most of the set-backs range between three metres and six metres. Virtually all the lots are wide enough to allow vehicular access beside the house. In consequence, most cars are not parked forward of the building facade, and the front yards have largely retained their original character. Garages were generally not part of the historic fabric of the street, and front yards traditionally remain intact and void of structures.

Herne Bay Road runs straight down the hill until it reaches the harbour, which is situated across the reserve at the foot of the street. There is little evidence of original footpaths or road surface however bluestone kerbs remain a feature. A strong axial character was established through planting the berms in an avenue of London planes, a road tree characteristic of the period. Unfortunately, only the top half of the avenue still survives. Planting within the front yard was historically of low-scale, using soft materials. Historic harbour views are a significant element of the street and have been taken into account in terms of planning and securing the harbour view, obtainable obliquely from each bay window.

Although the side yards are wider than in earlier periods, many of the homes are aligned essentially to the front and rear, irrespective of the orientation to sun or view. However, quite a number of the villas, particularly those occupying a double lot, make some architectural concession to one side yard in the form of a return verandah or shallow bay.

The houses are largely straightforward in form and are aligned square to the side boundaries. A main roof form encloses the building with gables coming off the main form. Traditionally, there were no additions on top of the main roof. The predominantly timber villas were set lightly on the ground. Some of the villas have had redevelopment of roof forms with additional attic windows and gables. These are not original, and significant care needs to be taken when modifying the roof form to ensure it remains true to its original style. Some of the buildings have enclosed verandahs, converted into habitable areas, where there would have once been an open verandah. These modifications do not form part of the traditional characteristics of the villa. Specific elements of the verandah that are of importance often include the detailing of the posts, fretwork and balustrades.

The houses are clad in weatherboard, with pitched roofs of corrugated iron. Brick chimneys are prominent, some of them ornamented. There are sash windows, and all the late villas have bays, some with tiled sunhoods. In character with the later period, the bay is contained under the main roof of the house. The road includes examples of the double-bay villa, and the angled-corner bay villa. The level of timber ornamentation ranges from simple forms on the earlier Victorian cottages, through the more eye-catching “pattern-book” ornamentation of some of the bay villas, to elegantly turned verandah work. A mixture of low picket fences predominates at the front boundary.

Because the area lies on a north-facing slope oriented to the sun and is somewhat protected from the cool southerlies by the Herne Bay ridge at its back, there is a comfortable microclimate. This is capitalised upon and enhanced, as illustrated by the villas on the east side of the road, which display a repeated sequence of protruding bays and recessed verandahs from south to north. The verandahs were designed to trap the sun and shield the houses from the wind on their southern edge.

In the design of the house facade and treatment of the front yard, there is a sense of propriety and formality facing the road. There is typically a front verandah over which the roof pitch flattens to impart a sense of welcome. In both two-storied villas in the road, there are double verandahs. The verandah acts as intermediate or transitional space between the public footpath and the privacy of the home, reflecting a time when the road was social space. The social interaction which is possible between the verandah and the footpath can still survive to some extent today, particularly where high front fences, front yard carports and garages have not been added.

In terms of architectural character and social significance, a clear historical distinction exists between the front (publicly visible) elevation of the houses and the rear (the utility areas, private and unseen) elevation, except where the villa is on a corner site. Expense was concentrated upon the front elevation which was of formal design, well-articulated with bays and ornamented. The rear elevation was simple and plain, with an absence of curved walls, articulation of surfaces or ornamentation. These architectural distinctions should be respected when designing alterations or extensions at the rear.

Map 14.2.5.1 Historic Heritage Area: Herne Bay Road

Schedule 14.2.6 Lippiatt Road Pegler Brothers Housing Area Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02564)

Statement of significance

Lippiatt Road connects Awa Street and Walmsley Road in Otahuhu. It has a northeast-southwest orientation with a slight kink to the east at the Awa Street end. The street is in close proximity to the volcanic feature of Mt Robertson. From the northern end of the street a glimpse of the dense vegetation veil to the cone can be obtained, although the volcanic cone is not a dominant visual feature in relation to the street.

Otahuhu retains a significant number of small bungalow type houses known as Pegler houses. At the time of the Great Depression, the Pegler Brothers began to buy sections in Otahuhu and construct modest, low-cost timber houses of reasonable quality. The construction work provided local employment, while also providing much needed new housing in Otahuhu. Around 180 homes were built in various locations within the borough, many of which still remain.

The original Fencible cottages built in Otahuhu after 1849 have been described as the borough's first housing scheme, with the Pegler houses-noted as Otahuhu's second significant housing scheme. The houses were built in small clusters or individually in many Otahuhu Streets. Lippiatt Road retains the largest cluster of Pegler houses and the street as a whole retains a cohesive 1930s character with bungalow-type housing, including the Pegler Houses, and other bungalow houses of a similar period.

Of a total of approximately 44 residential sections in this road, 20 of these contain Pegler Brothers houses, comprising 45 per cent of the housing stock. Other sections in this street generally contain bungalow-style houses, giving the street as a whole a consistent established bungalow character.

The original subdivision pattern with sites having a general proportion of 16 metres wide by 40 metres deep has been retained. Dwellings are generally set back from the front boundary by between five and nine metres. Front yards are generally open. While a number of properties have solid front fences, a strong visual connection between the street and the dwellings is generally retained. Where garages or carports are present, these are usually located to the rear of properties. Trees contribute considerably to a leafy character for the street. While various alterations, including changes of cladding, have been made to a number of the houses, they still retain a consistent and cohesive pattern of form. Overall, the pattern of site proportions, location of dwellings on the site, and the concentration of buildings of similar era, form and style creates a distinctive street character.

The Pegler Brothers houses are distinctive in Otahuhu, as modest scale bungalow type houses, clad in timber weatherboards, with timber casement windows, with top-lights. As originally built they had a small bay at the front, with the front door sheltered by a modest porch. Down the side of the houses were two chimneys, one for the living room fireplace and one for the coal range. A small lean-to to the rear of the houses is likely to have housed the bathroom. While the plan appears to have remained reasonably consistent, some variations were made to the roof form, with both gabled and hipped roofs used. Often both roof types are evident where clusters of the houses remain, possibly to create some variety within a particular group.

The Pegler Brothers Housing Area in Lippiatt Road has considerable local significance for its historic associations with the housing development undertaken by the Pegler Brothers in Otahuhu during the Great Depression. The houses in Lippiatt Road are significant for their physical qualities, as representative examples of the standard modest bungalow built in many locations throughout Otahuhu by the Pegler Brothers. The Pegler Brothers Housing Area has collective historic, architectural and streetscape values, based on the high concentration of Pegler houses, together with other 1930s bungalows, the coherent and consistent pattern of dwellings, the original residential subdivision pattern, the generous setback of dwellings from the street front, and the open street character. Residential gardens, as well as street trees in Lippiatt Road, contribute to its established vegetated character.

Schedule 14.2.7 Monte Cecilia Park Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02514)

Statement of significance

Monte Cecilia Park contains over 14 hectares of land located in Hillsborough, bordered by Hillsborough Road and Pah Road to the west and east, and Mt Albert Road and Herd Road to the north and south. Monte Cecilia Park contains special characteristics that illustrate the early history of Auckland's settlement that includes arboriculture, cultural heritage, archaeology, geology and architecture values relating to a range of time periods. For these reasons, the unified entity of this landscape needs to be recognised and provided for, so that the heritage, character and amenity values of the site are maintained.

The significance of the park derives from both the combination of historical, cultural, and natural values. The area valued for its views, location and soils, and was highly sought after, initially by Maori, and subsequently by European settlers. The park comprises part of the area of land that was formerly known as 'The Pah Estate', and the current landform of Monte Cecilia Park still retains significant physical evidence of its evolution from this estate, including boundary locations, entranceways, driveways, trees, and buildings. It is one of few properties close to central Auckland that has retained a large portion of its original landholding. Monte Cecilia Park has panoramic views of the Manukau Harbour, One Tree Hill and Hillsborough. The park contains two natural amphitheatres within the lower slopes of the park. There are also landform areas within this landscape that contain geological values considered to be important.

The historic heritage area was occupied by Māori before European colonisation of New Zealand, and was formerly the location of an extensive fortified pā, known as Whataroa Pā. As parts of the landscape have not been significantly modified since that time, it is considered that cultural material associated with this Māori occupation may be present within the park today.

The Pah Estate originally comprised an area of land purchased by land dealer William Hart, who acquired the Crown Grant in 1847. Hart developed a farm on the property, selling it in 1852. Subsequently it was owned and managed by some of Auckland's most prominent businessmen during the 1860s to 1880s. The Pah Estate was sold in 1866 to Thomas Russell, a prominent Auckland lawyer, businessman, and politician. The landholding was extended considerably under Russell's ownership and the landscape evolved from its early farming use to a highly developed commercial farm and designed landscape, featuring a tree-lined entrance drive and formally laid out plantings. Russell sold the property to James Williamson in 1877. Williamson was a founding member of the Bank of New Zealand, the New Zealand Insurance Company, and the New Zealand Loan and Mercantile Agency Company. Under Williamson's ownership the Pah Estate was further developed with the assistance of a landscape designer.

The Pah Homestead was constructed on the Pah Estate between 1877 and 1879, as Williamson's 'gentleman's residence'. The Italianate house was designed by architect Edward Mahoney whose practice was one of the most substantial in Auckland at that time.

Following Williamson's death in 1888 and subsequent transfer of the Pah Estate to the Assets Realisation Board of the Bank of New Zealand, the house was leased (including to St John's Collegiate School from 1902 to 1912) and parts of the estate subdivided and sold. The house and part of the estate comprising approximately 50 acres of surrounding land were sold in 1908 to Mrs Bayley. In January 1913, the property was sold to the Sisters of Mercy and Catholic Bishop of Auckland. The property has a long and significant association with the Catholic community in Auckland. It was named Monte Cecilia by the Sisters of Mercy in honour of the founder of the Auckland Community, Mother Mary Cecilia Maher. During its ownership by the Sisters of Mercy and later the Catholic Diocese, the house served as an orphanage, a novitiate house, boarding school, and more recently was used to provide emergency housing.

The Pah Homestead is scheduled in the Auckland Unitary Plan as a Category A historic heritage place (refer to Schedule 14.1 Schedule of Historic Heritage, ID 01695). The homestead is also included in the New Zealand Heritage List/Rārangī Kōrero.

Monte Cecilia Park contains approximately 1,100 trees and can be likened to an arboretum, as it contains some of the largest and/or oldest examples of some tree species in New Zealand, and some rare or uncommon species in New Zealand. There are a number of trees within the park included in Schedule 10 of the Auckland Unitary Plan (Notable Trees Schedule).

While parts of property associated with the Pah Estate have been progressively subdivided and developed for roading, housing, or educational and religious uses, the park-like quality of the landscape associated with the house, and evidence of its agricultural development remain to a significant degree.

Monte Cecilia Park is an outstanding cultural landscape of value to the Auckland region because of its association with Maori and use as a pā, the information it reveals about early land purchase, its early development for farming in 1840s, and the commercial and social relationships relating to these development activities. It demonstrates architectural and landscape design concepts from the late 1800s, and provides an understanding of the lifestyle associated with the property when it was an exclusive private residence. It retains intact physical evidence of its progressive development from the 1800s and later institutional uses.

Schedule 14.2.8 Railway Workers Housing Area Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02565)

Statement of significance

The area includes residential properties on the eastern side of Nikau Road, adjacent to Sturges Park, on the south east side of part of Awa Street, and on the north–east and south- west sides of Awa Street close to the intersection with Kuranui Place in Otahuhu.

A distinctive feature of Otahuhu’s early 20th century residential development was the housing precinct built for New Zealand Railways Department (Railways Department) staff in this area of Otahuhu in the mid-1920s. While a number of the railways houses were removed in 1981 to allow for redevelopment, a significant group of these houses remains in Nikau Road and Awa Street. In 1927, 54 houses were present. Of this number, 24 remain in these two streets.

The houses in Otahuhu are representative of housing provided by the Railways Department for their workers, and demonstrate some of the minor variations used. They are all of timber construction, with timber weatherboard cladding, timber window joinery (originally double hung sash types), and corrugated iron roofs. The houses have a symmetrically arranged front elevation, with the entrance porch located centrally. Details such as vertical boards applied to gable ends and paired posts to the verandahs, or use of trellis panels on the verandahs are in evidence. In Otahuhu, while some changes have been made to a number of the houses, such as replacing timber windows with aluminium joinery, they retain their railway house character.

The Railway Workers Housing Area has considerable local significance for its historic association with the housing development undertaken by the Railways Department in the 1920s. It represents an important grouping of the modest workers houses built by the Railways Department, using standard designs and prefabricated construction techniques. The houses are significant for their physical qualities, as representative examples of the standard modest house types built in many locations throughout New Zealand by the Railways Department. The Railways Workers Housing Area has collective historic, architectural and streetscape values, based on the surviving concentration of railway houses, the coherent and consistent pattern of dwellings, the original residential subdivision pattern, the generous setback of dwellings from the street front, and the open street character.

Schedule 14.2.9 Part of Renown Estate Subdivision Historic Heritage Area
(Schedule 14.1 ID 02562)

Statement of significance

The area encompasses part of three streets in Balmoral: Marsden Avenue, Kingsford Road, and Thorley Street. The area, which includes a number of houses built by Tudor Builders and Hansen Construction Ltd., was developed slightly later than the majority of the surrounding streets and includes houses from the 1930s, which are stylistically distinctive.

While in many respects the residential development in the area is typical of late Garden Suburb-era development in Auckland, it is exceptional for its collection of single storey detached brick houses. Most of these houses are bungalows that show a strong influence of the English Cottage style in their form, and have a liberal application of Tudor surface treatment. Also unusual are two houses in the Spanish Mission style that shows an Art Deco influence. Other houses are more typical of the bungalows of the Interwar era, but some of these are also built in brick rather than timber.

After World War I, suburban expansion in Balmoral took place on undeveloped land south of Balmoral Road. The Californian bungalow was the style of choice in the early years of the Interwar-period, and is well represented in the southern part of Balmoral. By the 1930s, the style had evolved further, under the influence of the English Domestic Revival. Some houses, most often one and a half or two storey examples, were in a style referred to as the English Cottage style. Under the influence of Modernism, other designs substantially departed from historic precedents, using Art Deco style, frequently over a plan no more remarkable than that of a typical bungalow.

Key examples in the Historic Heritage Area that show a strong influence from the English Cottage style include:

- 42 Marsden Avenue,
- 60 Marsden Avenue,
- 14 Kingsford Road,
- 16 Kingsford Road, and
- 18 Kingsford Road.

The two Spanish Mission Examples referred to above are at:

- 43 Marsden Avenue, and
- 56 Marsden Avenue.

Overall, these houses exhibit a greater level of craftsmanship than other similar areas developed at the same time, and sit within a spacious leafy context arising from the generous sizes of the original lots.

The houses in the area were predominantly constructed by three building companies: Tudor Builders Ltd. constructed houses for Rental Homes Ltd. and Mr G. G. Marriott; Hanson Construction Ltd. constructed houses for Rental Homes Ltd.; and Pegler

Brothers constructed two houses. Pegler Brothers, an Otahuhu based family company, was known for developing land as a rental development when buyers deserted the market in the early 1930s. This development can be seen in Lippiatt Road Otahuhu. Although aimed at a slightly more affluent clientele, Rental Homes Ltd.'s business model appears to have parallels with the Pegler Brothers business. Rental Homes Ltd. retained interests in the area for at least 50 years.

This part of Marsden Avenue, Kingsford Road and Thorley Street is an outstanding example of late phase of Garden Suburb development (as it is understood in the New Zealand context) from the 1930s. The houses of Tudor Builders and Hansen Construction Ltd. reinforce this character by predominantly employing styles with strong architectural references to those associated with the English Garden Suburb.

These values are underpinned by historic associations with local developers Hardley and De Luen and local architect W. H. Jaine. The history of the development demonstrates the challenges of developing the volcanic landscape of Mount Eden, and the challenges of developing land in the early 1930s when economic depression took its toll on the financial means and confidence of prospective house buyers.

Schedule 14.2.10 Princes Street Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02511)

The Princes Street Historic Heritage Area includes Albert Park, Princes Street, Kitchener Street, Bankside Street, Waterloo Quadrant, Parliament Street, Constitution Hill, Churchill Street, Alten Road and parts of Wellesley Street East, Shortland Street, Emily Place, Eden Crescent, and Symonds Street. It is important historically to Māori, for its association with the establishment of government quarters, and for its relationship with New Zealand's military heritage. The development of the University of Auckland also forms an important part of this area's history.

A Māori kainga (village) called Rangipuke was originally situated on Albert Park hill and a pā named Te Horotiu is said to have been located in what is now the north-western corner of Albert Park. From 1840, European settlement intensified and the Princes Street/Waterloo Quadrant area began to acquire a diverse range of public buildings. These included the residence of the Governor of New Zealand, destroyed by fire in 1848 and replaced in 1856 by what is now known as Old Government House. This remained the seat of governance until 1865, when the capital was moved to Wellington, and for the next century was Auckland's vice-regal residence. New Zealand's first parliament buildings were established in 1854 on Constitution Hill.

Construction of Albert Barracks, the British Army headquarters in both Auckland and New Zealand, and the largest British military fortification in the country, began in late 1846 and continued until at least 1852. The barracks were constructed to reassure the local population after the first New Zealand (Northern) War (1845-1846), at which time the settlement at Kororāreka/Russell was attacked and burnt to the ground. The garrison of some 900 troops also provided a valuable economic stimulus to the region. Encompassing an area of more than nine hectares, or 22 acres, the completed fortification was roughly octagonal in plan. It originally enclosed a parade ground, accommodation blocks, and other buildings. The former barracks forms a significant archaeological site that extends from the area occupied by the University of Auckland down to Emily Place and Constitution Hill. The barracks featured a prominent and impressive solid bluestone basalt perimeter wall, of which only a small portion remains within the university grounds.

With the removal of the military threat and the shifting of the seat of government to Wellington, the cost of maintaining the regiments was reviewed and a decision was taken in 1870 to abandon the barracks. During 1871 and 1872 the walls and many of the barrack buildings were removed or demolished and the materials used in other constructions around the city. Fifteen acres of the land was set aside as a ground for recreation and amusement, and the remaining land was laid out as streets and sections.

The auctioning of building sites in 1875 to provide capital for the development of Albert Park led to the development of small precincts of grand merchants' villas such as those that survive along Princes Street. These elegant, substantial private homes for the city's business and professional elite began to line both Princes and Symonds Streets as the area became a focus for the construction of prestigious housing.

Covering 7.5 hectares, Albert Park was designed in a public competition in 1881. The park layout was the winning entry of architect James Slater. Tree planting began in the park in 1880, with 200 exotic specimens being donated by Sir George Grey. Other trees were also donated by prominent colonial Auckland and tree collector Judge Thomas Gillies. Historic trees from the earlier plantings include: a circle of English oaks (planted to commemorate the visit of the United States Navy Great White Fleet in 1908), a Queensland kauri, a ginkgo, several Moreton Bay fig trees, a Monkey Claw tree, a Blue Atlas cedar, a Himalayan cedar, an olive, two Cork oaks, several Tree of Heaven trees, a Camphor laurel (the largest and one of the oldest in the Auckland region), English elms, Canary Island palms, Chinese windmill palms, an ombu, and a row of Washingtonia palms growing beside Princes Street. Later plantings include the Cobham kauri (1962), and the Windsor oaks, which were planted in 1938 to commemorate the coronation of King George VI.

During World War II public shelters for civil defence were constructed in open lawn areas of the park, and a network of tunnels some 3.4 kilometres-long formed below its surface to provide air raid shelters for the residents and workers of the inner city. Since the late-19th century a substantial portion of the historic heritage area has been occupied by the University of Auckland, which has expanded over much of the historic barracks and former government site.

Albert Park is a nationally notable example of a Victorian public park and the oldest formal park in the Auckland region. The park consists of formal walks focused on a central fountain, flower beds and statuary. The park also includes a Gothic-style park-keepers lodge in Princes Street, added in 1882; a band rotunda; and a large number of notable historic trees including those donated by Sir George Grey.

Significant historic heritage places, buildings and structures within the Princes Street Historic Heritage Area include:

Eighty five metres of the original 1300 metre wall still remains in the grounds of University of Auckland. The Albert Barracks Wall is nationally significant as the oldest intact component of British military architecture in New Zealand. It is an important reminder of the role played by British troops in the colonisation of New Zealand and their contribution to the economy and social life of colonial Auckland, when it was capital of New Zealand. One of the Auckland region's oldest remaining stone structures, it is associated with the 1845 New Zealand Wars and Governor Grey. The wall was constructed between 1846 and 1850 to enclose nine-hectares of land that made up Albert Barracks. It was constructed using basalt quarried from Mt. Eden by newly instructed Māori stonemasons under the supervision of Major Marlow and George Graham of the Royal Engineers. The wall was largely demolished after the barracks were abandoned in 1870, with the remnant section being that part of the wall that was retained to demarcate the Old Government House property. Archaeological evidence of the barracks, wall and buildings may be found over the wider former barracks site.

Albert Park Band Rotunda (1901)

The Auckland region's oldest remaining band rotunda was constructed in 1901 to a design by James Slater, the architect who produced the plan for Albert Park. It is symbolic of the increase in leisure time that resulted from the social and economic reforms introduced by the Liberal Government from 1898, and is also symbolic of the immense popularity of brass band music in late Victorian and Edwardian Auckland. The structure incorporates a rare example of an 'onion' topped sheet metal roof, and retains its original design elements and structural integrity. The structure is still used for music recitals and is an important component of Albert Park.

Albert Park Boer War Memorial

This memorial is a notable and regionally important public memorial to troops from the Auckland region that died in the South African War of 1899 -1902. The marble memorial known as the 'Trooper Memorial' is the earliest known example of a war memorial in the Auckland region that incorporates a statue of a soldier from the New Zealand Army (Fifth New Zealand Contingent). The lion which is incorporated in the monument is symbolic of British Imperial power and Edwardian New Zealand's commitment to the British Empire.

Albert Park Queen Victoria statue (1899)

One of the Auckland region's best known public monuments, this notable statue of Queen Victoria was the first full statue of the monarch to be erected in New Zealand. Funded partly by public subscription, the bronze statue was created by notable English sculptor Francis Williamson, who was official sculptor to Queen Victoria. The statue was erected in 1897 to mark the 60th Jubilee of Queen Victoria's reign and is symbolic of New Zealand's strong links with Britain and the British Empire at that time. It was formally unveiled by Lord Ranfurly, Governor of New Zealand on 24 May 1899 to mark Queen Victoria's 80th birthday.

Albert Park Sir George Grey statue (1904)

The statue of Sir George Grey in Albert Park is one of the Auckland region's most notable public monuments, and the region's only remaining public statue of Sir George Grey, who was Governor General from 1845 to 1853, and from 1861 to 1868, and Premier of New Zealand from 1877 to 1879. The marble statue was sculpted in London by Francis Williamson, sculptor to Queen Victoria. Its plinth was crafted from Coromandel granite and Auckland scoria by local masons Trayes Bros. The monument was funded by public subscription and the Liberal Government led by Richard John Seddon. Unveiled in 1904, six years after the death of Sir George Grey, the statue was originally sited within the Queen Street road reserve in a landmark position. Its position became more prominent when the Auckland Town Hall was constructed on Queen Street in 1911. The monument was relocated to Albert Park in 1922 when the Queen Street electric tram system was upgraded.

Albert Park Gate House/Lodge (1882)

Set within Albert Park on the edge of Princes Street, this is the only historic building directly in the park. The building is a Gothic Revival Bay villa, with weatherboard cladding and a shingle roof. Its design is the work of notable Auckland architect, Henry

Wade. The house was originally constructed in 1882, with a subsequent addition in 1908. It has been home to a number of park keepers and park superintendents over time, as well as home of the first city librarian, Edward Shillington. Other figures of note that lived-here include Thomas Pearson, a landscape gardener who played a significant role in the design and management of many of Auckland's early parks, including Albert Park.

Old Government House (1855 - 1856) and 1848 site

Old Government House was constructed in 1855-56 as the residence of the Governor of New Zealand, replacing an earlier Governor's residence that had burned down in 1848. The house remained as the vice-regal residence in Auckland until 1969, when it was taken over by the University of Auckland. The building and its grounds are of significance to Tangata Whenua as many prominent rangatira visited successive governors at the house and held hui there. It is one of the few remaining structures in Auckland that have a link to the period when Auckland was New Zealand's capital. The building was designed by William Mason, one of colonial New Zealand's most notable architects. The building is the largest wooden building in the Auckland region and one of the largest colonial wooden buildings remaining in New Zealand. It provides a nationally notable example of a Georgian renaissance style structure. It is associated with several historic outbuildings and an adjoining ballroom. The associated historic gate keeper's cottage also remains.

Old Government House is set within extensive grounds that contain a nationally significant group of historic trees planted under the supervision of Government gardener Thomas Cleghorn from 1841. They include two Norfolk pines (Araucaria heterophylla) at either end of the front lawn of Old Government House and a South African coral tree (Erythrina caffra) planted by Sir George Grey during his second term as Governor of NZ 1861-68. The five oldest English oaks (Quercus robur) in the grounds of Old Government House are the oldest oaks in the Auckland region and among the oldest in New Zealand. They were propagated by Cleghorn in 1841-42 and planted in 1844-45. Further oaks were planted by George Graham, the first Secretary to Governor Hobson in the early 1850s. The acorns for the oldest trees came from the 'Royal Oak' in Boscabel, Shropshire. Some of the later trees are said to have been propagated from acorns given to Bishop Selwyn by Queen Victoria.

Synagogue (former) (1884)

The former synagogue is the only historic building of its type in Auckland region and one of only two 19th century synagogues surviving in New Zealand. It acted as Auckland's main synagogue and focal point for the Jewish community from 1885 until 1968, and was associated with many notable Aucklanders, including civic leaders. The building was designed by notable Auckland architect Edward Bartley, and provides a regionally representative example of a synagogue designed in a mixed Romanesque and Gothic style. The interior of the building features Auckland's only known example of a barrel vaulted timber ceiling and an ornate circular ark covered by a stained glass dome. The building is one of New Zealand's oldest massed concrete buildings. A basement was used for social and educational purposes and a school annexe was added in 1914. The building was purchased by the Auckland City Council in 1965 when the new Auckland Synagogue was built in Greys Avenue.

Princes Street Merchant Houses

The Princes Street merchant houses make up the most notable group of elite mid Victorian merchant residences in the Auckland region, alongside the related and nearby Symonds Street merchant houses. They include a row of five houses on the western side of Princes Street, and Alfred Nathan House (1882) on the eastern side of the street. The houses were built on the site of the former Albert Barracks vacated by British troops in 1870, and near to Government House.

The houses are a symbolic reminder of what was once one of Auckland's premier residential areas. The houses were built between 1876 and 1882 for Auckland's commercial and professional elite. Many were later transformed into boarding houses and then altered for use by the University of Auckland or other institutions. Five of the houses are now owned and maintained by Auckland Council.

Number 21 Princes Street 'Sonoma' was built in 1877-78 in a restrained Italianate style for successful Auckland chemist James Sharland. Following Sharland's death in 1887 the house was lived in by his brother in law Philip Philips, a former Mayor of Auckland and leader of the Auckland Jewish community.

Number 23-25 Princes Street was built in 1882 as an investment for Auckland Star proprietor Sir Henry Brett. In 1891, it was converted into a boarding house 'Ellesmere'. In 1929, the house was converted into flats and in 1959 into a doctor's surgery. In 1976, the building became the Auckland University Club and it is now a language school.

Number 27 Princes Street was originally built in 1880 for Thomas Whitson whose family owned the Albert Brewery. From 1883 the house was the residence of Dr C.H. Haines and it remained a doctor's residence for many years. The house was significantly modified to a design by prominent architect Roy A. Lippincott.

No. 29 was built for brewer George Johnstone in 1877-78. It was briefly a boarding house until purchased by prominent Auckland businessman Moss Davis in 1885. It was named 'Hamurana' and remained in the Davis family for many years.

Number 31 Princes Street, known as 'Park House', 'Honeyman House' and later 'Pembridge', was built in 1876 for Auckland draper John Smith. It was the home of businessman Arthur H. Nathan for many years and later the University of Auckland's Conservatorium of Music. It is a rendered brick building in ornate Italianate style.

Number 24 Princes Street, known originally as 'Wickford' was designed by John Currie for Nathan Alfred Nathan of L.D. Nathan, and leader of the Auckland Jewish community. The building remained in the Nathan family until 1932 when it became a private hospital. It was purchased by University of Auckland in 1958 to house its registry.

The Old Stables

Within the sites of the Princes Street merchant houses are historic plantings, and one house includes an historic stables. The Old Stables building dates from the 19th century. It was renovated in the late 20th century and is currently used as a building for exhibitions. The stables are a rare and well-preserved example of domestic stables in central Auckland. The stables are the only known building of this type to survive in the area. Employing polychrome brickwork, the stables was designed in a sufficiently ornate manner to reinforce perceptions about the taste and prosperity of its owner. Changes to the stables in the early 1900s reflected the decline of horsepower and the advent of motorised transport. Part of the building had been converted into a garage by 1923, at which time the structure was also modified to create x-ray and consulting rooms associated with the medical use of the primary building on site. The building continued to be used as part of the medical facility until at least the 1950s. In the early 1970s, the 1923 addition to the stables was removed.

St Andrew's is the oldest surviving church in Auckland, having been erected in 1847-1850. It was built in a prestigious location, close to the colonial governor's residence in an elevated part of the early town. Associated from the outset with the principles of the Free Church of Scotland, the building was constructed to a simple rectangular design. It was built using local basalt and Mahurangi 'mudstone', overseen by the architect Walter Robertson. Its appearance contrasts with Anglican and Catholic churches of the day, and reflects the Scottish origins of its congregation. Early attendees formed an influential part of Auckland society, and sat in rows of pews that were rented out according to social rank. Governor Grey and the minister's family were allocated seats on either side of the pulpit, while soldiers from the local garrison occupied rows in the centre.

St Andrew's was transformed in the early 1880s, reflecting its role as the mother church of Presbyterianism in the region, as well as the prosperity of the local Presbyterian community. Major additions included a prominent front portico and offset tower, executed in a Greek revival style, which vied with the nearby Supreme Court and Old Government House for architectural splendour. Internally an organ gallery was erected, contrasting with the practice of some other Presbyterian congregations, who preferred not to employ musical instruments. Stained glass windows and stencilled decoration were also introduced at around the turn of the century, though carefully excluding explicit Christian iconography. A steady decline in the residential nature of the parish nearly led to the closure of the church in the 1930s, and more recent alterations have been few. The parish having successfully revived, the building remains in regular use by the Presbyterian faith and is remarkable for having been used continuously for religious worship since its foundation.

St Andrew's Church is of national significance as the earliest remaining Presbyterian church in New Zealand, and as the oldest intact stone church of any denomination in the country. It is internationally important for its early links with the Free Church of Scotland, which had been founded in Scotland only shortly before, in 1843. The building has high spiritual value as a place of worship for more than 150 years, and as the mother church for Presbyterianism in northern New Zealand. It is valuable as one of Auckland's earliest surviving buildings, with connections to important personalities in the history of New Zealand and Auckland Province. The structure demonstrates the development of pioneer stonemasonry, as well as the Scottish roots of many early settlers in the region. It retains an unusually intact 19th century interior, whose layout and appearance contribute to an understanding of religious and social history in both the early and later colonial periods.

The oldest parts of the building form an important example of the architectural work of Walter Robertson, an early Auckland architect, while the tower and portico are among the most impressive commissions carried out by Matthew Henderson. The church has considerable aesthetic and landmark qualities.

Supreme Court (former)/High Court (1865 - 1868)

The former Supreme Court (now High Court) is a powerful example of Gothic Revival architecture, and was one of the most impressive buildings in New Zealand when built. It was constructed in 1865-1868 under the direction of Edward Rumsey, a British-born architect who had trained under Gilbert Scott. The two-storey brick and stone building replaced an earlier courthouse in the commercial sector of colonial Auckland, which had been built of kauri timber. The new structure was erected in a more elevated and prominent position, prestigiously located alongside the now-demolished Provincial Council building and the Old Government House. This occurred at a time of uncertainty about Auckland's future, soon after the colonial capital had been moved to Wellington, and while the British Army troops at nearby Albert Barracks were being withdrawn.

The courthouse was one of the earliest large-scale construction projects in the town, being proclaimed at the time to be the first public building of durable materials erected in Auckland Province. A distinctive Gothic Revival style was employed for its exterior, including a crenelated central tower and pointed-arch arcading. This style was extended to its internal features, contrasting strongly with the classical appearance of earlier structures nearby, including St Andrews Presbyterian Church and Old Government House. Gothic Revival was frequently used in larger judicial buildings during the later colonial period alluding, in part, to the longevity and power of the British judicial system through the use of medieval imagery. Extensive carvings by Anton Teutenberg on the main facades of the Auckland courthouse reinforce such notions of authority, with naturalistic depictions of British royalty, local dignitaries, and Māori leaders, such as the Ngāpuhi chief, Hone Heke (d.1850). The building was extended in 1935-1936, and extensively renovated in 1988 when part of the original structure was removed to accommodate new facilities. The interior retains its original courtroom, including its timber panelling and gallery.

The former Supreme Court is nationally significant as an early public building of Gothic Revival style, unusual in its scale and level of decoration in 1860s New Zealand. It graphically demonstrates the growing power of the state and legal system on a national level, as well as the local importance placed on law and order as Auckland was undergoing transformation soon after the third New Zealand (or Waikato) War (1863-1864). The building is notable for its almost continuous use as a courthouse and has been closely linked to legal cases of national and international importance. These have included the earliest trial in New Zealand to involve fingerprint evidence, and the trial of those accused of sinking the 'Rainbow Warrior' in 1985. The building reveals much about 19th century life through its appearance and layout, including attitudes to justice, the organisation of legal affairs, and relationships between the public and the state. The preserved interiors also demonstrate prevailing fashions for decor and 19th century craft techniques. The Teutenberg carvings have high aesthetic appeal, and form a significant group of early colonial sculptures. The significance of the building is enhanced by its imposing landmark qualities.

Courtville (1912)

The Courtville building, on the corner of Waterloo Quadrant and Parliament Street, is a very early high-rise block of flats, which originally had 15 self-contained flats. It was built for private developers Mr Ernest Potter and William Stanton by James (later Sir James) Fletcher and was one of his early ventures in Auckland. Courtville is a very fine early example of inner city rental accommodation. It demonstrates a very sophisticated architectural statement with restrained use of ornate detail and a very unusual and innovative plan. The wide eaves and geometrically designed corbels show the influence of the architecture of Louis Sullivan and Frank Lloyd Wright of the Chicago School, while the corner treatment and dome is similar to the Dilworth Building in Queens Street and can be linked back to the architecture of Edwin Lutyens. It is a key building in the townscape with its splayed corner entrance and dome, which gives the intersection of Waterloo Quadrant and Parliament Street considerable emphasis. It is visually the most striking of the Courtville buildings and is of similar style to all of these. The building has provided comfortable inner city rental accommodation for hundreds of Aucklanders over the years, accumulating considerable social historical significance in the process.

Old Arts Block (1923-1926)

The building is one of the regions, and New Zealand's, most notable and elegant architectural landmarks. It features two wings, an adjoining student union block, and a central 'ivory tower' that is symbolic of higher educational achievement. The building was designed by the notable Australian architectural partnership of Lippincott and Bilson. It was built in 1923-26 by notable New Zealand civil engineering and construction firm Fletcher Construction Ltd., using Oamaru stone. It was opened in 1926 by then Governor General of New Zealand Sir Charles Fergusson, assisted by Sir George Fowlds CBE, who was Chairman of the University College Council at the time. The masonry of the entranceway building incorporates a notable example of the use of New Zealand ecological elements, including native plants and birds, and Art Nouveau motifs. The building includes regionally-notable mosaic tile work and internal staircases. It was fully renovated in the early 1990s and is still used for University of Auckland purposes.

The Northern Club (1867)

The Northern Club was built on the site of the earlier Royal Hotel. It was intended to be a hotel but was leased to the British Imperial Government as quarters for officers stationed at Albert Barracks until purchased by a gentlemen's club (The Northern Club) in 1869. The original building was designed by notable colonial architect Edward Mahoney, and was extended by notable Auckland architects Reader Wood and Edward Rumsey in 1884 to include a new dining room and 15 additional bedrooms. The Northern Club is a regionally notable and representative example of a large commercial building dating from the 1860s. It is the Auckland region's oldest private club and has been at the centre of the social life of Auckland's male elite for 150 years. It has been associated with numerous notable Aucklanders and has hosted members of the Royal Family. The building's exterior provides a regionally notable and representative example of a design inspired by the Italian palazzo style. The top storey features one of the region's finest examples of an entablature, and parapet. The building is an inner city landmark and an important component of the regionally significant Princes Street Historic Heritage Area. The building continues to operate as a private club, with women having been admitted from 1990. Its exterior is in original condition and its interior retains many original design features.

Emily Place Reserve and Churton Memorial

This park is the site of an early church and today contains historic trees and the Churton Memorial with this second iteration built in 1908-1909 in memory of Reverend J.F. Churton, the first vicar of St Paul's Anglican Church. The obelisk, base and steps of the memorial are constructed of Coromandel granite, with an inscribed slate tablet and brass plaque. It has been a public monument for over 100 years, marking the site of the first Anglican Church in colonial Auckland.

Cottage

This cottage on Bankside Street is a rare early cottage remaining in the central city. It is an early concrete residence of hydraulic lime concrete, this being the same material in the design of part of the original Jewish Synagogue nearby. The cottage has aesthetic significance for the simplicity of its design and for the visual interest and contrast it provides in relation to the modern multi-storey buildings that surround it.

Constitution Hill

Constitution Hill forms a significant 19th century landscape as part of the historic heritage area, including trees, landscaping, and the historic road that connected the government precinct to Parnell. The former Te Reuroa Pā is situated in the vicinity of this area.

Auckland Art Gallery (1885 - 1888)

Situated on a rising corner site at the junction of Wellesley and Kitchener Streets and below the hilltop of Albert Park, the Auckland Art Gallery, Toi o Tāmaki, was the first permanent art gallery in New Zealand. Constructed between 1885 and 1888, the Auckland Art Gallery was designed by Melbourne architects John H. Grainger and Charles A. D'Ebro. They were the winners of the Auckland City Council competition for a library building in 1884. For many years, the building had multiple functions as civic offices, a public library, and an art gallery.

The style of the building is 'Early French Renaissance', or 'French Chateau style'. Situated on a 120 degree corner site, the building is constructed of brick and plaster over three storeys and with an attic in the steep pitched roofs. There is a curved section which links the building and creates interest with an ogee-roofed tower. Alongside this curved section is the six storey clock tower. The corner tower houses a Palladian styled stairway and the former reference room of the library, which has a superb gallery supported on cast iron columns and protected by cast iron balustrades.

The harmonious proportioning of the building derives from the massing of parts and the sense of movement generated by alternating projecting and recessed frontages. The projecting bays have pavilion roofs with dormer windows, highlighted with console brackets and pediments. Corinthian pilasters flank other windows, and corners and ground floor windows have broken pediments.

The collections housed by the gallery include major holdings of New Zealand historic, modern and contemporary art, and works by Māori and Pacific Island artists. Additionally, there are European painting, sculpture and print collections, ranging in date from 1376 to the present day.

The Auckland Art Gallery was remodelled between 1969 and 1971 with the addition of the Edmiston Wing. At this time, the library was transferred to a new building and the gallery gained sole occupancy. Former uses of the building are as Civic facilities, for recreation both as an art gallery and library, and use as a Council/Local Government building.

In 2008 the Auckland City Council approved an extension, and alteration and renovation of the building.

Summary

The Princes Street Historic Heritage Area is characterised by a significant concentration and continuity of sites, buildings, structures, objects, and landscape features centred on Albert Park, one of Auckland's most significant 19th century recreational landscapes. The area has multiple and layered significance for its historical, social, mana whenua, aesthetic, knowledge, technological, and physical attributes values. The northern part of the Symonds Street ridge incorporates places of significance to Maori and was the epicentre of British administrative and military power in early New Zealand. Large parts of the area have archaeological value as part of the Albert Barracks site - the largest military barracks in colonial New Zealand. The Princes Street Historic Heritage Area is of exceptional overall historic heritage value. Many of the buildings, objects and features are individually included in the Schedule of Historic Heritage (Schedule 14.1) and/or the New Zealand Heritage List/ Rārangi Kōrero, and the area includes numerous scheduled individual and groups of notable trees.

Map 14.2.10.1 Historic Heritage Area: Princes Street

Schedule 14.2.11 Renall Street Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02512)

Statement of significance

The area includes a narrow street of original housing dating predominantly from the late 1860s, but also includes housing up to the early 20th century. It is a scarce remnant of Auckland's 19th century artisan housing and buildings, and its character is evocative of the humble streets of small-scale houses of that period. In addition to being within a historic heritage area, the houses in the historic heritage area are also scheduled as individual historic heritage places (refer to Schedule 14.1).

The area includes the stuccoed-brick Foresters' Hall, which was built soon after 1900 at 5 Renall Street. There are only a few houses from later periods within the historic heritage area, such as the California bungalows at 3 and 22 Renall Street. They retain the characteristics of that style and the simplified forms inherent from the era they were built. There have been modifications made to the building at 2 Renall Street but these modifications have come to form part of the historic fabric of the place.

Jeremiah Moloney bought parts of the land and laid out Renall Street. The street was set out in 1865 with a reserve width of only half a chain (ten metres). The street was named after Alfred William Renall, who was a Member of Parliament from 1858 to 1873. The narrowness of the street (at 33 feet) and of the sections is significant to the qualities of the place, with minimal distance between each property and building. The typical narrow lots of 7-8 perches (180-200m²) have survived to this day. The houses sit tightly together with minimal side yards, so that they are orientated entirely to the front and rear. The lots are shallow, and the houses sit well forward with little or no front yard. Planting is small scale and delicate. Only a narrow footpath separates the properties from the carriageway, a characteristic of artisan housing of the period. The ambience, at both the front and rear of the houses and buildings, is very compact, close-spaced, with tight density.

The qualities of the street are also derived from the steepness, the bend in the middle, and views of the harbour and to Freeman's Bay over the roof tops. The steep gradient and curve of the street allow the physical attributes of the housing to be appreciated more fully than in a straight level street. Because of this topography, each building plays a role in the visual composition of the streetscape. There is a feeling not only of enclosure but also of distance, due to the gradient of the street providing views of the harbour.

The street is aligned east-west, and the houses on the north side are single storied while those on the south side are mainly two-storied. This allows the latter properties to receive maximum sunlight.

The houses were built predominantly in the 1870s and 1880s, and remain largely unmodified. The oldest homes, located at 6 Renall Street and 8 Renall Street, date from the late 1860s. The houses are essentially simple in form and aligned square to the site boundaries. They are clad in weatherboard, with pitched roofs of corrugated iron. Brick chimneys are prominent. They have sash windows, with generally no bay. Timber ornamentation is generally simple and low key. Windows are predominantly double-hung. Door panels are Victorian. Low picket fences, in various designs, predominate.

The simple form of the buildings under a simple roof, with no roof additions or dormers has been retained. The intactness of the roof forms is a significant feature of Renall Street. Generally, there are no additions to the sides of the houses since the street has been subject to heritage management since 1973.

The street has been made one-way, and car parking is predominantly on-street. The side yards are too narrow for vehicular access and there is insufficient depth for parking in the front yard. In consequence, the front yards have largely retained their original character. Traditionally garages and carports were not part of the properties and there is generally limited ability for on-site parking structures. Several properties now have parking pads or carports and a few have garaging under the main house form. Appropriate scale, detail and location are important for any garaging proposed.

In the design of the house facade and treatment of the shallow front yard, there is a sense of propriety and formality facing the street. There is typically a front verandah over which the roof pitch flattens to impart a sense of welcome. The verandah acts as intermediate or transitional space between the public footpath and the privacy of the home, reflecting a time when the street was social space. The social interaction which is possible between the verandah and the footpath still survives to some extent today, particularly where high front fences have not been added. Bluestone kerbing remains a feature.

In terms of architectural character and social significance, a clear historical distinction exists between the front (publicly visible) elevation of the houses and the rear (the utility area, private and unseen) elevation. Expense was concentrated upon the front elevation, which was of formal design, with at least some degree of articulation and ornamentation. Within the finances of the family, it was their grand statement. The rear elevation was simple and plain, with an absence of ornamentation or articulation of surfaces. Additions were traditionally added to the rear. These architectural distinctions should be respected when designing alterations or extensions at the rear.

Schedule 14.2.12 Karangahape Road Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02739)

Statement of significance

The Karangahape Road Historic Heritage Area has significance for its historical association with the commercial and residential development of Auckland, from the time of the city's colonial establishment through to the mid-20th century. The area retains considerable significance due to the predominance of Victorian and Edwardian-era buildings that have survived modern redevelopment. The decorative physical appearance of these buildings combined with the unity of scale and form reflects the historical pattern of development and creates an urban landscape that is distinctive within Auckland. Despite the many changes that have occurred in the rest of the city throughout the years, Karangahape Road has retained its original purpose, which reinforces its significance as one of Auckland's earliest and most important commercial and entertainment areas.

Karangahape Road rose to prominence as a shopping area for the residential suburbs of Grey Lynn, Newton, and Ponsonby, and this function is tangible through the many shops, theatres and department store buildings that remain. The road serves as a main access point to the inner city from the outer suburbs through its connections with Grafton Bridge, Great North Road and Pitt Street, and provides an entry point to Symonds Street Cemetery, the earliest European cemetery in Auckland. The area also connects to historic Myers Park. Its location along a ridgeline served as a definitive division between the inner city and the suburbs, long before the arrival of the motorway interchanges.

The identified extent of place for the Karangahape Road Historic Heritage Area is the area of Karangahape Road in between Ponsonby Road at its eastern end and Symonds Street Cemetery at its western end. Included within this area are the buildings and areas that were part of the commercial and residential development of this area from Auckland's colonial settlement through to the era of Karangahape Road's decline in the mid-1960s.

The character of the area is dominated by the presence of Victorian, Edwardian, and Interwar-period commercial buildings. The buildings are generally two- to three-storeys and have a verandah that covers all or part of the footpath. These features have maintained the historical pattern of commercial development which define a retail landscape of the early-mid 20th century and reflect the core pattern of development for Karangahape Road. Along the associated side-streets there are more modest early and mid-20th century shops and warehouses that are part of the historical pattern of development and support the area's commercial importance.

There has been redevelopment along the road and in its surrounding area, resulting in the presence of modern infill buildings amongst the historic buildings of Karangahape Road. These have been included in the historic heritage area, but have been noted as non-contributors. Past precinct rules have required new buildings in the area to be sympathetic to the historical setting and character of the road, and infill buildings have generally had a neutral impact on the historical integrity of the street. The retention and sensitive adaptation of existing contributing buildings is important to retaining Karangahape Road’s historical integrity.

Schedule 14.2.14 Winstone Model Homes Historic Heritage Area

Historic Heritage Area (Schedule ID 02832)

Statement of significance

The Winstone Model Homes Historic Heritage Area is significant as an important group of houses constructed by Winstone Limited to showcase their line of locally manufactured building materials. The ten houses in this area were designed in the Arts and Crafts and English Cottage style and feature the Steeltex stucco cladding system. The area also demonstrates a cohesive context, including original lot sizes, open front gardens, and lack of infill development. The houses are part of the Royal Estate subdivision, one of the many housing developments undertaken by the Winstone family during the 1920s and 1930s.

The Winstone Model Homes Historic Heritage Area is situated at 26-42 (even numbers) Eldon Road and 41 and 43 Cambourne Road, in adjacent suburbs Balmoral and Sandringham, approximately five kilometres south of the Auckland Central Business District. The area features bluestone kerbing, street trees, footpaths and grass verges, all of which contribute to its suburban amenity and aesthetic.

The Winstone houses were built between 1933 and 1938 as part of the Royal Estate, a Depression-era housing subdivision initiated by Auckland building merchant company Winstone Limited. Despite the poor drainage associated with this land due to its proximity to Cabbage Tree Swamp, the Royal Estate was well-placed to take advantage of the existing tram service and established shops in nearby Dominion Road.

The Winstone family were active in suburban subdivision in Mt Roskill, Mt Eden, Epsom and Grey Lynn during the 1920s and 1930s. In addition to meeting a perceived need for affordable housing during the Depression, their interest in housing developments was also intended to showcase Winstone Limited's innovative building products, particularly their stucco lathing system "Steeltex". The Steeltex stucco cladding system represents an important innovation in construction in New Zealand. Not only does the construction technique respond directly to the 1935 New Zealand Standard Model Building By-Law, issued following the Napier earthquake, it also served as a solution to waning native timber stocks and high house construction prices.

Nine of the ten houses in this historic heritage area were constructed using the Steeltex system and still feature their original stucco cladding today, demonstrating the longevity of this construction technique. In addition to their shared construction materials and techniques, the Winstone houses were also designed using the same architectural language (the show home at 38 Eldon Road was designed by architect Basil Hooper). The houses are all essentially small, one-storey bungalows with Arts and Crafts and/or English Cottage style features. The Winstone houses are characterised by asymmetry of both their design and form and also a number of other features including: timber or steel joinery in a variety of shapes, sizes and placements; gable and/or hipped roof forms clad with Marseilles tiles; a small porch or entry portico; sparing use of plain or pigmented plastered detailing, especially around windows, doors or on chimneys; and chimneys (both stuccoed and un-stuccoed) that feature prominently in the design and help balance the asymmetry.

The context or setting of the Winstone houses is equally important to their collective value. The Arts and Crafts and English Cottage aesthetics were as much about the house as the spacious and well-vegetated setting. The large front gardens of the Winstone houses are generally landscaped with low plantings and trees, sometimes in a formal English garden style (house setback is quite varied, ranging from five meters to 15.5 meters, with an average of ten meters). All ten houses have a formed path leading to the front door and some have provision for parking (a parking pad or driveway) in front or alongside the house. None of the houses have garaging or carports either in front or in the side yards, except 38 and 42 Eldon Road. If provided, garaging is generally located behind the houses, in the rear yard. Front boundary treatments in this area are varied, including stucco walls, picket fences and hedges – but are universally low in height. Boundary treatments to the side and rear are generally less formal, and feature either a timber fence or mature vegetation.

The historic subdivision pattern in this area is intact; none of the land parcels have been subdivided. Site sizes in this area range from 500-650m², and all ten houses are located on the full extent of their original site, though the houses near the corner do extend across an original parcel boundary through the middle of their sites.

Number 32 Eldon Road is a weatherboard house, likely dating from the 1950s. While this is a replacement building (and a non-contributor to the historic heritage area), it follows the original subdivision pattern and average setback of the neighbouring Winstone houses. There is no infill housing in this area. Some minor development has taken place at the rear of most of the houses, such as extensions, decks, garaging, sheds, and/or pools.

Schedule 14.2.16 Point Chevalier Shops Historic Heritage Area Historic Heritage Area (Schedule ID 02834)

Statement of significance

The Point Chevalier Shops Historic Heritage Area is significant because it illustrates the historical development of Point Chevalier as both a suburb and a destination for recreation. The shops on Point Chevalier Road were constructed during the Inter-war period, when the suburb was amalgamated into Auckland City and the first tram lines were laid. The shop locations are closely linked to the development of the tram and associated tram stops, providing a clear illustration of the development of the suburb. The shops also reflect the development of suburban shops, demonstrating the way residential uses were combined with retail. Collectively, the shops and their associated residences have considerable coherence and contribute to the sense of place of Point Chevalier.

The area is a non-contiguous group of ten local and corner shops along Point Chevalier Road. The area is located in the suburb of Point Chevalier, approximately 5.5 kilometres west of the Auckland Central Business District. Point Chevalier Road generally runs northwest as far as Raymond Street, then turns and continues generally northeast until it reaches Coyle Park at the end of the peninsula. Blue stone kerbing and footpaths extend along most of the road, and these characteristics contribute to its urban amenity and aesthetic.

The Point Chevalier shops include both one- and two-storey buildings constructed of plastered brick or timber in an Inter-war Stripped Classical style. The shops are characterised by parapets and suspended verandahs; some have recessed entries surrounded by large plate glass display windows. Some buildings feature the following elements: a shaped parapet, original timber or steel joinery, leadlight glazing above transoms, and/or Stripped Classical plaster detailing. Where shopfronts from the period of significance are intact, their design and materials should be retained.

Most of the shops in this historic heritage area were originally constructed to accommodate both commercial and residential uses, with a clear physical distinction between these uses that is still legible today. The residential component of each building is generally located to the rear or side of the shop, often takes on a more domestic form and style and, in particular, references the bungalow architectural language. These portions of each building are characterised by weatherboard or plastered brick cladding; a shallow-pitched hipped, gabled or mono-pitch roof; exposed rafters; casement and/or bay windows; and chimneys with simple caps. These residential components are an important part of the suburban shop building type, and should be retained.

The context of the Point Chevalier shops is predominantly residential, and reflects a way of life that was once common, when people shopped every day and relied on neighbourhood outlets within walking distance. In contrast to their residential neighbours, the shops are all built to the front boundary of the property, with no set back, and with a verandah extending over the adjacent footpath. They have no front boundary treatment, though most have a timber fence or hedge along the side and/or rear yards. Most of the shops have some landscaping in the rear yard, which is associated with the residential component of the building.

The historic subdivision pattern is generally intact. Site sizes range from 420-1200m², and all ten buildings are located on the full extent of their original site. None of the land parcels have been formally subdivided, though several are cross-leased, with infill development in the rear yard. Other development has taken place in the rear yard, including extensions to the original houses or shops, and garages and/or sheds; these are not usually significant in terms of their historic heritage values, and have been identified as exclusions.

Schedule 14.2.17 Upland Village Historic Heritage Area (Schedule ID 02841)

Statement of significance

Upland Village HHA is a small retail hub located within Remuera, one of Auckland's oldest and most affluent residential suburbs. Established around the crossroads of Remuera, Upland and Minto Roads within the eastern portion of the suburb, the area represents one of Auckland's most intact small-scale shopping centres principally established during the interwar era.

Upland Village's first and most important phase of development occurred between 1915 and 1938, a 23-year period of significance that captures its commercial origins following the extension of the eastern tramline to Upland Road, its most prolific period of construction during the 1920s, and the erection of its last building in the late-1930s.

Prior to the commencement of Upland Village's commercial development, the area was predominantly rural with a small number of residences located on and near the land now occupied by the shopping centre. The gradual subdivision of allotments and larger lots into smaller (albeit irregular) sections during the early decades of the twentieth century resulted in an underlying layout and building arrangement that remains legible today.

The establishment of the centre was closely linked to the arrival of the electric tramline to Upland Road in 1913, which encouraged residential expansion and prompted the establishment of shops and services to support the growing local community. Following the formation of the first two buildings on the corners of Remuera and Minto roads in 1915 and 1917, Upland Village's development occurred swiftly and simultaneously on both sides of Remuera Road. By the end of the 1920s, the majority of the area was built out with blocks of residential shops and lock-ups. This was followed by the construction of two additional buildings in the 1930s.

Upland Village is a well-defined commercial core that adopts a traditional, but small, main street configuration. It maintains a relatively dense development pattern produced by the positioning of the structures of the street edge, with only minor variation in rhythm and setback. Its strong collection of commercial buildings define the area and illustrate the eastern expansion of the Remuera district during the early decades of the twentieth century. The majority of the buildings were established as 'residential shops', offering a range of services on the ground floor that developed to meet the needs of the growing community and with living quarters on the first floor. Other building types included a service station and substation.

The architecture, scale and construction of development within Upland Village provide a strong sense of cohesion, continuity and permanence, and collectively reflect the area's first phase of development. Designed in styles associated with the interwar period, the most prevalent being the Stripped Classical and Spanish Mission styles, the buildings generally represent a more modest interpretation of the designs adopted for larger commercial buildings in urban centres. Notable examples within the area include the block of structures on the northern side of Remuera Road (586-608 Remuera Road). Several buildings were designed by local architects, including E. Rupert Morton, Frederick A. Browne, H. S. James and E. T. Hawkes.

The buildings are predominantly of two-storey construction, interspersed with a small number of single-storey structures. They generally take the form of terraced shops, with an almost continuous line of ground-floor verandahs suspended from the principal elevations. The predominant building material is brick and/or concrete, with finishes that include painted render, painted or exposed brick, and stucco. Rear elevations, visible from the access lanes behind the shops, are generally of exposed brick. Roofs are mainly clad with corrugated metal, with some examples of clay tiles. Traditional shop fronts have given way to modern timber or aluminium replacements, while first floor fenestration appears to remain largely unchanged and comprise timber casements and sash windows. The scale and extent of signage varies across the area. With the exception of one site (561 Remuera Road), only minor changes appear to have occurred to the rear of the buildings.

Upland Village is considered an area of local historic heritage significance. It has historical value for reflecting important development patterns and representative aspects of Auckland's transport and commercial history during the interwar period – a time of marked advancement in the locality and region. Established following the advent of the electric tram at Upland Road in 1913, the area has value for its intimate association with the expansion of Auckland's electric tram network and for reflecting the progressive eastward development of the Remuera suburb during the early decades of the twentieth century. It is particularly significant as the only known interwar shopping centre in the isthmus to develop in direct response to the arrival of the electric tram and location of its terminus, and notably exists as one of the most intact examples of commercial development in Auckland's eastern suburbs associated with this important theme.

The swift growth of Upland Village is apparent in its group of buildings that collectively reflect the construction boom of the interwar period and the composition of small-scale commercial centres during that time. The area has physical attributes value as a notable representative example of a traditional small-scale shopping centre, which developed swiftly and compactly during this time in Auckland. Its largely intact group of masonry buildings are of particular value for their strong sense of cohesion and continuity, and for modestly reflecting architectural styles and trends in commercial interwar architecture. Although the buildings within Upland Village have experienced change over time, most noticeably to their shop fronts, the overall integrity of their historic form, features and fabric remains.

Creating a definable geographical area that can be distinguished from its residential surroundings, Upland Village has context value for its individual components that when taken together form a historic townscape that is notable for its unified built form and strong associations with a key period in Remuera's history. Its uninterrupted blocks of buildings collectively contribute to the area's sense of place and legibility as an intact retail hub in the locality and as one of only a small number of authentic interwar centres in Auckland.

In comparing Upland Village with other traditional town centres and smaller retail hubs within Auckland, similarities in location, historical development and physical qualities are apparent in some cases. Despite its establishment as a secondary commercial centre within the suburb of Remuera, rather than the principal town centre, Upland Village appears to be no less expressive of Auckland's important period of commercial development during the 1920s and 1930s. It also represents a notable representative example of a small-scale commercial centre in the isthmus. Whilst Upland Village is one many commercial centres associated with Auckland's electric tram network, it is the only known example to develop as a direct result of the tramline extension and exists as one of the most intact examples along its former eastern route. In the Remuera context, Upland Village represents a strong group of commercial buildings that reflect the swift development that occurred during a period of pronounced growth and prosperity in the locality.

Map 14.2.17.1 Historic Heritage Area: Upland Village

Schedule 14.2.18 Pūhoi Township Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02849)

Statement of significance

Located in a valley on the banks of Pūhoi River, the Pūhoi township was established in 1863 by German-speaking Bohemian immigrants from the Staab region of the present-day Czech Republic. The town was established as a “special settlement” under the terms of the 1858 Auckland Waste Lands Act, through which the province offered prospective European immigrants free 40-acre blocks, disposing of unsold “waste land” it had acquired from Māori through Crown pre-emption.

The Pūhoi township has outstanding historical value as an intact 19th century “special settlement”, representing a phase in the history of New Zealand when there was considerable effort to change the environment and make-up of the population to be a colony of the British Empire. The township also has significance as one of few settlements established by non-English-speaking settlers from mainland Europe through the Auckland Waste Lands Act (1858) legislation. The great majority were from England, Scotland and Ireland. Indeed, the Pūhoi township was the first Bohemian settlement in New Zealand, and the only one in the Auckland region (one other, smaller, settlement being set up in Ohaupo in Waikato in the 1860s).

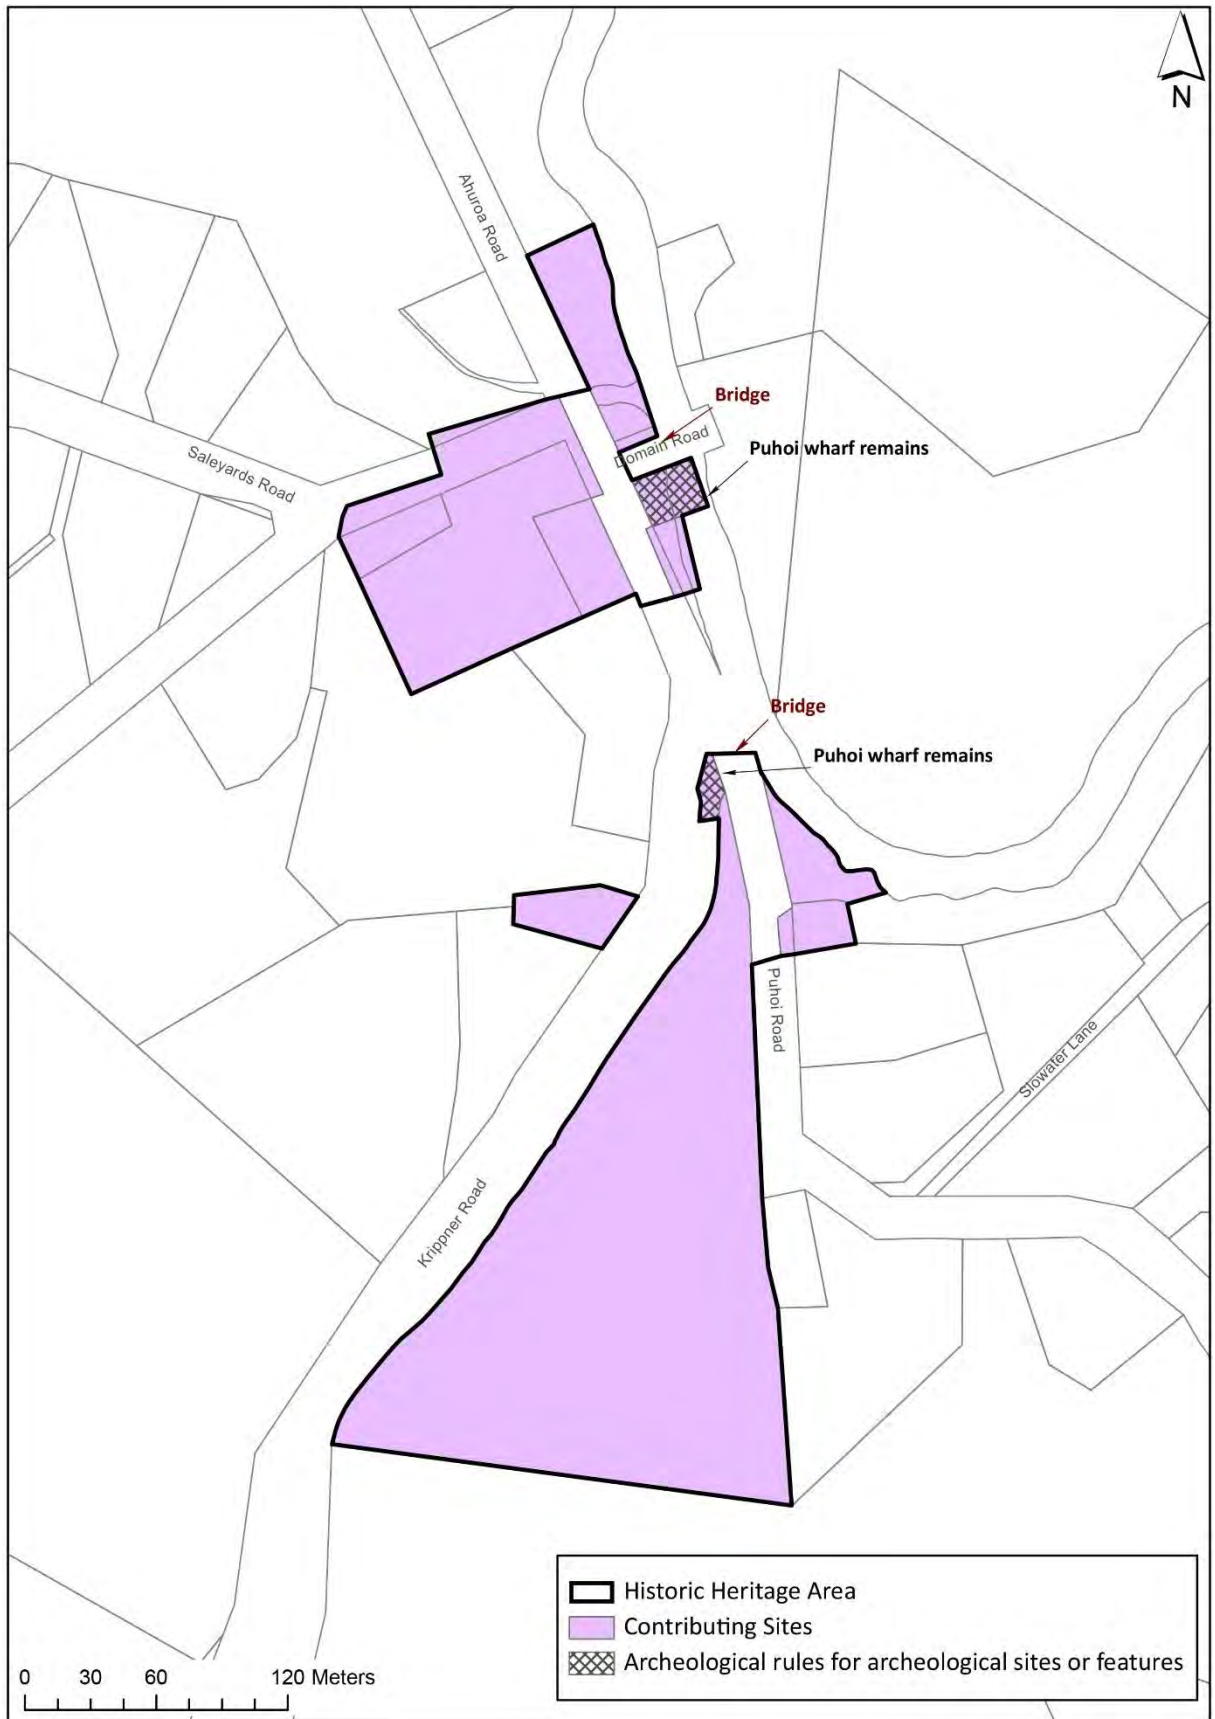

The Pūhoi township began to flourish in the 1870s and civic, religious and commercial buildings were built, many of which still exist today. By the early- to mid-20th century the settlement included a church (1881) (including a 1906 presbytery, a 1922 convent school, and a 1923 convent), stables (1883), workers residences (1886 and 1901), a community hall (1900), a hotel (1901), a library (1913), a wharf shed (1924), and a general store (1939). All of these buildings still exist. Other buildings and structures were also built but no longer remain today. However, sites and remnants are still apparent in the township, including the remnants of the 1877 wharf and Pūhoi Road bridge (late 19th century), as well as the (now vacant) sites of the landing spot and first buildings of the settlement (1863), the Schischka boarding house and store (built 1876), the blacksmith premises (1880s), and the first presbytery (1880). The Pūhoi township has considerable context value as a well-preserved example of a colonial New Zealand town dating from the second half of the 19th century, and indeed one of the most distinct and discernible “special settlements” established in the 1860s.

The Pūhoi township is generally characterised by ribbon development along the main roads. The Pūhoi township has a strong rural village character, with buildings located in varied positions and orientations, generally facing the main road. The Pūhoi River is an important and prominent feature, running adjacent to Pūhoi/Ahuroa Road from the bend in Ahuroa Road in the north to close to the intersection between Pūhoi Road and Krippner Road in the south. Two tributary channels from the Pūhoi River are located west of the river under the main road. On the eastern side of Pūhoi Road is reserve (grassed) land, the location of many early buildings (but no longer extant) and memorials to the Bohemian settlers. As a whole, the Pūhoi township has considerable aesthetic value as a picturesque rural settlement, of 19th century origin. Its collection of late-19th to early-20th century buildings and structures, together with trees and the rural and river backdrop, provides strong visual appeal.

Pūhoi township's collection of buildings from its key period of development (1863-1939) has considerable physical attributes value. Most of the buildings have had minor additions and alterations, but these do not substantially affect their physical attribute values. Two of the historical buildings particularly stand out as local landmarks due to their height and picturesque appearance: the Church of St Peter and St Paul – on the northern end of the township – and the Pūhoi Hotel – at the southern end of the township. All the historical buildings are constructed in timber with metal roofs, with the exception of the concrete and plaster Pūhoi Library and the Pūhoi Store. The buildings are generally in a simple vernacular style, similar to other late 19th and early 20th century buildings of their type. However, the Church of St Peter and St Paul – designed by the early notable Auckland architect James Wrigley – and the convent school (1922) and convent (1923) – designed by well-known Auckland architect Thomas Mahoney – stand out as architecturally-designed buildings.

Pūhoi has considerable social value and is held in high esteem by the descendants of the Bohemian settlers of the 1860s and 1870s. Jubilee celebrations commemorating the arrival of the first settlers in 1863 were, and continue to be held, through the 20th and 21st centuries, drawing large crowds. Memorials were made to mark occasions, including the Pūhoi Pioneers Memorial Park (1938 – 75th anniversary), the memorial gate to the park (1953 – 90th anniversary), a Wayside Shrine on Pūhoi Road (1953 – 90th anniversary), the Pūhoi landing stone (1988 – 125th anniversary), and a time capsule in the landing reserve (2013 – 150th anniversary).

Schedule 14.2.20 Parkfield Terrace Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02851)

Statement of significance

Parkfield Terrace has significance for illustrating the last phase of residential subdivision and development in Grafton. While the surrounding land had been subdivided beginning in the 1860s, the subject area remained in use as the Bennett and Green Ltd plant nursery until 1911. Parkfield Terrace is now one of the few remaining areas of suburban residential development in the area, following the demolition of much of the housing stock for the construction of State Highway 1. This residential subdivision helps define Grafton as a suburb and demonstrates a historic pattern of development that was once common in the city fringe, but is becoming increasingly rare.

The area is a contiguous grouping of 22 houses along Parkfield Terrace, which is located in the suburb of Grafton, approximately 600m from the edge of the Auckland Central Business District. Parkfield Terrace is a cul-de-sac road extending from Khyber Pass and connecting to Carlton Gore Road via a pedestrian walkway. Bluestone kerbing, footpaths and mature plane trees extend along the road, and these characteristics contribute to its historical value, urban amenity and aesthetic.

The residences included in Parkfield Terrace are one- or one-and-a-half storey timber houses in styles that were popular during the early years of the 20th century, including villas, transitional villas and bungalows. In particular, the area includes good examples of smaller types of these styles, including bungalow cottages and centre-bay villas. Collectively, the area has exceptional consistency in terms of its scale, fabric, massing, rhythm of development, setback and subdivision pattern. The area is almost entirely as built, with only one of the original houses missing (due to being destroyed by a fire). Generally, houses retain a high degree of physical integrity and have had few significant modifications.

The historic subdivision pattern is intact. Lot sizes are small - ranging from 215m²-330m² - as their size was constrained by surrounding development. All houses in the area are located on the full extent of their original site, and none of the land parcels have been formally subdivided. Minor development has taken place in the side and rear yards of sites where the narrow side and rear yards permit. This type of development usually amounts to a small extension to, or replacement of, the original lean-to and a garage or shed.

Houses are built close to the front property boundaries with a small setback of around 1.5-2m. The visual appeal of the houses is enhanced by low timber, brick or stone fencing (usually around 1m), which ensures houses are open to the street. Some houses have small gardens or other plantings in front, which combine with the mature street trees to give the area a strong sense of place.

The context of Parkfield Terrace is that of an urban residential subdivision, close to the City Centre and the amenities in Karangahape Road and Newmarket. This location contextualises the area as a city fringe subdivision, developed with a reliance on public, rather than private, transport.

Schedule 14.2.21 Jervois Road Streamline Moderne/Art Deco Block Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02852)

Statement of significance

The Jervois Road Streamline Moderne/Art Deco Block is a cohesive group of Streamline Moderne/Art Deco-style apartment buildings that represent an important period of development in Herne Bay and inner suburban Auckland. They are the most intact grouping of this type of building from this period in Auckland. Built between the late 1930s and early 1940s, the group consists of nine lots, located between 175 Jervois Road and 2 Salisbury Street, Herne Bay.

All but one of the apartment buildings occupy the entire Jervois Road frontage of the block that was formerly a tram barn (depot) site. The site, between Wallace Street and Salisbury Street on Jervois Road, was a facility that served the Auckland Tram network from the 1880s until 1929. Herne Bay developed as a suburb during this period, and consequently the area around the tram barn has strong Victorian and Edwardian character.

The Jervois Road tram barn was replaced in 1929 by a larger facility in the city. The building was demolished, freeing up the land for subdivision. However, the onset of the Great Depression meant that the property remained undeveloped for almost a decade. In the late 1930s and early 1940s, the properties were finally developed. The developers appeared to share an interest in the popular Streamline Moderne/Art Deco architectural style and were happy to invest in a relatively new (and dramatically different) form of housing: multi-unit apartment buildings.

The row is a highly intact grouping of apartment buildings or 'flats' designed in, or influenced by, the 'Streamline Moderne' typology with the exception of the single storey English Cottage Revival house at 183 and the former duplex at 185 Jervois Road. Varying in size and height, the buildings are all located close to the front of their lot, with a minor setback – most are around 4m from the front boundary. The properties at 183 and 185 Jervois Road are set back a little further (8-9m). The apartment buildings take up most of the area of the lots, with garages (part of the original design) found at the rear. Only one property (183 Jervois Road) has infill to the rear.

The north-eastern half of the block is generally open to the street, with either no wall, or a low masonry wall fronting the street. The south-western half of the block has higher masonry walls fronting the street, with the exception of 2 Salisbury Street which has a hedge.

The apartments are of masonry construction, with textured stucco cladding. Apart from some minor alterations over time, the buildings have retained their original form and characteristics. Notable features of the Streamline Moderne/Art Deco architectural design of the buildings include: fenestration (banks of casement windows), high parapets (and flat roofs), horizontal coloured bands, dimensional lettering (showing the name of each building), and textured stucco finish. Some buildings also have curved flowing façades.

All but one of the buildings are known to have been architecturally designed, most by architect A.C. Jeffries (but also A.S. O'Connor and A.B. Cocombe). These architects were prolific Auckland architects during the interwar period, drawing on architectural fads of the time, including the Spanish Mission and Art Deco styles. The Jervois Road Streamline Moderne/Art Deco Block buildings are illustrative and highly intact examples of a design type for which they were noted.

The apartment buildings have regional historical significance as they represent the shifting lifestyles of the period and the approach taken at that time to provide a more intensive alternative form of residential accommodation (especially around tram routes).

Forming a highly cohesive and visible group, the apartment buildings are a landmark feature in the locality. Situated in a prominent position along the Jervois Road ridge, they are clearly visible from the street and are considerably significant for their aesthetic and contextual values. The end buildings, "Raycourt" sweeping around the corner of Wallace Street, and "Riverina" on the corner of Salisbury with the Salisbury apartments opposite, are focal points in the local urban landscape. In the Herne Bay context, they are an extraordinary collective grouping of apartment buildings, in an area that historically and to a large extent still is predominantly individual villas on their own lots.

Schedule 14.2.22 Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area Historic Heritage Area (Schedule 14.1 ID 02853)

Statement of significance

The Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area on Findlay Street and Hewson Street in Ellerslie is a group of 22 workers' dwellings that were constructed between 1908 and 1919 under the Workers' Dwellings Acts of 1905 and 1910. The area was part of the Lawry Settlement, which was one of three workers' dwellings settlements in Auckland, and the largest planned settlement in New Zealand.

The Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area is of considerable national historical significance for associations with the Workers' Dwellings Acts of 1905 and 1910, which were the first central government-led legislation in the western world providing for the government to build public housing for its citizens.

Specifically, the Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area has strong historical associations with the Lawry Settlement, of which it was a part. Named after Liberal Government Member of Parliament, Francis (Frank) Lawry, the area which includes a highly intact grouping of original workers' dwellings that assists greatly in understanding the roots of New Zealand's State Housing program.

The Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area predominantly retains its street-facing pattern of development. Together with the deep setbacks, low fencing or hedging and a general lack of garaging in front yards, the layout of the area continues to reflect the ideals of a suburban community, as originally envisioned by the First Labour Government.

Workers' dwellings within the Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area are early State-designed housing by government architect Woburn Temple. In their design and construction, they exemplify the notion that State Housing should be indistinguishable from private housing. Workers' dwellings were designed to be high quality and included a range of amenities. Special attention was paid to ventilation and sanitation, and modern conveniences such as hot-water and indoor plumbing were included.

Temple prepared a set of 24 house plans (later reduced to 15) that future residents could choose from; the Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area contains examples of six of Temple's plans, and they are the only known examples in the region. The houses are characterised by their villa and transitional villa style and materiality, their massing, roof form, weatherboard cladding, timber joinery, ornamentation, and corrugated metal roofing. All dwellings remain single-storey and most dwellings have a lean-to styled roof extending to their rear.

Distinctive features of Temple's designs remain evident in the area, including cant windows and side entries. Timber ornamentation including eaves brackets, gable detailing, shingles and fretwork are highly visible, with some designs displaying geometric and Arts and Crafts influences. Many houses retain at least one decorative chimney which are a significant feature in the streetscape. The houses largely retain their original architectural features and built form.

The area also exhibits aesthetic value in its well-maintained wide berms, its consistent patterning of mature street trees and the integrity of the original bluestone kerbing across the entire area. Infill development is present in the streetscape but is not a dominant feature.

The houses within the Workers' Dwellings Act Housing Area have considerable value as part of a wider cultural and thematic context of State Housing across Auckland and New Zealand. Houses on Findlay Street and Hewson Street comprise a group of interrelated places which have coherence because of shared age, architectural style, and historical associations. The houses contribute to the townscape of Ellerslie and have a streetscape character and sense of place.

The period of significance is between 1905 when the first Workers' Dwellings Act was passed, to 1923 when the government decided not to pursue further development in the Lawry Settlement.
